PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 109th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

SENATE—Sunday, December 18, 2005

The Senate met at 6 p.m. and was called to order by the President pro tempore (Mr. STEVENS).

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

O God who reigns forever, judging the nations with righteousness and the people with Your truth, let Your mercy rest upon the nations and Your compassion dwell among the people. Give us a peace in this season of good will that does not depend upon externals, as You empower us to trust You, even in the storms.

Bless America to promote justice and understanding within her boundaries and unto the ends of the Earth.

Strengthen the Members of this body for this evening's journey, deliver them from any shortsighted policy of selfishness, exploitation, or expediency. Give them the courage to live up to their lofty professions and grant that each of us may overcome fear, apathy, or arrogance that keep us from honoring You.

We pray in Your holy Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The PRESIDENT pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

> I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will now be a period for the transaction of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, we have returned this evening to session awaiting various conferences to finish their work and for House action on the remaining conference reports. We need to remain in session this evening in case those conference reports do become available. When we are certain one way or the other on the timing of the Defense conference reports, we will make a decision on the length of the session. Certainly if the conference report will not be available before midnight, then I do not anticipate a late evening. We should know something about that within the next couple of hours.

We cannot rule that in or out at this point. Therefore, we will monitor the timing closely and then make further announcements.

For tomorrow, we continue to try to set votes on seven district judges who are on the calendar. If we are not able to reach an agreement for that shortly—I hope we can set those votes for a time certain so we can alert Members. I will be discussing this shortly with the Democratic leader. Again, we will be doing our best to get word to the Senators shortly as to the schedule for this evening and tomorrow.

People have worked through last night and throughout today on these conference reports and there has been a lot of activity in the last hour or hour and a half. Shortly, I will come back to the floor with something more certain in terms of the schedule for later tonight as well as tomorrow.

RECOGNITION OF THE DEMOCRATIC LEADER

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Democratic leader is recognized.

DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS CONFERENCE REPORT

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I have said on previous occasions how much I care about this institution, but I have trouble expressing how disappointed I am as to what is going on. The arrogance of power of the Republicans in the House and the Senate is beyond my ability to comprehend. The Republican leadership now is attempting to impose the most cynical and I believe abusive practice in this pending conference report that, if successful, has the potential of changing the way this body operates forever. We will become another House of Representatives.

Any conference report can set the tone of debate, the hours of debate, the parameters of debate. If the Senate does that, it will no longer be the Senate that was led by some of the greats such as Mansfield and Dirksen. I say this respectfully. I do not know how anyone would allow this to happen, those who have the ability to do it. There have been issues I felt strongly about, but I always played within the rules. That is not what is happening here. The game is being changed, the rules of the game are being changed in the middle of the game.

In the Senate and the House, the rules are that the conferees are not allowed to include in the conference report any matter that was not submitted to the conference by either House. This avoids the possibility of conferees including legislation that would not pass either one House or the other on its own and forces the Congress to reach a consensus on controversial legislation. This process has served the Senate well for more than 200 years.

But the Republicans in Congress and the White House simply do not care about rules and they break them when it suits their interests. This conference report violates Senate rules on scope and is a cynical attempt to leverage support for funding our troops at war in order to include numerous extraneous items for special interests that could not pass the Senate on their own.

They have included—and we all know what this is about—the authority for oil companies to drill in the Alaska Wildlife Refuge, I say to the American people, that this year are making $100 billion. But that is not enough. This abuse of power will have long-term ramifications in this body and is as bad or worse than anything ever attempted before, including the nuclear option. But in the future, if this goes forward, any matter, including nominations of a Secretary of State—you could limit debate for our giving consent on a Secretary of State to 20 minutes equally divided. All you have to do is stick it in a conference report.

There has never been an attempt in the Senate like this to similarly abuse our practices. When they have occurred, they have been ruled out of order or the leaders of the respective parties in this body have said you are going too far. The Senate has a series of precedents prohibiting bootstrapping a procedural fix in the same bill that violated the particular rule. Those precedents should be applied here to prevent this abuse of practice. If this practice is allowed to stand, then the Republican majority, or any majority, can change the rules in the Senate procedure prospectively in a conference committee without any say by the minority party by a simple majority vote on an unrelated conference report.

To show the cynicism of this whole charade, in the same conference report they reverse the rule. Now, try that one on. These rules mean nothing. It is like a game of Monopoly with grade school kids. But this is the Senate. It is not a Monopoly game.

This next few days is going to take longer than a Monopoly game, and some of those take a long time. If the rules are going to be played with—and they are being played with—then they are going to have to follow every rule. If you want a vote on a nomination, then invoke cloture on it.

This is a dark day in the history of the American constitutional form of government.

We become the House of Representatives. The Founding Fathers didn't want two House of Representatives. They wanted a bicameral legislature. But we become the House of Representatives, and the possibilities are endless in an institution that exists to forge a consensus and not act on the whims of whichever majority party is in control at the time. We become similar to the House of Commons. Whoever has the most votes wins. We haven't worked that way for 216 years.

This abusive practice will allow any majority to alter any rule at any time for the consideration of any measure to advance its short-term political interests and will change the very nature of the Senate.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BURNS). The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

ORDERS FOR MONDAY, DECEMBER 19, 2005

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the Senate completes its business today, it stand in adjournment until 9:30 a.m. on Monday, December 19. I further ask that following the prayer and pledge, the mourning hour be deemed expired, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the time for the two leaders be reserved, and the Senate then proceed to a period for morning business with Senators permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ENSIGN). Without objection, it is so ordered.

PROGRAM

Mr. FRIST. Mr. President, tomorrow we expect to have the remaining conference reports from the House of Representatives. Much of the activity tonight and all of the activity over the course of the day has been the generation of those conference reports. Since neither of those are going to be available to us this evening, there is no reason for us to remain in session. We will turn to one of those conference reports in the morning and hopefully get closer to finishing our work before Christmas.

Bless the work of the people which is committed to the U.S. House of Representatives today, that this Nation may grow in righteousness and, as a democratic republic, be an example to other nations of the earth.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Texas (Mr. POE) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. POE led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

> I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair will entertain up to 10 one-minutes on each side.

ECONOMY PROMOTES AMERICAN FAMILIES

(Mr. WILSON of South Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WILSON of South Carolina. Mr. Speaker, while I would be happy to report all of the good news about today's economy, it would certainly take me more than 1 minute.

By decreasing taxes and eliminating unnecessary government regulations, President Bush and Republican leaders have created strong economic growth that has delivered a long list of benefits to the American families.

Four point five million new jobs have been created since May 2003. Home sales reached a record high in October with the highest percentage of American home ownership in history. Consumer prices decreased last month by 0.6 percent, the largest decrease since 1949. Energy prices recently dropped by 8 percent. The unemployment rate is lower than the average of the past 3 decades. The economy grew at 4.3 percent over the last 10 quarters. Productivity soared in the last quarter by 4.7 percent, reducing fears of inflation.

Although we are pleased about these excellent economic indicators, we are not satisfied. House Republicans will continue to promote policies that create jobs for all American families.

In conclusion, God bless our troops, and we will never forget September 11.

DRILLING IN THE ARCTIC

(Mr. KUCINICH asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, the drilling for oil in the coastal plain of the Arctic Refuge, called by the Gwich'in Tribe "the Sacred Place Where All Life Begins" will disrupt caribou calving grounds, lead to the long-term decline not only of the herd, but of the Gwich'in Tribe which depends on the herd for survival.

Christian teaching tells us to do unto others as we would have them do unto ourselves. We learn from other spiritual insights that what we do unto others we actually do to ourselves. We cannot in the consciousness of true American spirit return to a history of exploitation of native tribes anymore than we could return to a history of slavery or a history where women had no rights.

We must make our stand now to change our path by changing who we are. When we perpetrate acts of violence onto others we are damaging ourselves as humans. We cannot do this to the Arctic Refuge because it will destroy the land, it will destroy the herd, it will destroy the tribe. Another part of the true America will die.

We must not only search for alternative energy. We must search for an alternative way to live. We must escape this cycle of destruction. We must reconcile with nature in this season of peace. We must find a new path to peace on Earth with our native brothers and sisters and within ourselves.

CHRISTMAS 1776

(Mr. POE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. POE. Mr. Speaker, one week from today is Christmas, and on Christmas in 1776, Americans were at war for freedom. General Washington and his colonials crossed the Delaware River into New Jersey and defeated the British who were caught celebrating.

This Christmas Americans are at war for freedom in lands far, far away. They, like Washington's men, will not be home for Christmas.

The price of freedom is eternal vigilance, they say. The price is also counted in the cost of human sacrifice. Our troops in Iraq and Afghanistan that will never return for another Christmas gave their lives for the same ideas that Washington's men gave their lives for. We call it freedom. Mr. Speaker, you notice I say gave their lives, not lost their lives, because their lives were voluntarily sacrificed on the altar of liberty.

In the War of Independence, 4,600 Americans died, and in all wars for freedom, over 1.5 million Americans have died. They gave their youth for freedom's future. So, as the church bells ring this Sunday before Christmas, let us be reminded of the ring of the Liberty Bell that tolls the words: "Let freedom ring throughout the land."

That's just the way it is.

PROGRESS IN IRAQ

(Ms. FOXX asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Ms. FOXX. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the Iraqi people for their third successful democratic election, the United States Armed Services men and women, and the American people who support our military and their families.

Mr. Speaker, democracy dealt terrorism another major blow on Thursday with the successful free Iraqi election. This election was a crucial victory for Iraq's new democracy and a defeat for terrorists who seek to destroy that democracy. The Iraqi people have proven they long for freedom and continue to fight the terrorists who wish to take their freedom away, and with the continued help of American and coalition forces, Congress and the President, Iraq will soon be a prosperous and freedom-loving Nation.

Mr. Speaker, we all know the valiant heroics of our military and the sacrifices they have made to ensure our safety. They have fought bravely and served honorably. No one can ever dispute the character of our Armed Forces.

☐ This symbol represents the time of day during the House proceedings, e.g., ☐ 1407 is 2:07 p.m.

I salute the Iraqis for taking the next step toward a free nation and our Armed Forces for helping them.

PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF MOTIONS TO SUSPEND THE RULES

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 631 and ask for its immediate consideration.

H. RES. 631

Resolved, That it shall be in order at any time on the legislative day of Sunday, December 18, 2005, for the Speaker to entertain motions that the House suspend the rules relating to the following measures:

(1) The bill (H.R. 1185) to reform the Federal deposit insurance system, and for other purposes.

(2) A bill to reauthorize the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families block grant program through March 31, 2006, and for other purposes.

(3) The resolution (H. Res. 545) expressing the sense of the House of Representatives on the arrest of Sanjar Umarov in Uzbekistan.

(4) The concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 284) expressing the sense of Congress with respect to the 2005 presidential and parliamentary elections in Egypt.

(5) The bill (H.R. 4501) to amend the Passport Act of June 4, 1920, to authorize the Secretary of State to establish and collect a surcharge to cover the costs of meeting the increased demand for passports as a result of actions taken to comply with section 7209(b) of the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act of 2004.

(6) The bill (S. 1988) to authorize the transfer of items in the War Reserves Stockpile for Allies, Korea.

(7) The bill (H.R. 2329) to permit eligibility in certain circumstances for an officer or employee of a foreign government to receive a reward under the Department of State Rewards Program.

(8) A resolution honoring Helen Sewell on the occasion of her retirement from the House of Representatives and expressing the gratitude of the House for her many years of service.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LATHAM). The gentleman from Texas (Mr. SESSIONS) is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MCGOVERN), pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

This resolution provides that certain specified measures may be considered under suspension of the rules at any time on the legislative day of Sunday, December 18, 2005.

Mr. Speaker, we are gathered here on a beautiful Sunday afternoon in Washington, D.C., December 18, 2005. We have had our priest to open up this beautiful House today, asking that America and Americans understand our responsibilities. We are here today because we still have work yet to be done, but there are people that we need to give thanks to.

Mr. Speaker, our families expected us home weeks ago, but we are here because we have an obligation and a duty.

Mr. Speaker, we are here today under protection of members of the Capitol Hill Police Department, members of the United States military who protect our great country, our staffs, as well as the people who work for the United States House of Representatives who serve with honor and distinction. We deserve to give them thanks for all that they have done on what surely will be the last day of this first session of Congress. But there is still much work left to be done, and we recognize that we are here to do that.

The Republican leadership of this House has set forth yet again a positive legislative agenda for the remainder of this week and the balance of this first session of the 109th Congress. The goal of this plan is to address a number of outstanding issues that still remain on Congress' calendar before we adjourn, and we must utilize this schedule to make sure we maintain our commitment to improving America's economic and national security.

One of the things, Mr. Speaker, that sets America apart from other nations is that we do not expect others to do the work for us. We take part and get it done ourselves, and that is what this Congress is doing.

Over the past year, we have passed a number of important new education, health care, trade, tax and national security bills that will keep America safer and healthier, create new jobs and improve our economy. This rule will allow the House to consider a number of additional bills today under suspension of the rules that will ensure that Congress can complete more additional work necessary before we go home for the holidays.

This rule makes in order the consideration of eight bills under suspension of the rules. These bills will accomplish important domestic goals such as reforming the Federal deposit insurance system and reauthorizing the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families block grant program through March 31, 2006.

The suspension authority allows us to consider necessary and noncontroversial items such as H.R. 4501, which amends the Passport Act in order to comply with the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act of 2004; a bill to authorize the transfer of items in the War Reserves Stockpile; and H.R. 2329, to allow an officer of a foreign government to receive an award under the Department of State Rewards Program under certain circumstances.

This rule also recognizes the importance of democracy throughout the world. H. Con. Res. 284 expresses the sense of Congress with respect to the 2005 presidential and parliamentary elections in Egypt. Another resolution, H. Res. 545, expresses the sense of the House of Representatives on the arrest of Sanjar Umarov in Uzbekistan.

Finally, we have a great opportunity today to honor a very dear friend of mine and a friend of this House, Helen Sewell, as part of the suspension calendar today. This resolution honors Helen for her outstanding service to the United States House of Representatives throughout her work in the Republican cloakroom. During this time, Helen has not only touched the lives of countless Members who have served in this body but also counts President Ford, former President George Herbert Walker Bush and George W. Bush as good friends. It is an honor to stand here today and to join my colleagues in recognizing Helen Sewell for her over 70 years of service in the United States Congress.

All of these bills scheduled for consideration today by the House leadership are on behalf of the American public who enjoy broad support from both Members of the majority and the minority parties.

☐ 1315

This rule simply provides us with the tools needed to ensure that all of this important work is completed before we adjourn and leave Washington to join our families and our communities to celebrate the holidays. Mr. Speaker, I encourage my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to support this noncontroversial and balanced bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MCGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SESSIONS) for yielding me the customary 30 minutes, and I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I do not object to this rule that will allow for the consideration of a number of suspension bills, and I expect that these bills, all of them, will be approved if not unanimously certainly overwhelmingly by this House.

As we gather here today, the Sunday before Christmas and Chanukah, it is the process and the way the Republican leadership are running this House that I strongly object to. These last few days, in fact the entire year, I think is a great example of how not to run a government.

Sometime today we expect to consider and vote on the Defense appropriations bill. No one will have time to read and examine the final product. We will not know what last-minute goodies are tucked into the bill. Mr. Speaker, we read news reports that drilling in the Arctic will be in the bill, but we do not know if ANWR is included because we have not yet seen it. And what drilling in Alaska's wilderness has to do with the Pentagon is beyond my comprehension, but there are some in the Republican leadership who do not care about the regular process and want to tuck this in the Defense bill because they know it cannot be enacted on its own.

We also do not know exactly what else is attached to the Defense appropriations bill. Is there funding for Hurricanes Katrina, Rita, and Wilma? And if so, what are the details? Will there be funding for the prevention of a possible avian flu pandemic? Are there campaign finance reform provisions included in any of these bills? And if so, who approved them?

And then there is the Defense authorization bill, which has been held up for much time because the White House did not want language in it that banned torture. This is the United States of America, Mr. Speaker. If we stand for anything, it is out loud and foursquare for human rights. And torture is something that we, as a civilized society and as a decent people, should reject.

Now, the President, from news reports, has apparently now accepted the language by Senator McCAIN which would ban torture, which is a good thing. But some suspect that it is only because the Justice Department has assured him that he can get around the language banning torture, and that is a bad thing. But despite the apparent capitulation of the White House on the issue of torture, we still do not have a Defense authorization bill, and nobody can tell us why.

We are also told a budget reconciliation bill will come up today. Does anyone have a clue what will be in that bill? This is a bill that will impact all of our citizens and could potentially have an adverse impact on the most vulnerable of our citizens.

Mr. Speaker, whether you are a liberal, a conservative, or whether you want more government or less, I think most of us would agree that whatever government we have must be competent and responsive to the people. Now, the Republicans control all of government. They control the House of Representatives, they control the Senate, and they control the White House. It is clear that they are unable to be effective stewards of our government.

Now, putting aside the corruption scandals that hang like a dark cloud over the Congress and the White House, what we see is an inability to govern. When Hurricane Katrina hit the gulf coast, the Federal Government responded miserably. The President put a political appointee in charge of FEMA who was incompetent. The President took responsibility, but ultimately the incompetence and cronyism of his administration led to a disaster that included the loss of many lives.

On the war in Iraq: no weapons of mass destruction, no ties between the Iraqi government and al Qaeda, and no imminent threat to the security of the United States of America; yet we rushed into war. Whether the intelligence was manipulated or not, clearly this government did not do its job. It failed, and over 2,100 Americans are now dead.

But now we are in Iraq, Mr. Speaker. We were there with no post-invasion plan, we are there with no-bid contracts that have led to massive corruption and fraud, our soldiers lack the most basic protective equipment, and with a chain of command that resulted in grave abuses of human rights by some of our own uniformed men and women and some of our Iraqi allies. Ultimately, the President again took responsibility. But, Mr. Speaker, with all due respect, I am tired of the speeches. I, like so many others, want genuine reform and change. I want accountability.

This all brings me to this Congress. There is a reason why this Congress has only a 25 percent approval rating. It is because you are doing a lousy job. You are trashing the rules and regular order. The selling of legislation to the highest bidder, the hard-ball tactics against your own Members to win votes, your lack of oversight and demand for accountability from this administration, all that and more is catching up to you. People are watching. People do care. They believe that you cannot competently run this government, and they want the government back.

The mess that we have before us cannot be blamed on Democrats. After all, as I have said, Republicans control everything. You cannot blame this on Bill Clinton, even though some of you try, because he has been gone now for a full 5 years. This is your fault. The battles going on behind closed doors are between your right wing and your far right wing. For those of us in the minority, and many on your side who want good government, this is a frustrating period.

Mr. Speaker, nobody denies that leadership of Congress is a hard task, but either you live up to the responsibilities or you acknowledge it is time for a change. After this sorry year, it is time for a change.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague, the gentleman from Massachusetts, who has very well articulated some of the differences that exist in this body. Our ability to work through those differences is why we come to work.

We recognize and know that we began this year with a presentation of the State of the Union by the President of the United States who clearly outlined those things which would be important goals for the year, not only for Congress but for the American people and certainly those things that deal with the war in Iraq.

My party, the Republican Party, has been very conscientious about those things which we believe we told the American people that we would do last November. We reiterated we would not raise taxes, as the Democrat Party wanted to do. We indicated that we would not cut and run from the war, which is what many people in the Democrat Party want to do. We recognize that those things that are ahead of us are very difficult choices that have to be made.

We have concentrated our activities on an attempt to streamline the budget process and make ourselves available to working with government for more efficiency. We accomplished for the first time this year a chance for all of our appropriations bills to be done by the July 4 break. Given the world as it was, that was a great idea. But we then were struck with a number of the largest hurricanes that have ever hit the United States of America, the largest storms in the history of the world.

We have worked through adversity. It has not been easy. It has caused great consternation throughout the United States. But I am pleased to tell you that this Congress has still come to work, we have debated the ideas, and it is the Republican Party that has the responsibility as a result of our being the majority party to come up with a plan of how to lead.

We have attempted to work as much as possible with the President of the United States and with our colleagues on the other side of the Capitol in the United States Senate on those things that would empower America. One of those things which we think we have done a very good job on is to say that we disagree with the rhetoric that says we have to raise taxes; that we have to increase spending; that we have to have government to be the answer.

We still reject those ideas here on what we think will be the last day of the first session of the 109th Congress; I still reject that in the face of adversity from the Democrat Party and those elements today who bring their case forward. We respect those thoughts and ideas. I respect very much the disagreement that we have in the Rules Committee on a regular basis. The articulation not only by the gentleman from Massachusetts but by others is very measured and very well said. However, we simply disagree with that; and that is why we will proceed the way in which we do. I respect our colleagues who bring adversity and their thoughts to the floor, and we will continue to do that today.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. McGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, before I yield to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH), I just want to say a couple of things.

First of all, we are here 3 weeks after the Republican majority said we were to adjourn, in part because they have not done a very good job of getting our business done.

Secondly, we can argue about priorities and we can argue about policies, and that is all fine and good; but one of the issues that I raised is the issue of competence. When we have disasters in this country, like Hurricane Katrina, the response of the Federal Government was miserable. It demonstrated a stunning incompetence that I am not sure has been fixed yet. People are still not getting response from the Federal Government in the Gulf States that they, quite frankly, deserve.

Thirdly, in terms of debate and how legislation is brought to the floor, I think that is another failure of this Congress. We do have debates in the Rules Committee, sometimes at weird hours, where not a lot of people get to hear them. But routinely, on major pieces of legislation, they are brought to the floor with very little advanced notice. Oftentimes, people do not have a chance to review what is in the legislation.

That is going to happen today with the Defense appropriations bill. No one will have an opportunity to review it. We will find out in a week or 2 weeks from now, because some Washington Post reporter or New York Times reporter or L.A. Times reporter will dig into it and find all these little goodies that none of us have a chance to know about in advance. That is not the way things should be done.

The Rules Committee, for example, routinely shuts us out of offering amendments to important pieces of legislation. We had a controversial resolution on Iraq that was on the floor the other day, and yet an alternative that was proposed by the ranking member of the International Relations Committee was deemed out of order. We had a pension reform bill that some of us had issues with, and we were denied a substitute.

On major bills that matter, we are shut out; and we are oftentimes not allowed the opportunity to try to get our points of view across on the House floor. And I would say that I think the American people are starting to catch on to that, and they do not like that form of government. This is supposed to be a deliberative body where important issues get debated.

Again, I have no problem with the suspensions that are being brought up here today. But in comparison to some of the issues that are facing this country, from poverty to the war in Iraq, to health insurance and the high price of gas, what we are talking about now is killing time with some relatively trivial matters. There are more important issues before us.

The deficit. You have accumulated the biggest deficit in the history of the United States of America as a result of your policies. That is not a success story, in my opinion. Again, we can differ on policies, but let us approach this legislation in a responsible way, and that means giving all sides, including people on your side, who have differences of opinion the opportunity to be able to debate these things fully on the House floor.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 6 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH).

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend from Massachusetts for yielding me this time, and I continue invoking this question about rules and the climate that exists in this House where on one hand we feel we can come together on some things by unanimous consent and by facilitating the work of this House, and sometimes it is the right thing to do; and other times on rules we understand, and we are still waiting for a rule which would facilitate including the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in a Defense appropriations bill, and that would be a distortion of the purpose of the rules of the House.

It leads to the greatest fears of the American people that they cannot get an up-or-down vote on something of a critical policy nature which relates to not only the past but the future of this country.

I want to say that as we stand here in this season of peace and goodwill towards all, we need to reflect on how rules create a climate that can either achieve peace or go in the opposite direction. I agree with my colleague from Massachusetts that war is an issue here.

Now, there are some who say we are not in Iraq for oil. I would take issue with that. The drilling for oil in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge makes the connection between war and energy policies and exploitation. I would suggest we need to move to a new paradigm, where we can achieve peace through alternative energies through wind and solar and geothermal and biomass and green hydrogen, where we can achieve peace through conservation.

Yet today, through a change in the rules, we will see a bill brought before us that will enable drilling in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. It is not only not necessary that we do that, because we all understand that this is a nonrenewable source of energy, there is an endpoint, but we also need to understand there are moral implications. There is a moral dimension to the plan to drill in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. This plan will lead to the destruction of the humble, natural way of life, the religion, the culture and the health of the Gwich'in Tribe, which for more than 20,000 years has lived on their ancestral lands in harmony with the natural world.

Now, many of us observed our religious traditions today. Every day the Gwich'in observes their religious traditions in the Arctic in harmony with the natural world. The drilling for oil in the coastal plain of the Arctic Refuge called by Gwich'in the sacred place where all life begins will disrupt the caribou calving grounds, and it will lead to long-term decline not only of the herd but of the Gwich'in Tribe, which depends on that porcupine caribou for its survival.

We cannot minimize this. The Gwich'in have a basic human right to survive. We hold these truths to be self-evident that all men and women are created equal, endowed by our Creator with certain inalienable rights, the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Well, the bill to drill in the Arctic Refuge will deprive the Gwich'in of their right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Christian teaching tells us to do unto others as we would have them do unto ourselves. We learn from other spiritual insights that what we do unto others we actually do to ourselves.

We cannot in the consciousness of the true American spirit, of everything this country is said to stand for from its inception, return to a history of exploitation of native peoples any more than we could return to a history of slavery or a history of exploiting women where women had no rights.

We must take our stand now. Now we have to change the path we are on by changing who we are. When we perpetrate acts of violence unto others, we are damaging ourselves as humans. We cannot do this to the Gwich'in Tribe. We cannot do this to the Arctic Refuge because it will destroy the land, it will destroy their herd, it will destroy the Gwich'in Tribe, and another part of the true America will die.

Mr. Speaker, we must not only be in the search for alternative energy, we must begin a search for an alternative way to live. We have to escape this cycle of destruction. It is time for us to reconcile nature.

Here we are in a season of peace and goodwill towards all. We must begin today to find a new path to peace on Earth with our native brothers and sisters, with the Gwich'in and with ourselves.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, we have had an opportunity again today to hear wonderful debate on the floor of the House of Representatives, the gentleman from Cleveland, speaking about some of those things which he deeply believes in. I also have a deep belief that we should be drilling in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge.

The American way of life, our ability to have energy independence, the opportunity for us to be able to explore for and find energy will determine, in my opinion, the success or failure of the economy of the United States. I do understand that many people who talk about this new way of life simply want us to ride bicycles and to destroy our economy to where we are no better or no worse than a Third World nation.

America, I believe, has set itself on a course where we believe that there is no problem bigger than a solution, and that we will find those avenues through research and development that can lead us on. An example of this would be we have utilized technology in our past for some 25 years. We have used about 21 million barrels of oil a day. It has been about constant what our utilization has been in the United States, and yet we continue to grow our economy. We continue to utilize these things with an increased population through efficiency.

The gentleman from Ohio had a chance to vote for a comprehensive energy bill just this year, a comprehensive energy bill that would put the Federal Government at the apex, at the forefront of making sure that we would lead the way through the government of finding and utilizing new technologies. The government will create a critical mass as a result of the spending which we will do to change government buildings and the way we do business to the most efficient forms that are available to us now and to create the future.

But I would say that this body, Mr. Speaker, needs to be mindful of a future that we are not afraid of, that the past which some of our Members would want us to go to find this opportunity for a new world with tribes and with global people who have been incapable of solving their own problems and addressing change is not the direction we should go.

We need to support an economy. We need to move forward to make sure we are solving the world's problems Poverty and hunger are still problems in this world. We have opportunity today, as we handle bills, to solve some of the most basic problems through research and development, through medicine, and the opportunity for us to go to world leaders like Johns Hopkins University Medical Center, a leading edge in technologists and research and development people, people out at Stanford University Medical Center, like Dr. Bill Mobley, who are looking at genes and gene therapy and the opportunity through research and development to solve problems.

These problems, Mr. Speaker, are what America develops and spends their precious resources on to help the people of the world.

Yes, we know that there are people who want to go back and who want us to ride bicycles everywhere we go and to have an economy that is far different and do not do trade with the world, and isolate America, and cut and run from the war, and do not accept the responsibilities of the world leadership.

Mr. Speaker, I reject that thought process. I believe it will be done through the constant prodding and leadership of this House of Representatives, through our Speaker, DENNIS HASTERT, and through committee chairman like DAVID DREIER from the Rules Committee, who give of themselves some 27 years of service as Mr. DREIER has given. Yes, we will even talk about years of service for Helen Sewell, who for over 70 years came to work almost every day for the benefit of America's future.

This is simply an experiment that we are engaged in, Mr. Speaker. There is no blueprint. There is no direction to say how we will handle things in the future, for we know not, any of us, what lies ahead of us.

But I have the confidence that the Republican Party and the things which we have done and will do will lead this great Nation, and the people will understand a vision, and we shall not perish. In God we trust.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. McGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH).

Mr. KUCINICH. I would respectfully suggest to my friend, this isn't about returning to just riding bicycles. This is about getting off a treadmill, a treadmill of dependence on oil, which leads us inevitably to war, which leads us to the destruction of the global climate, which leads us to separation from each other.

We are in a moment right now where we are going to determine the future of this country and we cannot maintain our economic power in the world if we continue to rely on oil, because it is a nonrenewable source of energy. That is why drilling in the Alaskan National Wildlife Refuge is a false solution, in addition to being a violation of the human rights of the Gwich'in. There is no need to distort what this debate is about.

You know, we are in Iraq because of oil. We are not signing the Kyoto Climate Change Treaty because of oil. We ought to realize this world is interconnected and interdependent, that we are one with the world. The sooner we understand that, the sooner we end this separation, which puts us in a position where we have our troops right now the Middle East at war. We need to change our direction.

Mr. McGOVERN. Mr. Speaker, let me end as I began here with a plea that we strive for a better process. This is not the way we should be running our government, bringing bills to the floor at the last minute without having given people the opportunity to read what is in them. We should have learned last year. When the Republican majority brought a bill to the floor, we had to meet again and fix it because someone snuck a provision in there that would allow certain Members of the Congress and their staffs to be able to review people's IRS records. We went back and quickly fixed that after it became public that it was in the bill.

We can do so much better than what we see going on right here at this present time. I think this more than anything else is one of the reasons why I think we need a change of leadership in the Congress. I think there needs to be checks and balances. There aren't checks and balances right now. There needs to be oversight, there needs to be accountability.

We need to do the people's business in a more deliberative way. We have to move away from this pattern of locking people out of opportunities to be able to participate in debates and offer their amendments.

Mr. Speaker, having said all of that, we have no objection to this rule that will allow for filler between now and the time that some of these important conference reports come to the floor.

I will close with this. I think every one of our colleagues needs to know that you are not going to know what is in any of these bills that are coming to the floor. You will find out in the newspapers. That is not the way this government should run.

Having said that, we have no problem with the rule.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Massachusetts for the opportunity for us to be here today and his collegial support of this rule. The gentleman very clearly understands as a result of his career that he has spent not only serving as a member of professional staff but also as a Member of Congress that Congress does engage in a lot of issues and ideas.

I would submit to him two things: Number one, that the process that we are going through is not perfect. It has existed this way because we have chosen the form of government that we have whereby two bodies get together on pieces of legislation that are of importance. This is something that we have lived through for a long period of time.

I would say to the gentleman that I respect his disagreement about how we should do everything in the day, and in the light of day and hold everything for days and let everybody know. In fact, almost every single piece of any bill has been debated and voted on. There are positions that Senators and Members of this House have taken that I hope are included. I hope that even though they may not be something that was completely understood by one body or another, they were well thought through thoughts and ideas that would be contained.

I believe that the idea of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge is one that has been debated in this country for over 10 or 12 years. It is time for resolution. For someone that does not understand that putting this on the DOD bill would be appropriate, I wonder who uses more energy than anyone, and it would probably be the Department of Defense. I think there is an intrinsic interest in us making sure that our own security of this country is participated in by and as a result of this being on the bill.

Mr. Speaker, lastly, I disagree with those who say that we need a change of leadership.

□ 1345

I do recognize that the other side, the Democrat Party, has different ideas about how to do things. But I am proud of my leadership, and I believe that the service of DENNIS HASTERT and those that are committee chairmen and those that are part of our leadership have stood the test of time to make sure that we are open and ready to do business, that we have the leading-edge thought process of this great Nation, that we are open to hearing from those who can help lead us to the greater pathways, and lastly, that we work with those constitutionally elected officials in a process to make sure that our Constitution is alive and well and a model to the world.

Mr. Speaker, I am proud of DENNIS HASTERT and his leadership of this House of Representatives and those Members, whether they be from Iowa, Texas, California or Massachusetts, who come to this great body for service to this great Nation. Once again, I am proud of that which we do.

AMENDMENT OFFERED BY MR. SESSIONS

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, I offer an amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amendment offered by Mr. SESSIONS of Texas:

Add at the end the following:

(9) The bill (H.R. 797) to amend the Native American Housing Assistance and Self-Determination Act of 1996 and other Acts to improve housing programs for Indians.

(10) The bill (H.R. 358) to require the Secretary of the Treasury to mint coins in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the desegregation of the Little Rock Central High School in Little Rock, Arkansas, and for other purposes.

(11) The resolution (H. Res. 456) expressing support for the memorandum of understanding signed by the Government of the Republic of Indonesia and the Free Aceh Movement on August 15, 2005, to end the conflict in Aceh, a province in Sumatra, Indonesia.

(12) The concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 275) expressing the sense of Congress regarding the education curriculum in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

Mr. SESSIONS. Mr. Speaker, again I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this rule to provide that suspensions will be in order at any time on the legislative day of December 18, 2005.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the amendment and on the resolution.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LATHAM). The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SESSIONS).

The amendment was agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the resolution, as amended.

The resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

WAIVING REQUIREMENT OF CLAUSE 6(a) OF RULE XIII WITH RESPECT TO CONSIDERATION OF CERTAIN RESOLUTIONS

Mr. PUTNAM. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 632 and ask for its immediate consideration.

H. RES. 632

Resolved, That the requirement of clause 6(a) of rule XIII for a two-thirds vote to consider a report from the Committee on Rules on the same day it is presented to the House is waived with respect to any resolution reported on the legislative day of Sunday, December 18, 2005.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Florida, (Mr. PUTNAM) is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. PUTNAM. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of debate only I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentlewoman from California (Ms. MATSUI), pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 632 is a same-day rule that waives clause 6(a) of rule XIII, which requires a two-thirds vote to consider a rule on the same day it is reported from the Rules Committee against certain resolutions reported from the Rules Committee. It applies the waiver to any special rule reported on the legislative day of December 18, 2005.

H. Res. 632 allows the House to consider a rule and underlying legislation that may be reported today.

Mr. Speaker, it is imperative that we pass this same-day rule. This resolution will lay the foundation for the House to complete its business and send outstanding legislation to the Senate and eventually the President for his signature. We are working to move the process along towards adjournment of the first session of the 109th Congress.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this same-day rule so we can move forward to serious consideration of the remaining legislation for which we are staying here and working through the weekend to complete.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. MATSUI. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I might consume.

Mr. Speaker, today we consider H. Res. 632, a martial-law rule allowing the House to bring bills to the floor on the same day that the Rules Committee meets to report that bill.

But significantly, the martial-law rule does not specify which bills may be brought up. Instead, it is a blank check for the majority party to bring up virtually any bill in Congress up until the speaker gavels this legislative day to a close.

Mr. Speaker, this is a highly unusual procedure. I would like to take a moment to explain to the American people exactly how out of the ordinary it is.

This is the first time that a totally open-ended blanket martial-law rule has been brought to the House floor. Every other rare use of this procedure has specified at least a category of legislation. This rule is unprecedented for the power it grants the majority.

Mr. Speaker, some Members may argue that the blanket nature of this rule allows them to conduct business efficiently by allowing them to bring up the first thing that is ready to pass.

I, however, take a different view. This will tarnish the honor of this institution by restricting the democratic process. It will allow bills to come up with absolutely no prior notice to Members. Members may not have time to examine what is in the bill. They may not have even heard of the bill before.

There is a risk that last-minute language could be written incorrectly, or that it could have unintended consequences. There is the risk that controversial provisions could be inserted without proper review.

And by not giving Members this review time, we will be forced to simply hope that this did not occur. Mr. Speaker, I believe that Members need more of a guarantee than that before we cast our votes.

Mr. Speaker, such a harsh rule impedes the democratic process. It did not have to be that way. The House leadership chose not to conduct floor business on Friday of last week, or on Monday of this week. This type of schedule has been commonplace all year long.

So I must conclude that we are here not out of necessity, but because the Republican leadership is unable to govern. Once again, it seems as though the majority cannot be trusted with conducting the business of the American people in an open manner.

I urge my colleagues to reject this blanket martial-law rule. Members should have adequate time to review bills before they vote for them.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PUTNAM. Mr. Speaker, the gentlewoman is correct when she characterizes this as an unusual time. It is almost 2 o'clock on a Sunday afternoon and the Congress is in session. These are very unusual times as we approach the end of this first session of the 109th Congress. I do not think anybody would dispute that. I certainly know that our wives and husbands and families who are scattered around the country manning Christmas parties and Christmas pageants as single parents while we are here doing the people's business over the weekend would agree that these are highly unusual times.

I would note that this same-day rule has passed the committee two times on a voice vote, and these concerns were not elevated to the point of even demanding a role call vote.

These are unusual times, I would certainly agree. And in order for us to bring this unusual session that has been marked by cataclysmic events throughout our country which were unforeseen, this unusual session that has seen an unusually productive legislative agenda pass both the House and the Senate and be signed into the law by the President, as we mark the end of this year and do everything we can to pass the legislation that will directly benefit our troops, both at home and abroad through the Department of Defense Appropriations Bill, as we do everything we can in an unusual way on a Sunday night and probably into the wee hours of Monday morning, to do everything we can to guarantee that our friends and neighbors on the gulf coast in Louisiana and Mississippi and Alabama and south Florida who were hit by Katrina and Rita and Wilma will have the relief that has been promised them and that is so important as so many of them struggle to bring their lives back together, yes, we will continue to operate in this unusual scenario on a Sunday afternoon and Sunday night to do our job, to finish the work that is on our plate.

The House has very successfully moved its appropriations legislation in a very timely manner. But, frankly, while we finished prior to the July 4 recess, Katrina hit during the August recess. Wilma and Rita hit after that. So while we were following the regular order that both sides of the aisle should be very proud of, both sides of the aisle should be very appreciative of our hardworking appropriators who made that happen, it all went out the window when you get hit by a category 5 and then another category 5 and then another category 4 while we were on August recess alone.

So certain unusual factors have impacted this unusual year, which lead us to the unusual situation of being here on a Sunday passing a same-day rule so that we can move forward on the important items that remain.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. MATSUI. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH).

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I think it is important for the American people to know that under martial law, anything can be brought up and put into any bill; and it will take weeks, months or longer before many people even understand what happened.

But I want to demonstrate a knowledge of one thing that every Member of Congress must be aware of, that the Defense appropriations bill has folded into it a provision which will permit drilling in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. Every Member of Congress must be aware of that. No one can say after it happens that they did not know. And according to all news reports up to this moment, it is the intention of the majority to put that provision into the Defense appropriations bill.

It is a very interesting admission. Drilling for oil is linked to our warfighting capabilities. If we do not drill for more oil in this refuge, perhaps we can, instead, explore our peacemaking capabilities. There is no question that our presence in Iraq was, in part, linked to a quest for domination of oil resources. I mean, let us be frank. The first objective, when our troops went in, they were told by their leaders in the administration to get control of the Iraqi oil ministry. Everyone remembers that. And Americans remember, too, the high oil prices that this country has suffered in the last year.

Now, let me ask each Member of Congress, is there any connection between high oil prices and the growing monopolies within the energy industry? The fewer oil companies we have it seems the prices keep going up and up.

Now, what are the oil companies afraid of? They are afraid of alternative energy. They are afraid of energy from the sun, from wind, geothermal, biomass, green hydrogen, because the oil companies know that it will cut into their profits. So, naturally, the oil companies want to keep on drilling. They so badly want to keep on drilling that they are going to drill in Alaska, or in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, if the Defense appropriations bill passes.

Every American should know that that is not going to mean lower oil prices; it is going to mean higher oil prices because it will once again show the domination of the oil companies on our political process.

We could talk about our economy, and we should. High oil prices are bad for our economy. Is that not a message that we should be going towards alternative energy? Reliance on nonrenewable resources inevitably will lead to war. Is that not an argument for renewable energy? Is that not an argument for breaking up the energy monopolies? Oil companies do not want alternative energy. They want us to keep on drilling. They want to grab access to oil whether it is in Iraq or ANWR or anywhere else.

Wherever we are depending on more oil, they get more profits.

This is a time for us to take a direction towards conservation. In that way I consider myself a conservative. Waste not, want not. It is time for us to take a stand for protection of the environment. The administration has spurned any efforts to cause America to join with the world community in signing the Kyoto Climate Change Treaty, and at the same time we see billions of dollars wasted because of the tremendous suffering that has been caused in our gulf coast region, but I would say that we have wasted the gulf coast region because we did not have an alternative energy policy years ago. We act like there is no connection between climate change and our energy consumption patterns.

Wake up, America. Understand that all these things are interrelated, that we are interdependent and interconnected, that the choices we make today on our energy policy will echo through the years as to the direction the country will go in.

It is time for us to take a stand today for the protection of human rights. The Gwich'in Tribe is this humble tribe that depends on the porcupine caribou for its subsistence, and drilling in that Alaskan refuge is going to destroy the calving grounds of the porcupine caribou.

Mr. PUTNAM. Mr. Speaker, while I would love to engage the gentleman in his theory that big oil companies caused Hurricane Katrina on the rule about consideration of legislation on the same legislative day, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. MATSUI. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to say that I urge my colleagues to reject this blanket martial-law rule. Members should have adequate time to review the bills before they vote for them.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. PUTNAM. Mr. Speaker, these are unusual times as we struggle through the important deliberations of this Congress to make sure that our troops are cared for through the Department of Defense appropriations process and that our gulf coast friends and neighbors receive the assistance that they need and have been promised and are owed by their countrymen in the wake of the devastation wrought by these hurricanes.

This rule lays the foundation for us to move that important legislation in a timely way. And martial law around the world means troops on the streets, tanks on the streets, the military setting mandatory curfews where people cannot act in a free and virtuous way.

Only in America would the opportunity for 535 elected representatives to come from around the country to haggle and debate and fight and compromise over ways to help their fellow countrymen and move forward with an agenda for liberty and prosperity and security, only in America do we take for granted our liberties such that we would call such a process "martial law."

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time. I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LATHAM). The question is on the resolution.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Ms. MATSUI. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX, the Chair will postpone further proceedings today on motions to suspend the rules on which a recorded vote or the yeas and nays are ordered, or on which the vote is objected to under clause 6 of rule XX.

Record votes on postponed questions will be taken later today.

EXPRESSING SENSE OF THE HOUSE ON ARREST OF SANJAR UMAROV

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 545) expressing the sense of the House of Representatives on the arrest of Sanjar Umarov in Uzbekistan.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. RES. 545

Whereas the United States supports the development of democracy, free markets, and civil society in Uzbekistan and in other states in Central Asia;

GENERAL LEAVE

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in strong support of House Resolution 545 regarding the arrest of Uzbek opposition leader Sanjar Umarov.

Mr. Umarov is a businessman and a leader of the Sunshine Coalition, an Uzbek opposition party that was formed in April in the wake of a popular uprising in neighboring Kyrgyzstan.

The group quickly gained recognition after its condemnation of the severe military crackdown on demonstrators in the eastern city of Andijon earlier this year.

On October 22, 2005, the Uzbek authorities launched a crackdown against the Sunshine Coalition that included a raid of its offices and a seizure of its records. Sanjar Umarov was then charged by the Uzbek regime. Press reports have alleged that Mr. Umarov was drugged and abused while at his pretrial confinement center.

The State Department has expressed its serious concern regarding this case, and last month the Senate passed a companion resolution regarding Mr. Umarov's case. The Congress remains deeply troubled about the overall state of human rights in Uzbekistan, as that regime has become one of the world's most repressive.

Freedom House and our own State Department rank Uzbekistan among some of the world's most notorious human rights violators. As an important first step toward addressing these underlying issues, this resolution calls on the Uzbek authorities to ensure that Mr. Umarov is accorded his full rights under Uzbek law and Uzbekistan's international obligations.

Mr. Speaker, I strongly urge my colleagues to support this important measure.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution.

I first would like to commend my good friend and colleague ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN for introducing this important measure relating to human rights in Uzbekistan.

Mr. Speaker, the dissolution of the Soviet Union marked an historic triumph for freedom, democracy, and openness throughout the former Soviet realm. Millions of oppressed citizens of the former Soviet Union, from the Baltics to Georgia and Armenia, finally won the right to choose their leaders freely and openly and to speak publicly their minds about the future of their nation. This historic movement towards freedom and democracy was not uniform, and pockets of despotic totalitarianism remain within the realm of the former Soviet Union. The Central Asian nation of Uzbekistan is one such authoritarian pocket.

Since Uzbekistan won its independence from the Soviet Union in 1991, it has been ruled with an iron fist by Islam Karimov. Karimov came to power in 1991 in elections that our State Department characterized as "neither free nor fair," and I fully agree. His term in office has been repeatedly extended through sham referenda and actions taken by his rubber stamp parliament.

During Karimov's brutal tenure, there has been absolutely no progress towards democratic reform. The government has severely limited freedom of speech and the press, and few reporters there write articles critical of the government for fear of being tossed in jail. Independent human rights organizations are denied registration by the government, and their activities are severely limited.

It is in this context that Sanjar Umarov, a successful business leader in Uzbekistan, decided to form an opposition movement. His Sunshine Coalition raised questions about the lack of true democracy and freedom in Uzbekistan and the Uzbek government's abysmal performance running the nation. Umarov's party offices were raided in October. He was charged with grand larceny, following the Russian example of concocting alleged business crimes to justify the imprisonment of key opposition leaders. There have been reports that Mr. Umarov has been tortured while in custody and that his lawyer found him naked in his cell, covering his face with his hands, rocking back and forth.

Mr. Speaker, the resolution before the House has a simple message: It urges the government of Uzbekistan to accord Mr. Sanjar Umarov the right to defend himself in court according to the rights provided to him by the constitution of Uzbekistan and that the charges against him be publicly clarified and his whereabouts announced.

Mr. Speaker, the government's continued imprisonment of Mr. Umarov is yet another black eye for Uzbekistan internationally. I strongly urge the Uzbek government to reconsider their unwise action and release Mr. Umarov from jail immediately.

I urge all of my colleagues to support this important resolution.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, it is always a pleasure to work with my good friend from California, Mr. LANTOS.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) that the House suspend the rules and agree the resolution, H. Res. 545.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

EXPRESSING THE SENSE OF CONGRESS WITH RESPECT TO THE 2005 ELECTIONS IN EGYPT

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 284) expressing the sense of Congress with respect to the 2005 presidential and parliamentary elections in Egypt, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. CON. RES. 284

Whereas promoting freedom and democracy is a foreign policy and national security priority of the United States;

Whereas free, fair, and transparent elections constitute a foundation of any meaningful democracy;

Whereas Egypt is the largest Arab nation comprising over half the Arab world's population;

Whereas Congress has long supported Egypt as a partner for peace and stands ready to support Egypt's emergence as a democracy and free market economy;

Whereas a successful democracy in Egypt would definitely dispel the notion that democracy cannot succeed in the Arab Muslim world;

Whereas in his 2005 State of the Union Address, President George W. Bush stated that "the great and proud nation of Egypt, which showed the way toward peace in the Middle East, can now show the way toward democracy in the Middle East";

Whereas in her June 20, 2005, remarks at the American University in Cairo, Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice stated: "[T]he Egyptian Government must fulfill the promise it has made to its people—and to the entire world—by giving its citizens the freedom to choose. Egypt's elections, including the Parliamentary elections, must meet objective standards that define every free election.";

Whereas on February 26, 2005, Egyptian President Mubarak proposed to amend the Egyptian Constitution to allow for Egypt's first ever multi-candidate presidential election;

Whereas in May 2005, President Bush stated that Egypt's presidential election should proceed with international monitors and with rules that allow for a real campaign;

Whereas Egypt prohibited international monitoring in the presidential election, calling such action an infringement on its national sovereignty;

Whereas domestic monitoring of the election became a major point of contention between the government, the judiciary, and civil society organizations;

Whereas in May 2005, the Judges Club, an unofficial union for judges, took the provisional decision to boycott the election if their demand for a truly independent judiciary was not met;

Whereas the Judges Club initially insisted that the 9,000 to 10,000 judges were in no position to monitor the election if plans proceeded for polling at 54,000 stations on one day;

Whereas the government responded to their demands by grouping polling stations to decrease their number to about 10,000, more or less matching the number of available judges;

Whereas on September 2, 2005, a majority of the general assembly of the Judges Club decided that the judges would supervise the election and report any irregularities;

Whereas several coalitions of Egyptian civil society organizations demanded access to polling stations on election day and successfully secured court rulings granting them such access;

Whereas the Presidential Election Council, citing its constitutional authority to oversee the election process, reportedly ignored the court order for several days, before they granted some nongovernmental organizations access to polling stations a few hours before the polls opened;

Whereas the presidential campaign ran from August 17 to September 4, 2005;

Whereas the presidential election held on September 7, 2005, was largely peaceful, but reportedly marred by low turnout, general confusion over election procedures, alleged manipulation by government authorities, and other inconsistencies;

Whereas the presidential election was a potentially important step toward democratic reform in Egypt and a test of President Mubarak's pledge to open the country's authoritarian political system;

Whereas Mr. Mubarak promised to allow during the presidential campaign a free press and independent judiciary, lift emergency laws that stifle political activity, reduce presidential powers in favor of a more freely elected parliament, and allow a slow but steady transition to a liberal democracy;

Whereas parliamentary elections were held in Egypt in November and December 2005;

Whereas several local human rights and civil society organizations issued a joint statement declaring unease over the Egyptian Government's criticism of independent judges, stating that the government was trying to deprive the organizations of the right of free expression;

Whereas reports prepared by judges who monitored the parliamentary elections indicated that numerous violations occurred in the second and third rounds of voting, including the physical prevention of voters from casting their votes, the closure of roads and streets leading to polling stations, and assaults on several judges as they oversaw the elections and protested the security agencies measures to prevent voters from reaching polling stations;

Whereas other Egyptian nongovernmental election monitors also have complained that security forces blocked thousands of eligible voters from entering polling stations during the parliamentary elections;

Whereas poll monitors and human rights organizations reported that violence initiated by Egyptian security forces, coupled with wide-scale arrests, contributed to poor turnout across the country during the parliamentary elections;

Whereas violence during the parliamentary elections, including reports of excessive force by Egyptian security services, resulted in the deaths of several demonstrators and the wounding of dozens more;

Whereas Ayman Nour, Mr. Mubarak's only serious challenger in the presidential election, was declared in the parliamentary elections to have lost his seat—in a Cairo district that elected him twice before—to a former state security official with reported ties to President Mubarak;

Whereas it was reported that Mr. Nour, a secular liberal, was harassed repeatedly by Mr. Mubarak's proxies and slandered by the Egyptian media, and local election observers reported numerous irregularities in Mr. Nour's Cairo district;

Whereas the Egyptian Government's apparent manipulation of the electoral system resulted in a weakening of the secular opposition and a strengthening of the Islamist opposition in Egypt; and

Whereas it is in the national interests of the United States and Egypt that Egypt be governed by a truly representative, pluralist, and legitimate national parliament: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That Congress—

(1) recognizes the presidential election held on September 7, 2005, as a potential first step toward greater political reforms in Egypt;

(2) expresses grave concern over the widely reported irregularities during the Egyptian presidential election and parliamentary elections held in November and December 2005, including interference by Egyptian security forces, and the apparent failure of the Government of Egypt to ensure that the elections were free, fair, and transparent;

(3) calls on the Government of Egypt to take immediate steps to address these reported violations of the fundamental freedoms of the Egyptian people and hold those responsible for such violations accountable;

(4) recognizes that the development of a democratically-elected representative and empowered Egyptian national parliament is a fundamental reform needed to permit real progress toward the rule of law and democracy in Egypt;

(5) calls on the Government of Egypt to separate the apparatus of the National Democratic Party from the operations of government, to divest all government holdings in Egyptian media, and to end the government monopoly over printing and distribution of newspapers;

(6) calls on the Government of Egypt to repeal the 1977 emergency law which took effect in 1981, as promised by President Mubarak, and in the development of any future anti-terrorism legislation to allow peaceful, constitutional political activities, including public meetings and demonstrations, and to allow full parliamentary review of any such legislation;

(7) expresses disappointment over the failure of the Government of Egypt to ensure that the presidential election was free, fair, and transparent;

(8) calls on the Government of Egypt, in future elections, to—

(A) ensure supervision by the judiciary of the election process across the country and at all levels;

(B) ensure the presence of accredited representatives of all competing parties and independent candidates at polling stations and during the vote-counting; and

(C) allow local and international election monitors full access and accreditation;

(9) urges the President of the United States to take into account the progress achieved by the Government of Egypt in meeting the goals outlined in this resolution when determining—

(A) the type and nature of United States diplomatic engagement with the Government of Egypt; and

(B) the type and level of assistance to be requested for the Government of Egypt;

(10) given the responsibility of the Government of Egypt for the outcome of the 2005 presidential and parliamentary elections, calls on the Government of Egypt not to use the strength of the Islamist opposition in Egypt to justify the failure of the Egyptian Government to comply with its international human rights obligations or to undertake the reforms to which it has committed; and

(11) urges the President and other officers of the Government of the United States to speak with unmistakable clarity in expressing the disappointment of the people and Government of the United States with respect to the behavior of the Government of Egypt during the 2005 presidential and parliamentary elections.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) and the gentleman from California (Mr. LANTOS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Florida.

GENERAL LEAVE

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the concurrent resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in strong support of House Concurrent Resolution 284, as amended. Prior to this year's election in Egypt, that country's leader, Hosni Mubarak, promised to undertake a series of steps toward a slow but steady transition to a free and democratic society. However, in the wake of the parliamentary elections it is explicitly clear that those commitments remain unfulfilled.

This concurrent resolution, initially drafted amid an atmosphere of hope, had to be updated from the version passed by the House Committee on International Relations in order to reflect the grave developments that have taken place and to express congressional disappointment with the behavior of the Egyptian government and security forces during the parliamentary elections.

Election monitors complained that polling and counting stations were blocked and that wide-scale arrests were also used as a means of manipulating the electoral process. There were reports of excessive force by Egyptian security services resulting in the deaths of several demonstrators and the wounding of dozens more.

We must send a clear message to the Egyptian leadership that such behavior is unacceptable and that the concerns contained within this resolution need to be addressed if our bilateral relations are not to suffer.

The resolution before us therefore calls on the government of Egypt to take immediate steps to address the reported violations of fundamental freedoms of the Egyptian people and to hold those accountable for those actions and it urges the President to take into account what, if any, progress has been achieved by the Government of Egypt in meeting the goals outlined in this resolution when determining diplomatic engagement with and the type of level of assistance to the Government of Egypt.

This resolution is also forward looking, calling on the Government of Egypt to take a series of confidence-building measures in future elections.

Mr. Speaker, it is in the U.S. national security interest and in the interest of the Egyptian people for Egypt to be governed by a representative freely elected and legitimate national government. I ask my colleagues to render their full support to this measure.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H. Con. Res. 284 and commend my good friend, ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN and my colleague Mr. ACKERMAN of New York, for sponsoring it.

Mr. Speaker, Egypt held a series of elections this year, both presidential and parliamentary. They were the most competitive elections Egypt has conducted in many decades; and, broadly speaking, I commend President Mubarak for that. But that judgment, of course, is rendered against the background of the decidedly noncompetitive and unfree elections that have previously marked the quarter century of the Mubarak era.

Accordingly, this resolution is absolutely on target in expressing the deep disappointment and grave concern of this body with the heavy-handed and often violent tactics that the Government of Egypt and its security forces continue to employ in order to ensure their unbroken dominance. This government-initiated violence apparently was intended to limit voting in certain antigovernment districts. It resulted in nearly a dozen deaths. In other cases, polling stations were simply shut down by the security forces or shadowy groups of nonuniformed thugs.

But many of the problems associated with these elections, arguably the most serious problems, had nothing to do with violence. These include the Egyptian Government's refusal to allow international election monitors and even domestic NGOs meaningful access to polling stations and its transparent and successful effort to eviscerate any meaningful secular opposition to the ruling party.

For example, in seeking to convince Egyptians and the world that the ruling National Democratic Party is the only bulwark against Islamic fundamentalism, the government trumped up legal charges against Mr. Ayman Nour, whose secular reformist agenda catapulted him to a second-place finish in the September presidential elections. This theater-of-the-absurd legal case crippled Nour's ability to conduct a parliamentary campaign, and he even lost his own parliamentary seat under highly questionable circumstances.

In light of all these problems, Mr. Speaker, it is hardly surprising that barely one-quarter of the Egyptian electorate even bothered to vote, a dismal participation rate which compares most unfavorably with the almost-70 percent of the electorate voting in Iraq.

Mr. Speaker, this body has every right and obligation to take a deep interest in the process of democratization and human rights reform in Egypt, the recipient yet again this year of some $2 billion of military and economic support from the pockets of American taxpayers. We have every right to expect that when Egypt pledges to hold free elections, these elections will be truly free.

As our Secretary of State, Dr. Condoleezza Rice, said at the American University in Cairo in June: "Egypt's elections must meet objective standards that define every free election." Unfortunately, the elections of 2005 fell far short of those standards.

Mr. Speaker, the administration is set to be seriously contemplating the opening of negotiations for a free trade agreement with Egypt next month. I think that would be a most regrettable step. It would be construed as a signal that the United States is satisfied with the State of Egypt's progress toward democratization; and as I am confident the vote on this resolution will show, this body decidedly is not satisfied at all.

Mr. Speaker, I do not want to minimize the problems Egypt faces in moving towards democracy in a society where income is extraordinarily low and the illiteracy rate is unbelievably high, nor should we be unconcerned that these elections have revealed that the Fundamentalist Brotherhood, which thrives with the impoverished and ill-educated, remains a powerful force in Egypt. But I remain convinced that true democratization, buttressed by free, fair, transparent and truly competitive elections, will allow for the emergence of a secular opposition. That is the right way to go about creating a prosperous and healthy Egypt.

So, Mr. Speaker, these elections may represent a step forward, but a much shorter and far clumsier step than this body, the American people and, most importantly, the Egyptian people have every right to expect. That is why I support this resolution and urge my colleagues to do so.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Con. Res. 284, a resolution expressing the sense of Congress with respect to the 2005 presidential and parliamentary elections in Egypt.

I consider myself a friend of Egypt and while I believe Egypt deserves praise and recognition for the steps toward democracy it has made this year by moving to a direct vote on the election for the office of President and the reforms that followed I must also, as a friend, express some disappointment and concern about missed opportunities.

Specifically, I was disappointed to see that more was not done to ensure that domestic election monitoring officials would be granted full access to polling and counting stations. I have also been disappointed to learn about the continued severe limitations placed on respected international election observing organizations to gain accreditation and reasonable access to polling and counting sites. The International Republican Institute, which had a team of international election experts on the ground for the recent parliamentary elections reported, "The November 2005 parliamentary election process does not support the claim that Egypt is in a process of democratic transformation."

Mr. Speaker, this resolution rightfully focuses Congress's attention on a number of different aspects of the electoral process in Egypt. While there are many areas where improvement is needed in Egypt, I would like to give credit to Egypt where credit is due. The International Republican Institute made the following assessment in the conclusion section of its "2005 Parliamentary Election Assessment in Egypt" about positive developments in the most recent round of elections:

> Despite negative aspects of the 2005 Parliamentary elections, it is possible to highlight several notable achievements when compared with elections in the past. First, the role played by the domestic monitoring groups and the Judges' Club—as with the Presidential election—has been important, as elements of civil society begin to take a more active role in advocating for greater democratic freedom and pluralism.
>
> In addition, between monitoring groups and independent media, the government has permitted a new level of scrutiny from the domestic and international community.
>
> Several of IRI's delegates had spent time in Egypt in the late 1980's and early 1990's, and noted that the public debate about political reform and criticism of the ruling party and the government would have been unthinkable 10 or 15 years ago. The relative freedom with which state-run and independent press can debate these issues is an indicator of progress that should not go unmentioned.

In closing, I stand ready to support Egypt as it moves toward truly competitive democratic elections. This movement is rarely easy, and I will be among the first to recognize progress made by Egypt as it occurs

I would also note that despite all shortcomings in the recent elections, Egypt—despite the work that needs to be done—remains a leader in the Middle East when it comes to democracy, its relationship with the United States, and its positive relationship with Israel. I believe it is, in fact, Egypt's close relationship with the United States that gives this Congress the responsibility to ensure that this relationship enhances the security, prosperity, and the democratic freedoms of both peoples.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LATHAM). The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution, H. Con. Res. 284, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds of those present have voted in the affirmative.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

PASSPORT SERVICES ENHANCEMENT ACT OF 2005

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 4501) to amend the Passport Act of June 4, 1920, to authorize the Secretary of State to establish and collect a surcharge to cover the costs of meeting the increased demand for passports as a result of actions taken to comply with section 7209(b) of the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act of 2004, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 4501

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Passport Services Enhancement Act of 2005".

SEC. 2. AUTHORITY OF SECRETARY OF STATE TO ESTABLISH AND COLLECT A SURCHARGE TO COVER THE COSTS OF MEETING THE INCREASED DEMAND FOR PASSPORTS.

Section 1 of the Passport Act of June 4, 1920 (22 U.S.C. 214) is amended—

(1) in the first sentence, by striking "There shall be collected and paid" and inserting "(a) There shall be collected and paid"; and

(2) by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(b)(1) The Secretary of State may by regulation establish and collect a surcharge on applicable fees for the filing of each application for a passport in order to cover the costs of meeting the increased demand for passports as a result of actions taken to comply with section 7209(b) of the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act of 2004 (Public Law 108–458; 8 U.S.C. 1185 note). Such surcharge shall be in addition to the fees provided for in subsection (a) and in addition to the surcharges or fees otherwise authorized by law and shall be deposited as an offsetting collection to the appropriate Department of State appropriation, to remain available until expended for the purposes of meeting such costs.

"(2) The authority to collect the surcharge provided under paragraph (1) may not be exercised after September 30, 2010.

"(3) The Secretary of State shall ensure that, to the extent practicable, the total cost of a passport application during fiscal years 2006 and 2007, including the surcharge authorized under paragraph (1), shall not exceed the cost of the passport application as of December 1, 2005.".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) and the gentleman from California (Mr. LANTOS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Florida.

GENERAL LEAVE

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 4501.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this bill represents a bipartisan and bicameral measure. We have worked with our colleagues on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to draft a bill that will assist the State Department in meeting the ever-increasing demand for U.S. passports. The 9/11 bill required that Americans carry a passport when reentering the United States from travel to countries in the Western Hemisphere. This requirement is greatly increasing the demand for passport services.

This bill, which has been approved by OMB, will allow the State Department to collect and retain a surcharge of approximately $5 to $8 on each passport. Because the State Department expects there to be a decline in the actual cost of issuing each passport, there will not be an increase in the current price for issuing passports, which is now $97.

Presently, the U.S. Treasury receives the revenues from fees charged for the issuance of a passport. As a result of this legislation, the State Department will keep part of the passport fee. The bill narrowly defines the uses permitted of the proceeds from this surcharge. It is for the cost of additional personnel, mailing and similar operational costs that are necessary to keep up with the increased passport workload. The authority for the Department to collect this surcharge will expire in the year 2010. Congress will be able to assess whether this surcharge continues to be necessary.

This is an important measure that has been requested by the Secretary of State, and the text has been worked out between the majority and the minority of both the House International Relations Committee and the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee. I urge support for H.R. 4501, as amended.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this measure. The measure before us would amend the Passport Act of June 4, 1920, to authorize the Secretary of State to establish and collect a surcharge to cover the costs of meeting the increased demand for passports as a result of actions taken to comply with section 7209(b) of the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act of 2004.

Mr. Speaker, the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act requires U.S. citizens to obtain and utilize passports when reentering the United States from other foreign jurisdictions within the Western Hemisphere. The Department of State, therefore, is facing a massive increase in demand for passports in anticipation of this new security requirement. Our Secretary of State estimates that demand could grow from less than 9 million applicants in fiscal year 2004 to over 17 million a year by the end of fiscal year 2008.

Mr. Speaker, the Department of State desperately needs the resources to increase its passport adjudication and production capabilities to meet this demand. Our measure will enable the State Department to collect the new surcharge from passport fees and provides the Secretary with the authority to use the proceeds from this surcharge to pay for the staff, equipment, and facilities she will need to meet this critical national security mandate.

I urge all of my colleagues to support this critical piece of legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. Ros-Lehtinen) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 4501, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

AUTHORIZING TRANSFER OF ITEMS IN WAR RESERVES STOCKPILE FOR ALLIES, KOREA

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill (S. 1988) to authorize the transfer of items in the War Reserves Stockpile for Allies, Korea.

The Clerk read as follows:

S. 1988

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION. 1. WAR RESERVES STOCKPILE FOR ALLIES, KOREA.

(a) Authority To Transfer Items in Stockpile.—

(1) In general.—Notwithstanding section 514 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2321h), the President is authorized to transfer to the Republic of Korea, on such conditions as the President may determine, any or all of the items described in paragraph (2).

(2) Covered items.—The items referred to in paragraph (1) are munitions, equipment, and materiel such as tanks, trucks, artillery, mortars, general purpose bombs, repair parts, barrier material, and ancillary equipment if such items are—

(A) obsolete or surplus items;

(B) in the inventory of the Department of Defense;

(C) intended for use as reserve stocks for the Republic of Korea; and

(D) as of the date of the enactment of this Act, located in a stockpile in the Republic of Korea or Japan.

(3) Valuation of concessions.—The value of concessions negotiated pursuant to paragraph (1) shall be at least equal to the fair market value of the items transferred, less any savings (which may not exceed the fair market value of the items transferred) accruing to the Department of Defense from an avoidance of the cost of removal of such items from the Republic of Korea or of the disposal of such items. The concessions may include cash compensation, services, waiver of charges otherwise payable by the United States (such as charges for demolition of United States-owned or United States-intended munitions), and other items of value.

(4) Termination.—No transfer may be made under the authority of this subsection after the date that is three years after the date of the enactment of this Act.

GENERAL LEAVE

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the Senate bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Latham). Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of Senate bill 1988, a bill to authorize the transfer of items in the War Reserve Stockpile for Allies, Korea.

Section 514 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 provides no U.S. Department of Defense articles which have been set aside for future use by any foreign country may be made available for that country's use, unless the transfer is authorized under that act, the Arms Control Export Act, or subsequent corresponding legislation. Consistent with that provision of law, Senate bill 1988 would authorize the President to transfer to the Republic of Korea certain obsolete or surplus U.S. Department of Defense munitions, equipment, and other materiel.

The prepositioned stocks established by the U.S. Department of Defense in Korea and Japan in 1973 in order to supplement Korea's military sustainment now constitutes an aging stockpile. Senate bill 1988 would permit the Department of Defense to seek concessions, such as fair market value, from the Republic of Korea in exchange for the transfer of these stocks to Korea's inventory. This approach would be consistent with the ongoing realignment of the United States Armed Forces in Korea and the objective of increased Korean self-sufficiency. It would also reduce the costs to the United States, otherwise necessitated by transporting this materiel back to the United States for disposal and demilitarization.

Senate bill 1988's provisions are nearly identical to those contained in section 752 of House Resolution 2601, the Foreign Relations Authorization Act for the Fiscal Years 2006 and 2007. H.R. 2601 passed the House on July 20 by a recorded vote of 351-78. The Senate has not yet completed floor consideration of a Foreign Relations Authorization Act. It passed a stand-alone bill, Senate bill 1988, on November 9, 2005, authorizing the transfer of these stocks to the Republic of Korea. Since timely action was necessary to assure the proper management and the disposition of reserved stocks located in that region, this limited purpose bill is before us today. I hope my colleagues will join me in supporting this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this measure, and I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this bill will grant important authorities to the United States military related to stockpiles in South Korea. In particular, it will allow the United States to sell or transfer equipment to the South Korean military for use or disposal.

This will ensure that the United States is not forced to transport unnecessary or obsolete military equipment back to the continental United States at a considerable cost.

The authority contained in this legislation must be renewed from time to time, and that time has, once again, come. The authority remains an important tool in our defense strategy and should be renewed.

This legislation is a good government bill, Mr. Speaker, and I urge all of my colleagues to support it.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) that the House suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill, S. 1988.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

TERRORIST REWARDS ENHANCEMENT ACT

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 2329) to permit eligibility in certain circumstances for an officer or employee of a foreign government to receive a reward under the Department of State Rewards Program.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 2329

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Terrorist Rewards Enhancement Act".

SEC. 2. ELIGIBILITY IN CERTAIN CIRCUMSTANCES FOR AN AGENCY OF A FOREIGN GOVERNMENT TO RECEIVE A REWARD UNDER THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE REWARDS PROGRAM.

(a) ELIGIBILITY.—Subsection (f) of section 36 of the State Department Basic Authorities Act of 1956 (22 U.S.C. 2708(f)) is amended—

(1) by striking "(f) INELIGIBILITY.—An officer" and inserting the following:

"(f) INELIGIBILITY.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), an officer"; and

(2) by adding at the end the following new paragraph:

"(2) EXCEPTION IN CERTAIN CIRCUMSTANCES.—The Secretary may pay a reward to an officer or employee of a foreign government (or any entity thereof) who, while in the performance of his or her official duties, furnishes information described in such subsection, if the Secretary determines that such payment satisfies the following conditions:

"(A) Such payment is appropriate in light of the exceptional or high-profile nature of the information furnished pursuant to such subsection.

"(B) Such payment may aid in furnishing further information described in such subsection.

"(C) Such payment is formally requested by such agency.".

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Subsection (b) of such section (22 U.S.C. 2708(b)) is amended in the matter preceding paragraph (1) by inserting "or to an officer or employee of a foreign government in accordance with subsection (f)(2)" after "individual".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) and the gentleman from California (Mr. LANTOS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Florida.

GENERAL LEAVE

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am very pleased to support the suspension of the rules to bring Representative KIRK's bill, the Terrorist Rewards Enhancement Act, House Resolution 2329, to the floor, and I strongly support its passage.

The bill has Chairman HYDE's full and vigorous support, and is much needed in the hunt for Osama bin Laden and other terrorists around the globe.

The International Relations Committee has long worked with Congressman KIRK, a member of the Foreign Operations Appropriations Subcommittee, in promoting needed reform and practical changes to the State Department's Justice Rewards program. This program has in the past helped to lead to the capture of key global terrorists like Ramzi Yousef and Amil Kanzi, the fugitive killer of the CIA's several employees, and others.

The latest reform is one that Representative KIRK and the International Relations Committee developed after a visit to a very remote part of Pakistan and the Afghan border earlier this year where bin Laden and other radical Islamic terrorists operate and hide.

This bill is very simple, Mr. Speaker. It provides authorization for the payment of terrorist rewards by the State Department to those entities of foreign governments who might assist us in finding these terrorists under extraordinary circumstances and when the payment of the reward may lead to the capture of other key terrorists as well. We need the help of agencies of government and foreign agencies around the globe to do this difficult job, especially considering the limits on our own human intelligence sources.

In addition, the reward payment must be requested formally in writing by foreign governments and the Secretary of State has complete discretion as to whether to grant it, and the decision is not subject to judicial challenge. It is meant for limited and rare circumstances.

Let us give our frontline U.S. agencies and law enforcement personnel around the globe yet one more tool needed to capture and to bring to justice these global terrorists who mean us evil and great harm. I ask for the adoption of the Terrorist Rewards Enhancement Act.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this measure, and I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I want to commend my good friend from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) and my good friend from Illinois (Mr. KIRK) for introducing this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, the United States must do all that is legal and ethically appropriate to bring to justice terrorists who have committed heinous acts against the United States and our citizens. An important tool to achieve this objective is the Department of State's Rewards Program. By giving our Secretary of State the authority to offer a significant cash reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of terrorists, we recruit additional agents in the fight against global terrorism, ordinary people who may obtain extraordinary information that would allow the United States or a foreign country to apprehend terrorists.

Mr. Speaker, over 4 years after 9/11, Osama bin Laden is still at large, and apparently no closer to being in our custody today than he was on September 12, 2001. The United States obviously must do more to bring this monstrous man to justice. Our bill would take another small, but potentially important step in that direction. It would allow our Secretary of State in extraordinary circumstances to authorize a cash reward to a foreign government official who may have provided critical information resulting in the arrest and conviction of such a terrorist. I stress to all of my colleagues that this authority is to be used only where the information is critical to the capture of a key terrorist figure at severe risk or of severe harm to the informant.

Will this authority provide additional incentive for a foreign government official to provide us with this information perhaps with regard to Osama bin Laden? We cannot know that today, Mr. Speaker; but if it might, then we must proceed to provide the Secretary of State with this new authority.

I urge support for this resolution.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. KIRK), the original sponsor of the bill.

Mr. KIRK. Mr. Speaker, the State Department's Terrorist Rewards Program is one of the most successful and inexpensive programs against international terrorists.

As a staff member to Chairman Gilman, I drafted the enhancements to this program that made it a very successful program in the arrest of United Nations war criminals in Yugoslavia. Chairman HYDE, Chairwoman ROS-LEHTINEN, and Ranking Member LANTOS joined me several years ago in increasing this rewards program to a total offer of $50 million. We also enacted more important reforms that authorize brand new newspaper, radio, and TV ads to increase the impact of this program.

Mr. Amil Sanzi killed Americans outside CIA headquarters before fleeing to Pakistan. Matchbox covers with his face on them provided the impetus for the key tip that led to his arrest, conviction, and execution. Uday and Qusay Hussein, the murderous sons of Saddam Hussein, were found and cornered by a tip from this program. Today, we are hunting down Osama bin Laden, Ayman Zawahiri, and Mullah Omar, the leaders of al Qaeda and the Taliban dictatorship.

I have conducted two official missions to the Afghan-Pakistan border where conventional wisdom has located the probable sites of the al Qaeda core leadership. I assessed this rewards program and proposed improvements to change its effectiveness. We found that the radio, newspaper, and TV ads in Pakistan are working. Under Richard Griffin, the Assistant Secretary of State for Diplomatic Security; Ryan Crocker, our very able Ambassador to Pakistan; and David Noordelas, a very able diplomatic security professional, we executed a $200,000 TV and radio campaign that led to dozens of new tips against leaders of the al Qaeda core.

We are about to relaunch this program, and it will be even more successful.

But there is one problem. Many officials in this part of the world make only $200 or $300 a year. This bill gives the President and Secretary of State the flexibility to authorize rewards for the arrest of the top, key, high-value targets: bin Laden, Zawahiri, Zarqawi, people who lead al Qaeda and its war on Americans. We need this flexibility to grant such rewards.

The arrest of Osama bin Laden is a mission of near messianic importance to the American people, and we have a winner here in the rewards program. With the reforms the House passes today, we increase the odds that we will crush the al Qaeda core in some of the most remote parts of the Earth.

I want to thank Chairwoman ROS-LEHTINEN, Ranking Member LANTOS, and John Mackay of the International Relations staff for his particular help on this key issue that will add enhancements to one of the most successful anti-terror programs in the United States.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 2329.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

EXPRESSING SUPPORT FOR THE MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING SIGNED BY THE GOVERNMENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF INDONESIA AND THE FREE ACEH MOVEMENT

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 456) expressing support for the memorandum of understanding signed by the Government of the Republic of Indonesia and the Free Aceh Movement on August 15, 2005, to end the conflict in Aceh, a province in Sumatra, Indonesia.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. RES. 456

Whereas for three decades there has been a continuous armed conflict in Aceh, a province in Sumatra, Indonesia;

Whereas violence between the Indonesian military and the Free Aceh Movement has resulted in an estimated 15,000 deaths in the region;

Whereas the tsunami that occurred on December 26, 2004, killed at least 165,000 people in Aceh and devastated the landscape;

Whereas after the tsunami both the Government of Indonesia and the Free Aceh Movement recognized that a peaceful settlement of the conflict would have to be reached to enable the rebuilding of Aceh;

Whereas after months of negotiating through the Crisis Management Initiative chaired by former President Martti Ahtisaari of Finland, the parties agreed to a draft memorandum of understanding to end the conflict in July 2005;

Whereas Hamid Awaludin, Minister of Law and Human Rights of Indonesia, and Malik Mahmud, of the Free Aceh Movement, signed the final memorandum of understanding on August 15, 2005, in Helsinki;

Whereas the memorandum of understanding provides a timetable for disarmament of the Free Aceh Movement and troop withdrawals by the Indonesian military;

Whereas the memorandum of understanding provides the people of Aceh with new political powers and the right to retain 70 percent of the revenues from certain natural resource extractions from the province;

Whereas a Truth and Reconciliation Commission and a Human Rights Court will be established for Aceh;

Whereas the Free Aceh Movement has agreed to forego its demand for independence; and

Whereas Indonesian President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono has provided amnesty and released hundreds of Free Aceh Movement members being held in prison since the signing of the peace agreement: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) expresses support for the memorandum of understanding signed by the Government of the Republic of Indonesia and the Free Aceh Movement on August 15, 2005, to end the conflict in Aceh, a province in Sumatra, Indonesia, and congratulates both parties for their willingness to compromise;

(2) expresses the hope that both parties live up to their commitments under the memorandum of understanding and that peace and security can finally be achieved in Aceh after three decades; and

(3) encourages the Secretary of State and the Administrator of the United States Agency for International Development to commit resources in guaranteeing the peace and building a strong civil society in Aceh.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LATHAM). Pursuant to the rule, the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) and the gentleman from California (Mr. LANTOS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Florida.

GENERAL LEAVE

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of House Resolution 456, which expresses our support for the memorandum of understanding signed by the government of the Republic of Indonesia and the Free Aceh Movement on August 15, 2005.

For three decades, the province of Aceh in southern Sumatra, Indonesia, was the site of armed conflict between the Indonesian military and the separatist Free Aceh Movement. That seemingly intractable conflict claimed approximately 15,000 lives, including those of many innocent civilians.

The dynamics there changed in an even more tragic way on December 26 of last year when a massive tsunami devastated the region, killing more than 160,000 people in Aceh alone. Overshadowed by the horror of that natural disaster, the parties recognized that reconstruction would require an end to the civil conflict. For months they worked toward the drafting of a memorandum of understanding to end this conflict which was completed and signed in late August after the leadership of the Free Aceh Movement relinquished their demands for independence.

The memorandum grants the people of Aceh long-awaited political powers and a greater share of the revenues generated by the natural resources in the province. It provides for the disarmament of the Free Aceh Movement and troop withdrawals by the Indonesian military. I commend the Indonesian President for the foresight and the initiative that he has shown in this instance, and I hope that it might serve as a template for resolving other long-standing conflicts in his great nation.

We share the hopes of the people of Aceh for peace, reconstruction and the development of a civil society in their province. This resolution is a timely show of our support for the peace process. The resolution deserves our unanimous support.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, and I rise in strong support of this resolution.

I first would like to commend my distinguished colleague and good friend from New York (Mr. CROWLEY), a key member of the International Relations Committee, for introducing this important measure related to Indonesia.

Mr. Speaker, the Indonesian province of Aceh has known great sadness and tragedy for decades. A long-simmering civil war between the Free Aceh Movement and the Indonesian military took the lives of over 15,000 innocent civilians over the past 30 years.

Tragically, the December 2004 tsunami struck Aceh very hard. At least 165,000 men, women and children of this region of Sumatra were killed as a result of that horrendous natural disaster. The province was utterly devastated.

A year after the tsunami, Mr. Speaker, hundreds of thousands of Acehnese are still struggling to rebuild their lives and their homes, a process that will take many more years to complete and in thousands of instances will never be completed.

It is perhaps due to this great human devastation that the leaders of the Free Aceh Movement and the Indonesian government intensified their efforts to work out a solution to the civil war in that part of Sumatra. The devastation wrought by the tsunami allowed all parties to put their differences in perspective and to concentrate on negotiating a peace deal that was so desperately desired by most Acehnese.

If I might digress for a moment, long before I joined Congress I visited Sumatra, and I was impressed by the quality of the extraordinary people of this very important island. It has been a tragedy that the central government and the people of Aceh have not been able to agree until now on a satisfactory modus vivendi.

Now we have an agreement between the rebels and the government signed in August of this year, and this is a very positive development. It is also a testament to the staying power of the Finnish negotiators, led by our good friend, the former Finnish President Martti Ahtisaari, who brought the parties together.

I urge all of my colleagues to support this important resolution.

Mr. Speaker, I yield as much time as he might consume to the gentleman from New York (Mr. CROWLEY), the distinguished author of this legislation.

Mr. CROWLEY. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend and colleague from California (Mr. LANTOS), the ranking member of our committee and the International Relations Committee, for yielding me this time.

I rise in strong support of House Resolution 456, which expresses support for the memorandum of understanding signed by the government of Indonesia and the Free Aceh Movement, a document that was signed on August 15 of this year that will end the conflict in Aceh, a province in Sumatra, Indonesia.

Before I discuss the merits of this resolution, I would like to thank my colleagues who have joined me in support of this resolution, in particular the gentleman from Washington (Mr. MCDERMOTT), the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) and the gentleman from Florida (Mr. WEXLER).

Aceh was brought to my attention in the year 2000 by one of my constituents, Jafar Siddiq Hamzah, a human rights lawyer from Aceh. Mr. Jafar told me about the abysmal human rights record of the Indonesian military and others throughout the province of Aceh. Upon his return to Aceh in August of 2000, not long after we met, Mr. Jafar was abducted in Medan, tortured for several weeks, and found mutilated in a mass grave in the fall of 2000. Cases like Mr. Jafar's happened too often and motivated me to push for an end to his 3-decade-long conflict that he so much wanted to see ended, that took over 15,000 Aceh lives.

This resolution expresses support for the peace agreement signed on August 15 of this year by the Free Aceh Movement and the government of Indonesia. This agreement saw both sides making several concessions in order to broker this peace.

The Free Aceh Movement has abandoned its demands for independence and has agreed to disarm. On the other side, the government of Indonesia has granted amnesty for the Free Aceh prisoners and has agreed to a timeline of troop withdrawal.

The memorandum has also given the people of Aceh new political powers that will allow them to retain 70 percent of the revenue from the natural resources of their province.

A truth and reconciliation commission and a human rights court will also be established, giving the people the machinery for justice, as well as for peace.

The considerable compromises that both sides made in this memorandum of understanding shows their willingness to secure peace for the citizens of Indonesia and Aceh.

This resolution acknowledges and expresses support for the memorandum signed by the Indonesian government and the Free Aceh Movement. This resolution further expresses hope that both parties will fulfill their commitments so that peace will be instilled in the region.

Lastly, and perhaps most significantly, this resolution encourages the Secretary of State and the Administrator for the United States Agency for International Development to commit resources so that peace can be supported and so that peace will endure.

I support this resolution to show the people of Aceh and the government of Indonesia that the U.S. Congress supports this progress as well.

Lastly, as my good colleague from California mentioned, the devastation of the tsunami, the tsunami that took so many, many lives, perhaps that tsunami did take many lives and we know it did. This peace accord will ensure, if carried through, that many, many more people within Aceh will not lose their lives, and for that, Mr. Speaker, I ask all my colleagues to support this worthy resolution.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, we have no additional requests for time, and I yield back the balance of our time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I also have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of our time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 456.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

EXPRESSING SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING EDUCATION CURRICULUM IN SAUDI ARABIA

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 275) expressing the sense of Congress regarding the education curriculum in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. CON. RES. 275

Whereas the terrorist attacks on the United States on September 11, 2001, were carried out by 19 hijackers, including 15 Saudi Arabian nationals;

Whereas since September 11, 2001, multiple terrorist attacks have occurred inside the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia that were carried out by Saudi nationals;

Whereas Saudi nationals have joined the insurgency in Iraq, carrying out terrorist activities and providing financial support;

Whereas the Government of Saudi Arabia controls and regulates all forms of education in public and private schools at all levels;

Whereas Islamic religious education is compulsory in public and private schools at all levels in Saudi Arabia;

Whereas the religious curriculum is written, monitored, and taught by followers of the Wahhabi interpretation of Islam, the only religion the Government of Saudi Arabia allows to be taught;

Whereas rote memorization of religious texts continues to be a central feature of much of the educational system of Saudi Arabia, leaving thousands of students unprepared to function in the global economy of the 21st century;

Whereas the Government of Saudi Arabia has tolerated elements within its education system that promote and encourage extremism;

Whereas some textbooks in Saudi Arabian schools foster intolerance, ignorance, and anti-Semitic, anti-American, and anti-Western views;

Whereas these intolerant views instilled in students make them prime recruiting targets of terrorists and other extremist groups;

Whereas extremism endangers the stability of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and the Middle East region, and threatens global security;

Whereas the events of September 11, 2001, and the global rash of terrorist attacks since then, have created an urgent need to promote moderate voices in the Islamic world as an effective way to combat extremism and terrorism;

Whereas the report of the National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States stated that "Education that teaches tolerance, the dignity and value of each individual, and respect for different beliefs is a key element in any global strategy to eliminate Islamist terrorism"; and

Whereas the ascension of King Abdullah to the throne in August 2005 presents a new opportunity for education reform in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That the Congress—

(1) urges the Government of Saudi Arabia to reform its textbooks and education curriculum in a manner that promotes tolerance and peaceful coexistence with others, develops civil society, and encourages functionality in the global economy;

(2) urges the President to direct the Secretary of State to use existing public diplomacy channels, international visitor exchanges, professional development, and educational reform programs, including those under the Middle East Partnership Initiative and the Broader Middle East Initiative, to focus on the issue of educational reform in Saudi Arabia in accordance with the objectives enumerated in paragraph (1);

(3) expresses extreme disappointment with the slow pace of education reform in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia;

(4) urges the President to take into account progress in meeting the goals outlined in paragraph (1) when determining the level and frequency of United States bilateral relations with the Government of Saudi Arabia; and

(5) requests that the Secretary of State examine the educational system in Saudi Arabia, monitor the progress of the efforts to reform the education curriculum, and report on such progress, in classified form if necessary, to the appropriate congressional committees.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) and the gentleman from California (Mr. LANTOS) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentlewoman from Florida.

GENERAL LEAVE

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Florida?

There was no objection.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of House Concurrent Resolution 275, which expresses the sense of Congress regarding modifications in the education curriculum in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

It is unfortunate that some of the textbooks which are used in Saudi Arabian schools foster intolerance, ignorance and anti-Semitic, anti-American and anti-Western views. Extremism in any form endangers the stability of the Middle East and undermines the efforts to create a conflict-free environment. There is an urgent need to promote moderate voices in the Islamic world as an effective way of fighting extremism.

Educational reform, with an emphasis on tolerance and respect for religious differences, can enhance the possibilities of harmony in this troubled region. Our children need to learn the concepts of peace and tolerance, not war and hatred.

The resolution recognizes the opportunity presented by the ascension of King Abdullah to the thrown in Saudi Arabia to call for education reform in his country.

It also establishes that progress on such reform is a priority for the United States and a factor to be considered when determining the level of our diplomatic engagements with the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

It also urges the President to direct the Secretary of State to use the means at her disposal to assist the Saudis in such education reform.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this important resolution. I congratulate my colleague from Florida.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of our time.

☐ 1500

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, and I rise in strong support of this resolution.

Mr. Speaker, first, I want to commend my good friend and distinguished colleague from Florida (Mr. DAVIS), a former member of the International Relations Committee, for introducing this most important measure relating to the curriculum in Saudi Arabia. We all appreciate his leadership on this important matter.

Mr. Speaker, as all of us as parents know, we have an enormous obligation not only to ensure that our children receive an education which will enable them to function in this century, but that their education include an important quotient of understanding other religions and other cultures, and an education that resists the temptation to demonize those that we do not understand.

Mr. Speaker, the Government of Saudi Arabia has singularly failed to accomplish this important task. The extremist Wahhabi religious education which is present in Saudi schools encourages and promotes extremism, viciously anti-American, anti-Western, and anti-Semitic attitudes. It fosters hatred and intolerance.

It is no surprise, Mr. Speaker, that 15 of the 19 hijackers on September 11 were Saudi nationals. The vile hatred filling the minds of so many young Saudis in schools makes them prime targets for terrorists and other extremist groups. I urge all my colleagues to support this important resolution.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. DAVIS).

Mr. DAVIS of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the ranking member, Congressman LANTOS, for his support on this legislation that has been pending for about 3 years, and the chair of the committee, Congresswoman ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN, my colleague from Florida, and also the cosponsor of this legislation, Mr. KING of New York, the chairman of the Homeland Security Committee.

As has been described, this resolution is actually very simple. It is constructive pressure on the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia to reform the content of their school system to rid that content of anti-Semitic, anti-Western extremist material that is forced upon the education curriculum in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia by radical extremists in the Wahhabi sect in Saudi Arabia.

This legislation is the product of two trips I have taken to the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. Like many Americans, like many Members of Congress, I searched for the answers after September 11 to make sure that what happened on that day would never happen again. My personal search, my search as a Member of Congress, took me to the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia just a few months after September 11.

I visited, as did other Members of Congress, with the Minister of Education of Saudi Arabia and with the Crown Prince of Saudi Arabia, now the King of Saudi Arabia. The King of Saudi Arabia understands this problem. For far too long, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia has allowed radical elements within the country to control the school system. As was mentioned by Mr. LANTOS, it is not a coincidence that 15 of the 19 hijackers on September 11, 2001, came from the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

What this legislation specifically says is that the Congress is directing the President of the United States to provide a report to the Congress and to the American people as to the status of efforts by Saudi Arabia to reform their school system, and we are in fact pressuring and calling upon and encouraging the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia to do exactly that.

We need to have a relationship with this country that allows us to be open and honest in expressing our concerns. These are not just issues within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. These are not just threats of terrorism to the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and the Middle East. These are, in fact, as we sadly know from our history, threats to the United States as well.

There has been a report card issued by the 9/11 Commission in the last few weeks about the efforts of this country to learn from September 11. I am sad to report that one of the areas that received a D was the failure of this Congress and this administration to openly discuss changes and to make changes in our policy towards the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. It is my hope today that this resolution represents an overdue step in that direction as Democrats and Republicans coming together, I believe unanimously, to say to the administration that it is time to speak out on this issue and to do so constructively.

Mr. Speaker, on this Sunday in my hometown of Tampa, in my State, it is a game day for many communities. I believe what the United States Government needs in the war on terrorism is the same thing that the Tampa Bay Bucks need right now in my hometown, which is a strong defense and a smarter offense. A smarter offense is identifying the root causes of terrorism and aggressively addressing them.

This is, in fact, one of the root causes of terrorism. It is the creation of extremism and extremists in the schools of Saudi Arabia in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. And this bill represents an attempt to work with the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia to put an end to that root cause of terrorism as well as others.

I want to urge my colleagues to join Congressman PETER KING and me, Congressman LANTOS, and Congresswoman ROS-LEHTINEN in strongly and unanimously supporting this resolution.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, I want to commend my friend for his thoughtful and powerful statement.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GILLMOR). The question is on the motion offered by the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution, H. Con. Res. 275.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds of those present have voted in the affirmative.

Mr. LANTOS. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. RENZI) and the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. FRANK) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Arizona.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. RENZI. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on this legislation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Arizona?

There was no objection.

Mr. RENZI. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to have the opportunity today to speak on a bill I introduced earlier this year and that passed the House in April, the Native American Housing Enhancement Act. Subsequent changes to this bill by the other body were merely stylistic in nature, and they do not change the substance of this important legislation.

While visiting with my Navajo and Apache constituents, I have learned that there is a need for a focus on long-term housing planning. This legislation will give tribes needed flexibility in spending grant money to enable vital housing projects to be completed more quickly. This bill makes three changes to help Native American communities in rural Arizona and across the Nation better address their housing needs.

The first section of this bill clarifies that tribes are allowed unrestricted access to new Native American housing funds from HUD even if tribes retain program income from previous years.

Currently, a tribe's grant money may be restricted if the tribe is receiving program income in excess of their operating costs. This clarification is critical to ensuring that we are not creating a disincentive for tribes to create income or plan for their future developments.

This bill also brings USDA housing programs into alignment with HUD programs in allowing for Indian preference, which allows tribes to abide by the Indian Civil Rights Act.

Currently, tribal governments may not exercise Indian preference for USDA programs because it would be considered a civil rights violation by giving preference based on racial designation. Indian preference is something tribal governments value greatly in addressing the needs of their citizens. This is not a race issue. Indian preference recognizes the political designations of tribes as sovereign entities that have entered into a government-to-government relationship with the United States. This legislation will help to ensure greater tribal use of USDA rural development grants and programs.

Additionally, because another program that tribes used for their youth programs existed when the Native American Housing Assistance Act was enacted, accessibility to Youth Build funds was taken away. The Youth Build program assists communities by building new housing for needy families.

Not only are tribes now prohibited from applying for Youth Build funds, but other organizations serving Native youth are prohibited as well; yet the statistics are overwhelming:

The suicide rate for Native youth is three times the national average. Alcohol-related deaths among Native American ages 15 to 24 are 17 times higher than the national average. Native youth ages 12 to 20 are 58 percent more likely to become crime victims than any other race in this category.

As of February, 2001, the latest statistics available, 74 percent of youth in custody in the Federal Bureau of Prisons systems were Native American youth, an increase of 50 percent since 1994.

Native American youth represent only 1 percent of the American population and yet constitute as much as 3 percent of the prison population.

These grim statistics speak to the importance of programs that teach life skills and give a sense of community to children in Indian Country. It is clear that these children should be able to participate in the Youth Build program that will help build better neighborhoods, more self-esteem, and make a difference for their future. The Native American Housing Enhancement Act will help Native Americans build strong homes, strong communities, and help many to achieve the American Dream of homeownership.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank our subcommittee chairman, Mr. NEY of Ohio, for helping me push this legislation through. Also, without the assistance and partnership of Mr. BARNEY FRANK of Massachusetts and Mr. DENNIS KUCINICH, we could not have gotten this pushed through. It has really been a bipartisan piece of legislation. I urge my colleagues to support this legislation, and I look forward to its passage.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. FRANK of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume, and I agree with what the gentleman from Arizona said. We have made a bipartisan effort on our committee, the Committee on Financial Services, to really address the problem of Indian housing, which has shamefully been, I think, ignored and given inadequate attention by both the executive and the legislative branch, and by both parties. There is more than enough blame to go around.

We also need to say, and I am myself a supporter of casino enterprises by Indians, but not every tribe has one. Not every tribe wants one. And we need to deal with the fact that while some people have this image of those tribes which have casinos doing very well, there continues to be some of the worst poverty in America on the reservations and among the tribes.

This legislation is very important. The gentleman from Arizona and I and others, also earlier this year, had a hearing in which I must say I was dissatisfied with the responses we got. There are questions when you do Indian housing that come out of the land title situation, because of the atypicality by American legal standards of Indian landholding; and we have not had at either the legislative or executive branch or on behalf of either party the attention that the people deserve to their housing needs.

This is a step. It is not the end. I am glad we are doing this. But I think I can serve notice, and I know the gentleman from Arizona agrees with me, that next year those people in the executive branch charged with this can be expected to be held to a much higher standard of performance than they have been held to before. We are determined to correct this situation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

☐ 1515

Mr. RENZI. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Massachusetts. I am grateful for the partnership. This problem is much, much bigger than party, and he has been a true friend and companion on this issue.

I also want to put the administration on notice that when it comes to this new piece of miracle software that is supposed to be able to fix this title search issue, we are going to follow up here in less than 6 months to find out the results of that implementation and the results of how many clear titles they have been able to procure and to process within a timely fashion.

Home ownership on the Native American reservations around this country is below 30 percent. It is the smallest amount of anywhere in the country of any minority group. Yet home ownership is the way to be able to break the cycle of poverty.

One of the best leaders that we have had, along with the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. FRANK), is the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. NEY), who helped, with Mr. FRANK, in the historic hearing that we had on the Navajo Nation, the first hearing since the 1800s where Indian housing has had a chance to even be heard of or had a field hearing.

I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. NEY).

Mr. NEY. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Arizona for yielding me the time and also my colleagues on both sides of the aisle for their hard work to bring this legislation to the floor. It is important, it is bipartisan. We had the hearing in which were present the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. RENZI), the gentlewoman from California (Ms. WATERS), the gentleman from Utah (Mr. MATHESON). It was the first hearing that we could find in the history of the House actually held on the tribal ground.

When we also looked in the subcommittee at the issues for people to be able to get a house, can you imagine if you had to wait 1 or 2 years to get your title? I think the interest rates had probably changed by that time.

I applaud the work that you have done, Congressman RENZI, on that issue. It is so important because of the conditions for native Americans in the housing, and, again, very proud of the work that you have done, Congressman RENZI, and the bipartisan effort by our colleagues on both sides of the aisle to help people who really need the assistance.

Mr. FRANK of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, first I would yield to the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) for a unanimous consent request.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in very, very strong support of this important legislation for the Indian American community.

Mr. FRANK of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds.

Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentleman mentioning our colleague from Utah (Mr. MATHESON), who has been very active in this, and also the staffs from our committee have worked very well together. I think it is the first time that such attention has been devoted at both the Member and staff level. I am very appreciative of our ability to do that together.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. KUCINICH).

Mr. KUCINICH. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Massachusetts, and I want to thank him for his advocacy for Native American housing. I rise in strong support of H.R. 797, the Native American Housing Enhancement Act of 2005, sponsored by the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. RENZI). I want to thank him for the quality of spirit which led him to propose this.

I would like to say that I have had the opportunity to visit with many tribal communities over the last few years. I understand the need for this legislation. I also want to thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. NEY) for his advocacy on this issue. He and I have worked together on this housing issue, and I am glad to be here with him.

This bill requires federally recognized, self-governing Indian tribes to comply with the Indian Civil Rights Act, title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1968, if they received financial assistance from the Agriculture Department for farm housing.

Under current law the Department can provide loans to farm owners to improve housing conditions for themselves or their workers. The Indian Civil Rights Act prohibits tribes from making laws that restrict freedom of religion, freedom of speech or freedom of the press. It also sets out the requirements pertaining to fair due process for people who are arrested.

The measure also exempts tribes currently in compliance with the Indian Civil Rights Act and tribes acting under other federally affordable housing programs in compliance with certain sections relating to fair housing and other civil rights laws which overlap with provisions in the Indian Civil Rights Act.

Finally, the bill provides consistency across tribal housing programs by treating tribes applying for housing programs within the USDA the same as tribes applying for housing programs within HUD. It allows tribes to comply with title II of the Indian Civil Rights Act of 1968 rather than title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 when securing Federal funds for USDA housing programs.

This bill will encourage home ownership and enhance housing opportunities for Native Americans around the country. It gives tribes more flexibility when developing housing improvement projects. Native American housing needs considerable improvement. Approximately 90,000 Indian families are homeless or underhoused. Nearly 33 percent of Native American homes are overcrowded, while 33 percent lack adequate solid waste management systems, and 8 percent lack a safe indoor water supply. This is a good bill that will supply tangible benefits.

Mr. FRANK of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. RENZI. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Massachusetts mentioned the gentleman from Utah (Mr. MATHESON). Without the gentleman from Utah who actually attended the hearing, we could not have gotten this done.

The Navajo Reservation is 18 million acres, larger than the State of West Virginia. It spans the State of Arizona, Utah and New Mexico. I also want to thank the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. NEY), everyone pulling together on this.

The new housing land map that just came out shows that that portion of America is the largest poverty-ridden land mass in the State. I know these gentlemen have a history, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. NEY) and the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. FRANK), of working hard on poverty issues. I thank you so much for stepping up, particularly in this time, when finally it is becoming aware that the remaining poverty in this country, one of the largest land masses of poverty in the Nation, is up there in that Four Corners area.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, this legislation improves the availability of Federal housing monies to Native Americans. It makes the requirements applicable to Indian tribes and their housing entities under the Housing Act of 1949 consistent with the Native American Housing Assistance and Self Determination Act; allows Indian tribes to have access to YouthBuild program grants; and makes technical corrections to NAHASDA to remove impediments to getting funds that serve no purpose.

There is no question that this bill, and any bill that improves Federal housing assistance to Native Americans, is sorely needed. Native Americans have an overall poverty rate twice that of the rest of the United States. In particular, they face a dramatic shortage of safe and adequate housing. Some 90,000 Native-American families are homeless or live in very poor conditions. Even among those who have housing, about a third of Native American homes lack adequate sewage systems, and 8 percent do not have safe drinking-water systems.

For that reason, this bill—introduced by Mr. RENZI and Mr. MATHESON—has received strong bipartisan support in both chambers of Congress. The House passed the bill by voice vote on April 6, and the Senate passed its version on November 8, also by voice vote. Our passage of the Senate version today sends this to the President's desk.

Essentially, this bill ensures that Indian tribes seeking housing assistance from the Federal Government are not caught between conflicting and preclusive requirements of different Federal agencies administering different Federal acts.

Also, the bill makes Indian tribes eligible for Youthbuild grants. These grants are part of a HUD program that provides job training and academic assistance to low-income young people. Again, this is sorely needed by Native American youth.

I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. RENZI. Mr. Speaker, I have no other speakers, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GILLMOR). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. RENZI) that the House suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendments to the bill, H.R. 797.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate amendments were concurred in.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

LITTLE ROCK CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL DESEGREGATION 50TH ANNIVERSARY COMMEMORATIVE COIN ACT

Mr. RENZI. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and concur in the Senate amendment to the bill (H.R. 358) to require the Secretary of the Treasury to mint coins in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the desegregation of the Little Rock Central High School in Little Rock, Arkansas, and for other purposes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. RENZI) and the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Arizona.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. RENZI. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks on this legislation and to include extraneous material thereon.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Arizona?

There was no objection.

Mr. RENZI. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. I rise in support of H.R. 358, the Little Rock Central High School Desegregation 50th Anniversary Commemorative Coin Act, which was introduced by the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. SNYDER). This legislation recognizes a uniquely important moment in the history of this Nation and the civil rights movement.

Passage of this legislation will allow the Secretary of the Treasury to issue coins commemorating the 50th anniversary of the desegregation of Little Rock Central High School in Little Rock, Arkansas. The legislation before the House is similar to the language passed by this Chamber in late June, with the important addition of language that slightly alters the mechanism for the distribution of surcharges that would be generated by the sale of these coins.

However, this bill preserves the important reforms made a decade ago in the Commemorative Coin Reform Act that specifies that non-Federal funds must be raised to match the surcharge money received. It further recognizes the unique partnership between the Department of Interior and the Little Rock School District at the Little Rock Central High School National Historic Site and the significant financial contributions made by the district to preserve and maintain the historic character of the high school.

Technical language was added by the Senate, with the full agreement of the chairman and ranking member of the House committee of jurisdiction and of the author of the reform language, and in no way either signifies a deviation from the intent or letter of the reform language or establishes a precedent or practice different than that laid forth in the reform language that organizations which are named recipients of the surcharges on the sale of commemorative coins must show the strength of their organization and the widespread public support of the honored organization or project by raising nongovernmental funds in an amount equal to or exceeding the surcharges received.

I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 358, the Little Rock Commemorative Coin Act, introduced by the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. SNYDER). This bill authorizes the Treasury to mint a dollar coin during the year 2007 in honor of the 50th anniversary of the desegregation of the Little Rock Central High School in 1957.

Those events, which have gone down in history, were the first major tests of the Supreme Court's landmark 1954 decision in Brown v. Board of Education that segregation in schools was unconstitutional.

None of us who were alive in 1957 will ever forget seeing those nine African American children walk bravely into Central High School surrounded by Federal troops and a raging mob. Their courage in the face of hatred and their resolute determination to overcome bigotry serves as a shining light to all of us. I don't believe any one of us are aware of what a historic event it was and what a history changing event it has become. Imagine the strength that it must have taken.

Only days before one of the students was almost lynched when she attempted to enter Central on the first day of school, and the Arkansas National Guard kept the other African American students out. The events of the next few days are the stuff of legends.

NAACP lawyer Thurgood Marshall and a future member of the Supreme Court obtained a Federal ruling preventing Governor Orval Faubus from using the National Guard to keep the nine children out of Central High. Although Faubus announced on TV that he would comply with the court order he added that the nine should stay away, and I quote from his own words, stay away for your own safety, end quote. Encouraged by his comments, a mob surrounded the school.

Finally, at the request of Congressman Brooks Hays and Mayor Woodrow Mann, President Eisenhower dispatched 1,000 troops of the 101st Airborne Division to Little Rock to protect the nine school children and federalized the Arkansas National Guard so that Faubus could not order them to intervene.

Incidentally, Brooks Hays lost his next election because of the strong feeling of the community. It was an act of bravery on his part.

On September 25, 1957, the Little Rock Nine, Ernest Green, Elizabeth Eckford, Melba Patillo, Jefferson Thomas, Carlotta Walls, Terrence Roberts, Gloria Ray, Thelma Mothershed and Minnijean Brown, entered Central High School and went to class.

A year later, in 1958, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., attended the graduation of Ernest Green, the first African American student ever to graduate from Central High. Mr. Green is now a partner in Lehman Brothers. In fact, all of the Little Rock Nine went on to professional achievements in and strong contributing lives to their communities.

This bill has over 300 bipartisan cosponsors and has been passed by the House by voice vote in June. We consider today the bill, as amended by the Senate, which contains a provision requested by the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. SNYDER) to fix a problem that we learned of after House passage.

The amendment provides that the Little Rock School District can satisfy the statutory requirement of matching private funds through a local bond issue. In light of the unique circumstances of the Little Rock historical site, I would like to deeply thank the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. OXLEY) and the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. FRANK) for their help in solving this problem and moving this legislation forward.

On the 40th anniversary of the Little Rock Nine, President Clinton gave a Congressional Gold Medal. There was a celebration here in the Library of Congress, and in this Congress I had the opportunity of meeting many of them and congratulating them for their historic life-changing courage that helped so many others through their courage and acts.

□ 1530

I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RENZI. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I thank the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) and particularly want to thank the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. SNYDER) for pulling together the support, the vast amount of support on a bipartisan basis to recognize the pain and suffering the Little Rock Nine have given to move this country forward.

Mr. Speaker, I have no additional speakers, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield as much time as he may consume to the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. SNYDER), the author of this important resolution.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY) and the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. RENZI) for their support and work on this bill. I also want to thank Ranking Member FRANK and Chairman OXLEY, who were both personally involved in seeing this bill through from the beginning to the end.

I had occasion yesterday to call the Central High School National Historic site. The park headquarters is now in an old gas station that was there in 1957. It has been wonderfully restored. There is a new visitor center that is coming over the next couple of years that should be ready for the 50th anniversary also.

But the person that answered the phone, I heard this young woman's voice and I knew right away who it was. It was Spirit Trickey, who is a park ranger that works at the site. Her mother was Minnie Jean Brown Trickey, one of the Little Rock Nine. And you talk about having a sense of the change. I have heard Spirit talk before in a speech with tears in her eyes what it has meant for her and her generation, the sacrifices that her mother and the other members of the Little Rock Nine, what their sacrifices meant to her.

So we come here today with two purposes. One is to have these coins issued to remember and honor the Little Rock Nine and the sacrifices of them and their families, but also the very practical one, to help raise dollars to tell the story at the site.

And as Mr. RENZI pointed out, the Little Rock Central High School is a very fine functioning school district. It is not an abandoned historic site. It is run by the Little Rock School District. And so we had this practical problem that the gentleman iterated about how do you do this match when the dollars are raised through tax dollars.

And so I concur with the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. RENZI). The intent of this legislation is not to change the underlying law. It is to say because of the unique situation that this site can meet its match for this commemorative coin dollar by matching the dollars raised through local and State millage taxes, not Federal dollars, but through local millage elections, which they have done and will continue to do.

So I want to thank everyone that participated in this, and again thank Mr. RENZI and Mrs. MALONEY for the passage of this bill.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. DAVIS).

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentlewoman from New York for yielding time. I also want to commend the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. SNYDER) for introducing this legislation. I never miss an opportunity to comment on anything that was taking place in Arkansas at that time because at that time I was a young contemporary of the Little Rock Nine. As they went into high school, and some were seniors, I was a freshman in college a few miles away down at the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff. Of course at that time it was Arkansas AM&N College. And I remember vividly Daisy Bates, the outstanding head of the NAACP, who actually grew up down in the little part of Arkansas, in rural Arkansas where I came from.

Wiley Branton was the outstanding attorney. They were our heroes. Of course, as the gentlewoman from New York has indicated, all of the Little Rock Nine have gone on to become outstanding citizens. I have had the good fortune to know some of them or members of their family. I did student teaching at the school where Mrs. Patillo taught, who was Melba Patillo's mother, and so I knew her at that time. Minnie Jean Brown and I spent a weekend together last year down at Southern Illinois University, where she was a speaker at the university where she graduated. And all of us have seen Ernie Green throughout the country, as he has become a distinguished civic and business leader. Of course Ernie was the Undersecretary of Labor during the Carter Administration.

So I simply come to urge support. Again, I commend Mr. SNYDER, an outstanding Representative who represents all of the people in that great city and in that great area. And I urge its passage.

Mrs. MALONEY. I yield 2½ minutes to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE), who incidentally, was born in New York State.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY), the esteemed and honorable and great leader, not only for her distinguished support of this legislation but for the work that we have been doing regarding Sojourner Truth. I thank the gentlewoman so very much for her leadership, along with a number of friends here on the floor. We are not debating that bill right now, but I do want to mention the wonderful members of the House Administration Committee, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. NEY), and the gentlewoman from California (Ms. MILLENDER-MCDONALD).

But we are here to salute the legislation that has been offered by the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. SNYDER), H.R. 358; and I thank the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. RENZI) for contributing to the leadership for this bill now coming to the floor of the House.

This is a story in history that so many of us grew up looking at and our lives and our future depended on. The outright leadership and heroism of the nine young people, all under the age of 21, who accepted the challenge of breaking the bars and the concrete ceiling of segregation in Little Rock, Arkansas, go a very long way to opening the doors of opportunity for those of us who followed. Though it was a secondary school and called upon the State of Arkansas to recognize the importance of educating all children, you can be assured it was a continuing journey. After the Brown v. Topeka Board of Education decision, this was just another milestone, if you will, to providing young people across America who were discriminated against for no other reason than for the color of their skin to have the doors of educational opportunity open to them.

The vision of Mr. SNYDER to put forward this coin in order to ensure that funding continues to protect this site goes a long way to allowing us to enjoy it and be, if you will, informed about it. Let me salute the Little Rock 9, as they are adults, and let me salute Mr. Ernie Green, who served in the United States Cabinet of President William Jefferson Clinton, for his ongoing civic leadership, along with his many, many other students who were part of the Little Rock 9.

If we are a people who fail to remember our history, Mr. Speaker, we are doomed to repeat the past. This is a forward-thinking legislative initiative. I salute Mr. SNYDER for his vision, and it is going to be exciting for the many school children around America to go and understand how tough it is to be able to fight against all odds, but how important it is to be able to accept the challenge and then win.

With that I ask my colleagues to join in the salute and support of this legislation.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of the proposed legislation, the "Little Rock Central High School Desegregation 50th Anniversary Commemorative Coin Act."

In September 1957, nearly half a century ago, nine African-American students entered Little Rock Central High School in Little Rock, Arkansas. The students were forced to enter the school under the protection of the National Guard, which had been "federalized" by President Dwight David Eisenhower. So contentious was the Brown v. Board of Education decision, which ruled that segregation in schools was unconstitutional, that Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus, had vowed to do everything in his power to prevent integration of Little Rock schools.

The nine students, now referred to as the "Little Rock Nine," were Ernest Green, Elizabeth Eckford, Melba Patillo, Jefferson Thomas, Carlotta Walls, Terrence Roberts, Gloria Ray, Themla Mothershed, and Minnijean Brown. The integration of these nine brave students, along with other heros of the time like Rosa Parks, paved the way for the civil rights movement of the 1950s and 1960s. The event was perceived to be so important in forwarding the movement that Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., attended the graduation of the Little Rock Nine from Little Rock Central High School in 1958.

Part of the collected revenue of the sale of this coin—a $10 surcharge per coin—will be used for the protection and preservation of resources and stories associated with the Little Rock Central High School National Historic Site. I believe this effort is especially important. Segregation and discrimination was a dark period of our country's history, and we must retell the stories of our history so we may learn from the mistakes of our past.

Let us honor and celebrate this important historical event of half a century ago, but let us also remember there are still steps to be taken for racial equality. Let this coin remind us of the battles for freedom and equality of yesteryear, and the battles still being fought here and across the world today.

I urge my colleagues to vote in support of this resolution.

Mrs. MALONEY. Mr. Speaker, I do not have any further speakers. I congratulate Mr. SNYDER for his leadership on this legislation and Mr. RENZI, and their leadership on many other issues.

I yield back the balance of my time, and I urge the unanimous support of this important bill.

Mr. RENZI. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

In summation, I do not deserve any credit for this. The credit really deserves to go to the gentleman from Arkansas (Mr. SNYDER), the gentlewoman from New York (Mrs. MALONEY), and the delegation from Arkansas who really pulled together the House in a bipartisan fashion. I want to thank the gentleman for pulling together a community, too, down in Arkansas and allowing them to rally around the unique history of their land.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GILLMOR). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. RENZI) that the House suspend the rules and concur in Senate amendment to the bill, H.R. 358.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the Senate amendment was concurred in.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

HONORING HELEN SEWELL ON THE OCCASION OF HER RETIREMENT FROM THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. NEY. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 633) honoring Helen Sewell on the occasion of her retirement from the House of Representatives and expressing the gratitude of the House for her many years of service.

The Clerk read as follows:

H. RES. 633

Whereas Helen Sewell, the proprietor of the concession stand in the Republican Cloak Room of the House of Representatives, through her long and devoted service to the House and its Members, has become a House institution in the minds and hearts of House Members;

Whereas Helen Sewell has worked at the counter in the Cloak Room since she was a teenager in the 1930's;

Whereas Helen Sewell's service to the House of Representatives is a continuation of a family tradition, as her father began working in the Cloak Room 87 years ago;

Whereas Helen Sewell, as a result of her almost seven decades of service, has been present for some of the defining events in the Nation's history and the House's history, including the attack by Puerto Rican nationalists on March 1, 1954;

Whereas Helen Sewell has established personal relationships with many of the 20th century's most important Americans, including Presidents Ford, Nixon, and George H.W. Bush;

Whereas Helen Sewell's dedication to her work, and her careful attention to Members of the House, has provided both nourishment and friendship to Members of the House since the days of the Great Depression;

Whereas Helen Sewell has demonstrated extraordinary strength and endurance by working long and difficult hours past her 80th year;

Whereas Helen Sewell received the 1983 John W. McCormick Award of Excellence for her service to the Congress;

Whereas all who have served as Members in the United States House of Representatives, and who have had occasion to meet Helen Sewell, believe that her service to the House is a matter of historical importance and should be commemorated; and

Whereas Helen Sewell will retire officially from the House of Representatives on December 31, 2005: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives honors Helen Sewell on the occasion of her retirement and expresses its gratitude for her many years of service.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. NEY) and the gentlewoman from California (Ms. MILLENDER-MCDONALD) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Ohio.

Mr. NEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I am not going to be lengthy in my comments because I know our ranking member is going to say something, and then I am going to yield a lot of time to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON), who has asked for this resolution, and rightfully so to ask for it.

When I came to the House around 11 years ago, I guess, one of the first persons I ever met was Helen Sewell. And I soon found out she is probably one of the most important people, in fact, in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Mr. Speaker, a lot of the public would not be aware unless they had the chance to be here on the floor, but in back of the Chamber on one side is the Democrat Cloakroom and on the other side is the Republican Cloakroom. And of course I have been over in the Democrat Cloakroom. They have got good sandwiches over there, too, which you can buy. And in our Cloakroom on the Republican side, Helen runs a little counter and we call it Helen's Cafe. She makes sandwiches and of course the Members buy those sandwiches or soup, and she has been doing that for such a long time. She is just a fine woman who always has a pleasant smile, always has a good word constantly to say when she was here.

And as many people in the country know, if they watch C–SPAN of course, that we will be voting sometimes till 2 and 3, in fact probably this morning we will be voting until 4 a.m. And if in fact we are here voting at 4 a.m. and if Helen were here working, she would be back there still providing people, you know, with pop and water and sandwiches and different things, because you cannot get out of the building at that time to go find something to eat and you are sitting here long hours. So she did that. She provided that nutrition for everybody.

But, again, she always did it with such a pleasant smile. Helen is a lovely woman who really gave, frankly, great service to her country by doing what she did; and for that, Helen, on behalf of the House, we think the world of you. We wish you the best in your retirement. And we send all our love to Helen.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. MILLENDER-MCDONALD. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I thank my chairman for his words for this delightful woman who has served so admirably in this House.

I am very pleased to first acknowledge Congresswoman ELEANOR HOLMES NORTON, whom Ms. Sewell is her constituent, and she has sent a note to say that because of a scheduled event here in the District, she is trying to arrive here in time to offer remarks honoring Ms. Helen Sewell, a longtime Washington, D.C. resident.

Mr. Speaker, this long-serving and dedicated staff of the House deserves recognition of the Members of this House and the public alike.

I would like to express my appreciation to the gentleman from Pennsylvania, my dear friend Mr. CURT WELDON, for providing the opportunity today to praise Helen Sewell for her long, loyal, and dutiful service. She deserves being singled out for recognition, and the gentleman from Pennsylvania has captured that in this resolution, and I am sure his words will also be reflective in that as we speak of her service to the House, not only her but her father. So certainly she and her father were and are House institutions.

Having served since she was 15 years old, she has served admirably following those 87 years of her father. We look at the woman when she was young and is still young in spirit to see that she has served almost 7 decades, has been here, has been here as it was said by the reader, during the attack of Puerto Rican nationalists on March 1 of 1957 and has had personal relationships with many persons and including Presidents Ford, Nixon, and George H. Walker Bush. She has provided much friendship and nourishment to the Members of this House and has had an extraordinary endurance and strength in her long-working years. I would like to say that she deserves this recognition. It is a fitting tribute, and it speaks volumes of the type of institutional dedication that is all too hard to find in our world today.

However, she is a representative of others who labor in this House during the people's business by supporting us policymakers as we carry out our constitutional roles. So Ms. Sewell will be retiring on December 31 after many long-serving years. But there are other staffers who are retiring and who have served admirably as well. While we honor Ms. Sewell on the occasion of her retirement, let us also take this opportunity to thank and to honor the other House officers and staff who will follow her into retirement after serving this House for more than 30 years. Kudos to all of those great folks.

Mr. Speaker, all Members wish her good health and good fortune, and we want her to start a new chapter of her life.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. NEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the distinguished gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. WELDON), and I want to thank him for bringing this resolution to the floor. This was his idea on behalf of the House to do it, and we certainly appreciate it.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I, first of all, want to thank the distinguished chairman and the ranking member for their outstanding support of this legislation, and this legislation is extremely important because it sends a signal not just to our colleagues but to the country that this is an institution where we all work together in a very compatible way.

Oftentimes people who watch C–SPAN and people who read about the Congress think that we are filled with adversity, that we do not get along, and nothing could be further from the truth.

This is a great institution. I have had the pleasure of serving here now 19 years. I am in my tenth term, and I have met some wonderful people, people on both sides of the aisle, people who may disagree on the issues but are strong and close friends when we get together when we are not in session or when we have events that are important for this country.

But what makes this institution work are the staff, the people who work behind the scenes, the people who take down the minutes of what is said, the clerks, the people who record, the people who run the C–SPAN camera system, the people who run this institution of the building itself, the Architect of the Capitol and the employees. And while many members of the public do not get to see behind the scenes, there are in fact two Cloakrooms, one for each side of the aisle. Yet we are certainly welcome to go into either Cloakroom anytime. There is no prohibition, and I am sure Helen has served perhaps as many meals to Democrats as she has to Republicans.

And it is appropriate that we honor someone who has been with this institution for one-third of the history of this institution. Can we imagine that, Mr. Speaker? This woman served this country and this institution for a period of time that is equal to one-third of the history of this Nation and this institution. A woman who started following in her father's footsteps when she was a teenager, he would bring here down here to the Republican Cloakroom. Her father ran the Cloakroom where, during the hours that we were in session, Members can go back and take telephone calls. They can purchase a sandwich or a cup of soup. They can sit and chat. And Helen was always there for the past 71 years to provide an atmosphere of friendship, an atmosphere of positive reinforcement after Members of Congress from time to time would leave the well after having given lengthy speeches.

And she served during unbelievable times, starting with the Great Depression and serving in this institution when some of the great moments in our country's history were declared, when some of the greatest State of the Union speeches were made.

So she is a part and a legacy of what makes this institution great, and it is only appropriate that we honor her in this way because, in fact, Mr. Speaker, she served 71 years. There is no employee in the history of the Congress, including Members of the House or Senate, who has served more than Helen Sewell.

Helen could not be with us today, Mr. Speaker, but she is watching this proceeding from her bed at her retirement home. We have talked to Helen's family. We talked to her daughter, and they are watching with her.

And, Helen, we are not allowed to speak to you directly because that violates the rules of the House, but through the Speaker, I will say to you, Helen, that we wish you well. We are all thinking about you. Many of your friends are signing a card for you, and if you look behind me, these beautiful roses will be delivered to you later on today as a symbol of the love that all 1,500 Members of Congress that you have come in contact feel about your service.

Every Member of Congress has had a chance to interact with Helen Sewell. Think of that. Fifteen hundred Members of Congress that have come and gone over the past 71 years have interfaced with this lady.

In fact, Mr. Speaker, we keep these photographs in the back of the Cloakroom that I thought it might be appropriate to let our constituents see. Here is Helen Sewell, and it shows the love by Presidents of the United States who also served as former Members of Congress. We can see by the admiration that these Presidents have for Helen that they enjoyed her company, and we can see the high degree of respect that they would pay to her when they frequently visited the House Chambers.

Now, because she worked for us I do not have any photographs of Democrat Presidents, but I know President Clinton was just as fond of Helen Sewell as were Republican Presidents, but it is just that she worked for our side.

This is another photograph of Helen with one of our dear Presidents.

So, Mr. Speaker, this resolution is a celebration of this institution. It is a celebration 1 week before Christmas, where we in fact are wrapping up the business of the people. But we take the time to honor those people who allow this institution to work, the people whom you do not see, the people who do not make the speeches, the people who do not go out and get their pictures on national TV and in the media, but the people whom really we rely on to allow us to be successful.

Helen, we thank you for your great support and the commitment you have made to America in support of our Congress.

Helen has three children: Jameille Thomas, Anthony Sewell, and Ava Fuller.

Ava, thank you for talking to me today and telling me about your mother.

Helen's father brought her to this institution, and we want to also recognize Helen's father. And, boy, did he have an appropriate name: Benjamin Franklin Jones. It was Helen's father who brought her to this institution 71 years ago to allow her to begin to work and love this institution that was such a critical part of her life.

Helen was also involved with her church. She was active with the Petworth United Methodist Church here in D.C. She was a trustee. She was a church historian. She was an active member of the Northwest Civic Association. Helen has nine grandkids, and I have been told she has too many great grandkids to number, that it is probably in the dozens and dozens.

And we also, Helen, have to tell a few secrets about you, because as these Members of Congress would go into the back Cloakroom to get sandwiches we would sometimes have to get Helen's attention.

Helen had a small TV set, one of these small 10-inch TV sets. And Helen's favorite preoccupation, when she was not waiting on Members of Congress, was watching the soaps. Helen was a national expert and historian on the soap operas. She could tell us any day of the week who was dating whom and which person was, in fact, in trouble with which other person.

Helen, we will preserve those memories of your activities in the Cloakroom and the fact that your famous word of hollering to us "next" will be remembered by all the Members of Congress that miss you today. But when they enter the Cloakroom and see that sign above it that says "Chez Helen," the House of Helen, that was in fact provided by our former colleague Amo Houghton, we want you all to know, Helen, that we love you, that we miss you, that your retirement is a symbol of work that you have put forward and it is a symbol of how we in this institution have to from time to time stop and say "thank you," "thank you" to those people behind the scenes who make this Congress and this institution such an important part of America's history and legacy.

Ms. MILLENDER-McDONALD. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE).

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the Congresswoman very much for yielding me this time, and as usual we pay great respect and appreciation for her leadership on so many of these legislative initiatives that bring tribute and honor and respect to Americans throughout the Nation.

Let me thank the chairman of the House Administration Committee. We are always noting that this is a committee that serves the House, and we thank Mr. NEY for his able leadership on providing that outstanding service.

I thank Mr. WELDON for acknowledging that we may be out front but our existence is based upon the hardworking men and women that serve America by serving the United States Congress, both the House and the Senate.

And that is why I rise, because I had the pleasure in my tenure here to stick my head into the Republican Cloakroom. As my colleagues well know, Members meet and talk on many issues in our respective Cloakrooms, and we travel back and forth between the Cloakrooms. And I had the opportunity to meet Ms. Sewell and to watch her hold court, if you will, and preside.

We may be presiding here, Mr. Speaker. The Speaker may be in the Speaker's chair, but I can tell my colleagues, as I watched Helen Sewell work she was presiding. She knew all the Members. She knew what they liked and disliked. And I would say from her actions, she showed us that she truly loved and respected this institution.

Many of us are here because we love and respect the values of America and this institution. And Helen, through her family's legacy, Benjamin Franklin Jones, her father, showed that. Is it not amazing that this family has owned this institution, this business that has served in the Cloakroom on the Republican side, for 87 years and to note that she has been here during such challenging times as thousands of State of the Union addresses and, of course, the tragedy of the Puerto Rican nationalists attack on March 1, 1954. She is renown and known to Presidents Presidents Ford, Nixon, and certainly President George H. W. Bush.

Also, I would say that being such a young person and coming to this institution, she is knowledgeable about American history, certainly by listening to bits and pieces from Members. She has seen the war in World War II, the Vietnam War, certainly the Persian Gulf war, and certainly other incidences of history.

Helen Sewell received the 1983 John W. McCormick Award of Service for service to the Congress. As I indicated, this legislation indicates she will retire on December 31, 2005. So I think it is appropriate today that we stand here, among the other responsibilities we have, and be able to salute Helen Sewell on the occasion of her retirement and express our deepest gratitude.

It is important to thank those who serve this institution for their service and to also acknowledge that they love this institution. This resolution is an appropriate tribute to Helen Sewell and to her family, her grandchildren, and her children; and I thank you, Mr. WELDON and Mr. NEY and Ms. MILLENDER-MCDONALD for allowing the Members to come to the floor and pay their tributes. May God bless Helen Sewell, and God bless America.

Ms. MILLENDER-MCDONALD. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, let me again thank Representative CURT WELDON for a great tribute to this outstanding woman. What a great Representative you are in bringing this to the floor today and to display all of the beautiful pictures that you have shown to us today in honor of this great lady.

Mr. Speaker, the House of Representatives honors Ms. Sewell on the occasion of her retirement and expresses its gratitude for her many years of service. We thank you, Ms. Sewell.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. NEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. GILCHREST).

Mr. GILCHREST. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time, and I want to thank Mr. WELDON from Pennsylvania and all those who have come down here this afternoon to honor just a great lady, a wonderful person. For as long as this building stands, Helen's Cafe will be an intimate part of the U.S. Capitol.

Emerson said heroism is the quiet obedience to the secret impulse of character; and whenever we walked into Helen's Cafe, we had that sense. We could look at Helen and our stress would wash away with her smile, our anxiety about partisan politics or legislation or not getting something done would somehow become a little bit more eased.

Her remarks at the Members leaning up against that counter talking about this or talking about that would be, "Oh, Lord." I can still hear Helen saying "Oh, Lord." Or if you made a comment about her sandwiches were too expensive, of course they were always a fraction of the price of what they would be anywhere else, but if you said something like that, "Helen, this is a little pricey, I only got a sandwich and a glass of water," she said "Oh, Lord."

Her stories about her family and her father and the perspective has been given here this afternoon. But can you imagine someone coming here while President Roosevelt was the President, Richard Nixon and Jack Kennedy were Members of Congress, and, it has already been spoken, World War II, the Korean War, the Vietnam War, conflicts around the world with the Middle East, the Persian Gulf war, right on up to the present conflict in Iraq.

Her advice to us, and we took it, was, "You need your rest. Rest yourself." Can you hear Helen saying that? "Rest yourself." Or if you had a sandwich and you did not want anything to drink she would go around and get you a glass of water. "You have to wash that down with something. It is too dry. You need something to drink. You need your nourishment." How many times did we hear Helen say that? "You need your nourishment. You work too hard."

Mr. Speaker, we still talk about Helen in Helen's Cafe. And Miss Helen, Pat is doing a great job. She is following your suit. She is set in Helen's Cafe because of your gentle, serene example.

By the way, I have to say this through the Speaker, if you are heading across the Bay Bridge on that church bus and you are going to do what you like to do in Delaware, you have a standing invitation to stop at my house to play 500 rummy. Now, we might throw out a few pennies there, but there is a standing invitation from all of us.

Helen, we wish you Merry Christmas, the best of holidays, and your character, that secret impulse that you left us, will linger here for all time.

Thank you, Curt.

Mr. NEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am just going to conclude by thanking the Members for being here today, our ranking members. This could not have happened without Congresswoman JUANITA MILLENDER-MCDONALD being here and taking her time to give tribute, and, of course, the other Members, Congresswoman SHEILA JACKSON-LEE and Congressman GILCHREST. Especially, of course, I want to thank Congressman WELDON of Pennsylvania for doing this, for giving Helen the honor that she so deserves.

Obviously, from everything that we have heard today, I think the whole Nation can understand the feeling we have for Helen and how we miss her being here. Of course, when I conclude, I am going to ask for the RECORD to be kept open because Members are going to want to submit statements for the record to Helen to give her the honor she so deserves. So we wish Helen the best.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. DREIER).

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I thank my very good friend, the chairman of the House Administration Committee, for yielding me time.

I was just crossing a television between football games, getting ready to watch the Redskins beat the Cowboys in just a few minutes, and I caught this flower arrangement here, and then started to see these photographs of Helen up, and I said, My gosh, what is going on down here? And it brought back incredible memories for me.

As I know my colleagues on this side of the aisle know, I do not know if my colleagues on the other side of the aisle know, this is my 25th year here. I have served exactly half the amount of time that the Dean of the House, John Dingell, has served. So I have to tell about my first term.

In my first term, Helen Sewell was in an incredible ceremony that then Speaker Tip O'Neill presided over. She was honored in the Sam Rayburn Room right over there, and she was named the Employee of the Year for the U.S. Capitol. I do not know if it has been stated, but on one of the plaques we have right here out in the hallway, and we do not do this terribly often, we have not done it on an annual basis, and, in fact, after Helen Sewell received that reward, I think we went for a long period of time without honoring another employee of the year.

But I listened attentively as my friend from Maryland was talking about Helen making sure that people had enough food and drink in them to be sustained through these long hours of work. I will tell you as I listened to that. I was thinking, a number of us have been working very long hours, and I will tell you I take my hat off especially to the staff, for there has been literally no sleep for a lot of the staff members who are trying to get this very important work that we are proceeding with completed. But Helen would be here ensuring that everyone was very, very healthy; and she was an inspiration to all of us. I heard the bit about the soap operas and all that she followed so attentively.

But I thank my colleagues for recognizing Helen, because she was one of the first people I met when I came here a quarter century ago, and she could not have been any nicer to me then, and our thoughts and prayers are with her.

I look forward to seeing her cross that Bay Bridge and going to play cards with WAYNE GILCHREST. I think that should be an interesting game when she stops by his house. But I thank my colleagues for recognizing Helen, who has been a great friend to so many of us.

Ms. NORTON. Mr. Speaker, I am particularly pleased to join my colleagues in honoring Helen Sewell as she retires from the House of Representatives. Helen Sewell has honored our city as a longtime resident and the House by devoting extraordinary service under the particularly difficult hours and circumstances of service in the cloak room. Ms. Sewell's devotion to the House, to the people of the United States, and to the District, whom we service, has been so great that she was still serving at 80 years old. Her loyalty to the House and its work has given vital support to Members of Congress and to the important business of the country.

As the House honors Ms. Sewell and wish her well, the residents of the District of Columbia join me in thanking Helen Sewell for dedicated service to the House of Representatives.

Mr. NEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. GILLMOR). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. NEY) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 633.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds of those present have voted in the affirmative.

Mr. WELDON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this question will be postponed.

GENERAL LEAVE

SEC. 8117. (a) FINDINGS.—The Senate makes the following findings:

(1) The Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2004 (Public Law 108–87), the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2005 (Public Law 108–287), and the Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for Defense, the Global War on Terror, and Tsunami Relief, 2005 (Public Law 109–13) each contain a sense of the Senate provision urging the President to provide in the annual budget requests of the President for a fiscal year under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code, an estimate of the cost of ongoing military operations in Iraq and Afghanistan in such fiscal year.

(2) The budget for fiscal year 2006 submitted to Congress by the President on February 7, 2005, requests no funds for fiscal year 2006 for ongoing military operations in Iraq or Afghanistan.

(3) According to the Congressional Research Service, there exists historical precedent for including the cost of ongoing military operations in the annual budget requests of the President following initial funding for such operations by emergency or supplemental appropriations Acts, including—

(A) funds for Operation Noble Eagle, beginning in the budget request of President George W. Bush for fiscal year 2005;

(B) funds for operations in Kosovo, beginning in the budget request of President George W. Bush for fiscal year 2001;

(C) funds for operations in Bosnia, beginning in the budget request of President Clinton for fiscal year 1997;

(D) funds for operations in Southwest Asia, beginning in the budget request of President Clinton for fiscal year 1997;

(E) funds for operations in Vietnam, beginning in the budget request of President Johnson for fiscal year 1966; and

(F) funds for World War II, beginning in the budget request of President Roosevelt for fiscal year 1943.

(4) In section 1024(b) of the Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for Defense, the Global War on Terror, and Tsunami Relief, 2005 (119 Stat. 252), the Senate requested that the President submit to Congress, not later than September 1, 2005, an amendment to the budget of the President for fiscal year 2006 setting forth detailed cost estimates for ongoing military operations overseas during such fiscal year.

(5) The President has yet to submit such an amendment.

(6) In February 2005, the Congressional Budget Office estimated that fiscal year 2006 cost of ongoing military operations in Iraq and Afghanistan could total $85,000,000,000.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) any request for funds for a fiscal year after fiscal year 2006 for an ongoing military operation overseas, including operations in Afghanistan and Iraq, should be included in the annual budget of the President for such fiscal year as submitted to Congress under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code;

(2) the President should submit a budget request for fiscal year 2006 setting forth estimates for ongoing military operations overseas during such fiscal year; and

(3) any funds provided for a fiscal year for ongoing military operations overseas should be provided in appropriations Acts for such fiscal year through appropriations to specific accounts set forth in such appropriations Acts.

Sec. 8126. Support for Youth Organizations. (a) Short Title.—This Act may be cited as the "Support Our Scouts Act of 2005".

(b) Support for Youth Organizations.—

(1) Definitions.—In this subsection—

(A) the term "Federal agency" means each department, agency, instrumentality, or other entity of the United States Government; and

(B) the term "youth organization"—

(i) means any organization that is designated by the President as an organization that is primarily intended to—

(I) serve individuals under the age of 21 years;

(II) provide training in citizenship, leadership, physical fitness, service to community, and teamwork; and

(III) promote the development of character and ethical and moral values; and

(ii) shall include—

(I) the Boy Scouts of America;

(II) the Girl Scouts of the United States of America;

(III) the Boys Clubs of America;

(IV) the Girls Clubs of America;

(V) the Young Men's Christian Association; .

(VI) the Young Women's Christian Association;

(VII) the Civil Air Patrol;

(VIII) the United States Olympic Committee;

(IX) the Special Olympics;

(X) Campfire USA;

(XI) the Young Marines;

(XII) the Naval Sea Cadets Corps;

(XIII) 4–H Clubs;

(XIV) the Police Athletic League;

(XV) Big Brothers—Big Sisters of America; and

(XVI) National Guard Youth Challenge.

(2) In General.—

(A) Support for Youth Organizations.—

(i) Support.—No Federal law (including any rule, regulation, directive, instruction, or order) shall be construed to limit any Federal agency from providing any form of support for a youth organization (including the Boy Scouts of America or any group officially affiliated with the Boy Scouts of America) that would result in that Federal agency providing less support to that youth organization (or any similar organization chartered under the chapter of title 36, United States Code, relating to that youth organization) than was provided during the preceding fiscal year. This clause shall be subject to the availability of appropriations.

(ii) Youth Organizations That Cease to Exist.—Clause (i) shall not apply to any youth organization that ceases to exist.

(iii) Waivers.—The head of a Federal agency may waive the application of clause (i) to any youth organization with respect to each conviction or investigation described under subclause (I) or (II) for a period of not more than 2 fiscal years if—

(I) any senior officer (including any member of the board of directors) of the youth organization is convicted of a criminal offense relating to the official duties of that officer or the youth organization is convicted of a criminal offense; or

(II) the youth organization is the subject of a criminal investigation relating to fraudulent use or waste of Federal funds.

(B) Types of Support.—Support described under this paragraph shall include—

(i) holding meetings, camping events, or other activities on Federal property;

(ii) hosting any official event of such organization;

(iii) loaning equipment; and

(iv) providing personnel services and logistical support.

(c) Support for Scout Jamborees.—

(1) Findings.—Congress makes the following findings:

(A) Section 8 of article I of the Constitution of the United States commits exclusively to Congress the powers to raise and support armies, provide and maintain a Navy, and make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces.

(B) Under those powers conferred by section 8 of article I of the Constitution of the United States to provide, support, and maintain the Armed Forces, it lies within the discretion of Congress to provide opportunities to train the Armed Forces.

(C) The primary purpose of the Armed Forces is to defend our national security and prepare for combat should the need arise.

(D) One of the most critical elements in defending the Nation and preparing for combat is training in conditions that simulate the preparation, logistics, and leadership required for defense and combat.

(E) Support for youth organization events simulates the preparation, logistics, and leadership required for defending our national security and preparing for combat.

(F) For example, Boy Scouts of America's National Scout Jamboree is a unique training event for the Armed Forces, as it requires the construction, maintenance, and disassembly of a "tent city" capable of supporting tens of thousands of people for a week or longer. Camporees at the United States Military Academy for Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts provide similar training opportunities on a smaller scale.

(2) Support.—Section 2554 of title 10, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(i)(1) The Secretary of Defense shall provide at least the same level of support under this section for a national or world Boy Scout Jamboree as was provided under this section for the preceding national or world Boy Scout Jamboree.

"(2) The Secretary of Defense may waive paragraph (1), if the Secretary—

"(A) determines that providing the support subject to paragraph (1) would be detrimental to the national security of the United States; and

"(B) reports such a determination to the Congress in a timely manner, and before such support is not provided.".

(d) Equal Access for Youth Organizations.—Section 109 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5309) is amended—

(1) in the first sentence of subsection (b) by inserting "or (e)" after "subsection (a)"; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

"(e) Equal Access.—

"(1) Definition.—In this subsection, the term 'youth organization' means any organization described under part B of subtitle II of title 36, United States Code, that is intended to serve individuals under the age of 21 years.

"(2) In General.—No State or unit of general local government that has a designated open forum, limited public forum, or nonpublic forum and that is a recipient of assistance under this chapter shall deny equal access or a fair opportunity to meet to, or discriminate against, any youth organization, including the Boy Scouts of America or any group officially affiliated with the Boy Scouts of America, that wishes to conduct a meeting or otherwise participate in that designated open forum, limited public forum, or nonpublic forum.".

Sec. 8127. Regulations to Clarify Gift Acceptance Policy for Service Members and Their Families. (a) Regulations.—The Secretary of Defense shall prescribe regulations to provide that, subject to such limitations as may be specified in such regulations, members of the Armed Forces described in subsection (c), and the family members of such a member, may accept gifts from non-profit organizations, private parties, and other sources outside the Department of Defense, other than foreign governments and their agents. Such regulations shall apply uniformly to the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps, and, to the maximum extent feasible, to the Coast Guard, and shall apply uniformly to the active and reserve components.

(b) Authority.—A member of the Armed Forces described in subsection (c) may accept gifts as provided in the regulations authorized in subsection (a), notwithstanding section 7353 or title 5, United States Code.

(c) Covered Members.—A member of the Armed Forces is described in this subsection in the case of a member who is on active duty and who on or after September 11, 2001, and while on active duty, incurred an injury or illness—

(1) as described in section 1413a(e)(2) of title 10, United States Code; or

(2) in an operation or area designated as a combat operation or a combat zone, respectively, by the Secretary of defense in accordance with the regulations prescribed under subsection (a).

(d) Deadline for Regulations.—Regulations under subsection (a) shall be prescribed not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(e) Retroactive Applicability of Regulations.—Regulations under subsection (a) shall, to the extent provided in such regulations, also apply to the acceptance of gifts during the period beginning on September 11, 2001, and ending on the date on which such regulations go into effect.

Sec. 8128. Section 106(g) of the Alaska Natural Gas Pipeline Act (15 U.S.C. 720d) is amended by striking "later" and inserting "earlier".

TITLE IV.—HURRICANE EDUCATION RECOVERY ACT

Subtitle A—Elementary and Secondary Education Hurricane Relief

Sec. 101. FINDINGS; DEFINITIONS.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Rita have had a devastating and unprecedented impact on students who attended schools in the disaster areas.

(2) Due to the devastating effects of Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Rita, a significant number of students have enrolled in schools outside of the area in which they resided, including a significant number of students who enrolled in non-public schools because their parents chose to enroll them in such schools.

(3) 372,000 students were displaced by Hurricane Katrina. Approximately 700 schools have been damaged or destroyed. Nine States each have more than 1,000 of such displaced students enrolled in their schools. In Texas alone, over 45,000 displaced students have enrolled in schools.

(4) In response to these extraordinary conditions, this subtitle creates a one-time only emergency grant for the 2005–2006 school year tailored to the needs and particular circumstances of students displaced by Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Rita.

(5) The level and type of assistance provided under this subtitle, both for students attending public schools and students attending non-public schools, is made available solely because of the unprecedented nature of the crisis, the massive dislocation of students, and the short duration of the services or assistance.

(b) DEFINITIONS.—Unless otherwise specified in this subtitle, the terms used in this subtitle have the meanings given the terms in section 9101 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 7801).

SEC. 102. IMMEDIATE AID TO RESTART SCHOOL OPERATIONS.

(a) PURPOSE.—It is the purpose of this section—

(1) to provide immediate services or assistance to local educational agencies and non-public schools in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Texas that serve an area in which a major disaster has been declared in accordance with section 401 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5170), related to Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita; and

(2) to assist school administrators and personnel of such agencies or non-public schools with expenses related to the restart of operations in, the re-opening of, and the re-enrollment of students in, elementary schools and secondary schools in such areas.

(b) PAYMENTS AUTHORIZED.—From amounts appropriated to carry out this subtitle, the Secretary of Education is authorized to make payments, on such basis as the Secretary determines appropriate, taking into consideration the number of students who were enrolled, during the 2004–2005 school year, in elementary schools and secondary schools that were closed on September 12, 2005, as a result of Hurricane Katrina or on October 7, 2005, as a result of Hurricane Rita, to State educational agencies in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Texas to enable such agencies to provide services or assistance to local educational agencies or non-public schools serving an area in which a major disaster has been declared in accordance with section 401 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5170), related to Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita.

(A) The number of school-aged children served by the local educational agency or non-public school in the academic year preceding the academic year for which the services or assistance are provided.

(B) The severity of the impact of Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita on the local educational agency or non-public school and the extent of the needs of each local educational agency or non-public school in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Texas that is in an area in which a major disaster has been declared in accordance with section 401 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5170), related to Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita.

"(a) LIABILITY PROTECTIONS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the other provisions of this section, a covered person shall be immune from suit and liability under Federal and State law with respect to all claims for loss caused by, arising out of, relating to, or resulting from the administration to or the use by an individual of a covered countermeasure if a declaration under subsection (b) has been issued with respect to such countermeasure.

“(2) SCOPE OF CLAIMS FOR LOSS.—

“(A) LOSS.—For purposes of this section, the term ‘loss’ means any type of loss, including—

“(i) death;

“(ii) physical, mental, or emotional injury, illness, disability, or condition;

“(iii) fear of physical, mental, or emotional injury, illness, disability, or condition, including any need for medical monitoring; and

“(3) CERTAIN CONDITIONS.—Subject to the other provisions of this section, immunity under paragraph (1) with respect to a covered countermeasure applies only if—

“(A) the countermeasure was administered or used during the effective period of the declaration that was issued under subsection (b) with respect to the countermeasure;

“(4) APPLICABILITY OF CERTAIN CONDITIONS.—With respect to immunity under paragraph (1) and subject to the other provisions of this section:

“(A) In the case of a covered person who is a manufacturer or distributor of the covered countermeasure involved, the immunity applies without regard to whether such countermeasure was administered to or used by an individual in accordance with the conditions described in paragraph (3)(C).

“(B) In the case of a covered person who is a program planner or qualified person with respect to the administration or use of the covered countermeasure, the scope of immunity includes circumstances in which the countermeasure was administered to or used by an individual in circumstances in which the covered person reasonably could have believed that the countermeasure was administered or used in accordance with the conditions described in paragraph (3)(C).

“(5) EFFECT OF DISTRIBUTION METHOD.—The provisions of this section apply to a covered countermeasure regardless of whether such countermeasure is obtained by donation, commercial sale, or any other means of distribution, except to the extent that, under paragraph (2)(E) of subsection (b), the declaration under such subsection provides that subsection (a) applies only to covered countermeasures obtained through a particular means of distribution.

“(6) REBUTTABLE PRESUMPTION.—For purposes of paragraph (1), there shall be a rebuttable presumption that any administration or use, during the effective period of the emergency declaration by the Secretary under subsection (b), of a covered countermeasure shall have been for the category or categories of diseases, health conditions, or threats to health with respect to which such declaration was issued.

“(b) DECLARATION BY SECRETARY.—

“(1) AUTHORITY TO ISSUE DECLARATION.—Subject to paragraph (2), if the Secretary makes a determination that a disease or other health condition or other threat to health constitutes a public health emergency, or that there is a credible risk that the disease, condition, or threat may in the future constitute such an emergency, the Secretary may make a declaration, through publication in the Federal Register, recommending, under conditions as the Secretary may specify, the manufacture, testing, development, distribution, administration, or use of one or more covered countermeasures, and stating that subsection (a) is in effect with respect to the activities so recommended.

“(B) ADDITIONAL TIME TO BE SPECIFIED.—In each declaration under paragraph (1), the Secretary, after consulting, to the extent the Secretary deems appropriate, with the manufacturer of the covered countermeasure, shall also specify a date that is after the ending date specified under paragraph (2)(B) and that allows what the Secretary determines is—

“(i) a reasonable period for the manufacturer to arrange for disposition of the covered countermeasure, including the return of such product to the manufacturer; and

“(7) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—No court of the United States, or of any State, shall have subject matter jurisdiction to review, whether by mandamus or otherwise, any action by the Secretary under this subsection.

“(8) PREEMPTION OF STATE LAW.—During the effective period of a declaration under subsection (b), or at any time with respect to conduct undertaken in accordance with such declaration, no State or political subdivision of a State may establish, enforce, or continue in effect with respect to a covered countermeasure any provision of law or legal requirement that—

“(A) is different from, or is in conflict with, any requirement applicable under this section; and

“(B) relates to the design, development, clinical testing or investigation, formulation, manufacture, distribution, sale, donation, purchase, marketing, promotion, packaging, labeling, licensing, use, any other aspect of safety or efficacy, or the prescribing, dispensing, or administration by qualified persons of the covered countermeasure, or to any matter included in a requirement applicable to the covered countermeasure under this section or any other provision of this Act, or under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

“(9) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—Within 30 days after making a declaration under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall submit to the appropriate committees of the Congress a report that provides an explanation of the reasons for issuing the declaration and the reasons underlying the determinations of the Secretary with respect to paragraph (2). "(2) AUTHORITY TO PROMULGATE REGULATORY DEFINITION.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, in consultation with the Attorney General, shall promulgate regulations, which may be promulgated through interim final rules, that further restrict the scope of actions or omissions by a covered person that may qualify as 'willful misconduct' for purposes of subsection (d).

"(5) EXCLUSION FOR REGULATED ACTIVITY OF MANUFACTURER OR DISTRIBUTOR.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—If an act or omission by a manufacturer or distributor with respect to a covered countermeasure, which act or omission is alleged under subsection (e)(3)(A) to constitute willful misconduct, is subject to regulation by this Act or by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, such act or omission shall not constitute 'willful misconduct' for purposes of subsection (d) if—

"(i) neither the Secretary nor the Attorney General has initiated an enforcement action with respect to such act or omission; or

"(ii) such an enforcement action has been initiated and the action has been terminated or finally resolved without a covered remedy. Any action or proceeding under subsection (d) shall be stayed during the pendency of such an enforcement action.

"(B) DEFINITIONS.—For purposes of this paragraph, the following terms have the following meanings:

"(i) ENFORCEMENT ACTION.—The term 'enforcement action' means a criminal prosecution, an action seeking an injunction, a seizure action, a civil monetary proceeding based on willful misconduct, a mandatory recall of a product because voluntary recall was refused, a proceeding to compel repair or replacement of a product, a termination of an exemption under section 505(i) or 520(g) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, a debarment proceeding, an investigator disqualification proceeding where an investigator is an employee or agent of the manufacturer, a revocation, based on willful misconduct, of an authorization under section 564 of such Act, or a suspension or withdrawal, based on willful misconduct, of an approval or clearance under chapter V of such Act or of a licensure under section 351 of this Act.

"(II) that results from a final determination by a court or from a final agency action.

"(iii) FINAL.—The terms 'final' and 'finally'—

"(I) with respect to a court determination, or to a final resolution of an enforcement action that is a court determination, mean a judgment from which an appeal of right cannot be taken or a voluntary or stipulated dismissal; and

"(II) with respect to an agency action, or to a final resolution of an enforcement action that is an agency action, mean an order that is not subject to further review within the agency and that has not been reversed, vacated, enjoined, or otherwise nullified by a final court determination or a voluntary or stipulated dismissal.

For purposes of section 2679(b)(2)(B) of title 28, United States Code, such a cause of action is not an action brought for violation of a statute of the United States under which an action against an individual is otherwise authorized.

"(2) PERSONS WHO CAN SUE.—An action under this subsection may be brought for wrongful death or serious physical injury by any person who suffers such injury or by any representative of such a person.

"(B) VERIFICATION REQUIREMENT.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—The complaint shall include a verification, made by affidavit of the plaintiff under oath, stating that the pleading is true to the knowledge of the deponent, except as to matters specifically identified as being alleged on information and belief, and that as to those matters the plaintiff believes it to be true.

"(ii) certified medical records documenting such injury or death and such proximate causal connection.

"(5) THREE-JUDGE COURT.—Any action under subsection (d) shall be assigned initially to a panel of three judges. Such panel shall have jurisdiction over such action for purposes of considering motions to dismiss, motions for summary judgment, and matters related thereto. If such panel has denied such motions, or if the time for filing such motions has expired, such panel shall refer the action to the chief judge for assignment for further proceedings, including any trial. Section 1253 of title 28, United States Code, and paragraph (3) of subsection (b) of section 2284 of title 28, United States Code, shall not apply to actions under subsection (d).

“(6) CIVIL DISCOVERY.—

“(A) TIMING.—In an action under subsection (d), no discovery shall be allowed—

“(ii) in the event such a motion is filed, before the court has ruled on such motion; and

“(iii) in the event a covered person files an interlocutory appeal from the denial of such a motion, before the court of appeals has ruled on such appeal.

“(B) STANDARD.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the court in an action under subsection (d) shall permit discovery only with respect to matters directly related to material issues contested in such action, and the court shall compel a response to a discovery request (including a request for admission, an interrogatory, a request for production of documents, or any other form of discovery request) under Rule 37, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, only if the court finds that the requesting party needs the information sought to prove or defend as to a material issue contested in such action and that the likely benefits of a response to such request equal or exceed the burden or cost for the responding party of providing such response.

“(7) REDUCTION IN AWARD OF DAMAGES FOR COLLATERAL SOURCE BENEFITS.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—In an action under subsection (d), the amount of an award of damages that would otherwise be made to a plaintiff shall be reduced by the amount of collateral source benefits to such plaintiff.

“(B) PROVIDER OF COLLATERAL SOURCE BENEFITS NOT TO HAVE LIEN OR SUBROGATION.—No provider of collateral source benefits shall recover any amount against the plaintiff or receive any lien or credit against the plaintiff's recovery or be equitably or legally subrogated to the right of the plaintiff in an action under subsection (d).

“(C) COLLATERAL SOURCE BENEFIT DEFINED.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘collateral source benefit’ means any amount paid or to be paid in the future to or on behalf of the plaintiff, or any service, product, or other benefit provided or to be provided in the future to or on behalf of the plaintiff, as a result of the injury or wrongful death, pursuant to—

Such sanction shall be sufficient to deter repetition of such conduct or comparable conduct by others similarly situated, and to compensate the party or parties injured by such conduct.

“(10) INTERLOCUTORY APPEAL.—The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit shall have jurisdiction of an interlocutory appeal by a covered person taken within 30 days of an order denying a motion to dismiss or a motion for summary judgment based on an assertion of the immunity from suit conferred by subsection (a) or based on an assertion of the exclusion under subsection (c)(5).

“(f) ACTIONS BY AND AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to abrogate or limit any right, remedy, or authority that the United States or any agency thereof may possess under any other provision of law or to waive sovereign immunity or to abrogate or limit any defense or protection available to the United States or its agencies, instrumentalities, officers, or employees under any other law, including any provision of chapter 171 of title 28, United States Code (relating to tort claims procedure).

“(g) SEVERABILITY.—If any provision of this section, or the application of such provision to any person or circumstance, is held to be unconstitutional, the remainder of this section and the application of such remainder to any person or circumstance shall not be affected thereby.

“(h) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION CONCERNING NATIONAL VACCINE INJURY COMPENSATION PROGRAM.—Nothing in this section, or any amendment made by the Public Readiness and Emergency Preparedness Act, shall be construed to affect the National Vaccine Injury Compensation Program under title XXI of this Act.

"(a) Establishment of Fund.—Upon the issuance by the Secretary of a declaration under section 319F-3(b), there is hereby established in the Treasury an emergency fund designated as the 'Covered Countermeasure Process Fund' for purposes of providing timely, uniform, and adequate compensation to eligible individuals for covered injuries directly caused by the administration or use of a covered countermeasure pursuant to such declaration, which Fund shall consist of such amounts as emergency appropriations under section 402 of H. Con. Res. 95 of the 109th Congress, this emergency designation shall remain in effect through October 1, 2006.

"(b) Payment of Compensation.—

"(1) In general.—If the Secretary issues a declaration under 319F–3(b), the Secretary shall, after amounts have by law been provided for the Fund under subsection (a), provide compensation to an eligible individual for a covered injury directly caused by the administration or use of a covered countermeasure pursuant to such declaration.

"(2) Elements of compensation.—The compensation that shall be provided pursuant to paragraph (1) shall have the same elements, and be in the same amount, as is prescribed by sections 264, 265, and 266 in the case of certain individuals injured as a result of administration of certain countermeasures against smallpox, except that section 266(a)(2)(B) shall not apply.

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

DIVISION A

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 2006

The managers on the part of the House and the Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 2863), making appropriations for the Department of Defense for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2006, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and the Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report.

The conference agreement on the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2006, incorporates some of the provisions of the House and Senate versions of the bill as well as some matters under the jurisdiction of the Subcommittee on Military Quality of Life and Veterans Affairs, and Related Agencies of the House Committee on Appropriations that were addressed in the House in H.R. 2528. The language and allocations set forth in House Report 109–119 and Senate Report 109–141, and the relevant language and allocations set forth in House Report 109–95, should be complied with unless specifically addressed in the accompanying conference report and statement of managers to the contrary.

The Senate amendment deleted the entire House bill after the enacting clause and inserted new language. The conference agreement includes revised language.

DEFINITION OF PROGRAM PROJECT, AND ACTIVITY

The conferees agree that for the purposes of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 (Public Law 99–177) as amended by the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Reaffirmation Act of 1987 (Public Law 100–119) and by the Budget Enforcement Act of 1990 (Public Law 101–508), the term program, project, and activity for appropriations contained in this Act shall be defined as the most specific level of budget items identified in the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2006, the accompanying House and Senate Committee reports, the conference report and accompanying joint explanatory statement of the managers of the Committee of Conference, the related classified annexes and reports, and the P–1 and R–1 budget justification documents as subsequently modified by Congressional action. The following exception to the above definition shall apply: for the Military Personnel and the Operation and Maintenance accounts, the term "program, project, and activity" is defined as the appropriations accounts contained in the Department of Defense Appropriations Act.

At the time the President submits his budget for fiscal year 2007, the conferees direct the Department of Defense to transmit to the congressional defense committees budget justification documents to be known as the "M–1" and "O–1" which shall identify, at the budget activity, activity group, and subactivity group level, the amounts requested by the President to be appropriated to the Department of Defense for military personnel and operation and maintenance in any budget request, or amended budget request, for fiscal year 2007.

REPROGRAMMING AND REPORTING GUIDANCE FOR BASIC ALLOWANCE FOR HOUSING

The conferees direct the Department of Defense to provide budget execution data for Basic Allowance for Housing funding to the Subcommittee on Military Quality of Life and Veterans Affairs, and Related Agencies and the Subcommittee on Defense of the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the Subcommittee on Defense of the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate. Such budget execution data shall be provided through the DD-COMP(M) 1002 accounting form and delivered no later than forty-five days past the close of each quarter for the fiscal year. The Reserve Component accounts do not provide budget line item data for Basic Allowance for Housing; therefore, the Department is directed to provide comparable DD-COMP(M) 1002 detail when submitting quarterly execution data.

The conferees further direct the Department to distinctly identify Basic Allowance for Housing funding on all prior approval reprogramming requests (Form 1415) submitted to the Congress. All prior approval reprogramming requests affecting Basic Allowance for Housing funding should be submitted to the Subcommittee on Military Quality of Life and Veterans Affairs, and Related Agencies and Subcommittee on Defense of the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the Subcommittee on Defense of the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate.

COMPOSITE PAY RATES

For a number of years, the Government Accountability Office (GAO) has used the Department of Defense's draft composite pay rates in its military personnel strength analysis to estimate the financial impact of work year variances on the Services' military personnel budget requests. Although this information has been important to the congressional defense committees in their budget analysis, the conferees believe that GAO's estimates would be more accurate if their estimates used the Services' DoD approved composite rates. Therefore, the conferees believe that DoD should review, approve, and publish the Services' budget year composite pay rates not later than 60 days after the President's budget request is submitted to the Congress.

RESERVE COMPONENTS BUDGET STRUCTURE CHANGE

The conferees agree to a one year test of a consolidated budget structure for the Reserve components' military personnel appropriations. This test will evaluate the budget structure presented in the President's budget request reflecting a single budget activity for execution purposes in fiscal year 2006. The test will conclude with the closure of fiscal year 2006. The conferees direct the Department of Defense to submit its fiscal year 2007 budget request using the two budget activity structure, and the final structure will be addressed in the fiscal year 2007 defense appropriations act. The conferees understand the reasoning behind the Department of Defense's request to provide additional financial management flexibility for the Reserve components to execute their respective appropriations. Given this, the congressional defense committees still require visibility over the movement of funds within the accounts of the Services' appropriations. Therefore, the conferees direct the Department of Defense to provide a semi-annual report to the congressional defense committees showing transfers within the Reserve component military personnel appropriations. The report format will provide separate explanations for all transfers in and out of each appropriation line item that equal, exceed, or cumulate to $5,000,000. Reports will be due 30 days following the end of the second quarter and the fiscal year. The conferees expect the Department of Defense to work with the congressional defense committees on the details of the report format.

Response of Federal Government to Disasters

The conferees direct the Director of the Office of Management and Budget, in coordination with the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Homeland Security, to conduct a study on improving the response of the Department of Defense and other Federal Government agencies to disasters. In conducting the study the Director should consider mechanisms for coordinating and expediting disaster preparation and response efforts; examine the role of the Department of Defense for participating in disaster response, including planning, logistics, relief and reconstruction assistance; and assess the role of the United States Geological Survey in enhancing disaster preparation measures. The Director shall submit a report on the study to Congress by May 1, 2006. The findings should include recommendations for improving the response of the Department of Defense and other Federal Government agencies to disasters and identify any legislation or regulations that the Director determines necessary to implement such recommendations.

Reimbursement for Protective, Safety, and Health Equipment for Members of the Armed Forces

The Ronald W. Reagan National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005 authorized the Department of Defense to reimburse members of the Armed Forces for the cost of purchasing protective, safety, or health equipment for use in Operation Noble Eagle, Operation Enduring Freedom, and Operation Iraqi Freedom. In order to more adequately address this situation, the conference agreement amends Section 351 of that Act to extend this authority until April 1, 2006.

In addition, the conferees are concerned that certain types of equipment are not included in the guidance issued by the Department of Defense on October 4, 2005. Therefore, the conferees direct the Department to revise the guidance to include summer gloves, knee pads and elbow pads, deltoid and auxiliary protectors, and side plate body armor. The conferees further direct the Military Departments to implement guidance for submitting and processing these claims not later than January 31, 2006.

Ground Source Heat Pumps

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by July 1, 2006 on the use of ground source heat pumps at Department of Defense facilities. The report should include a description of the types of facilities that use ground source heat pumps, an assessment of the applicability and cost effectiveness of using ground source heat pumps in different geographic regions of the United States, and an assessment of the applicability to use ground source heat pumps for new construction and retrofitting Department of Defense facilities.

Military to Civilian Conversions

The conferees recognize the Military to Civilian Conversion program as an important tool to alleviate stress on the force by replacing uniformed service members in non-military essential positions with federal civilian or contractor personnel. However, the conferees are concerned that budget justification materials do not adequately describe the Department's Military to Civilian Conversion program and that the Department lacks a clear methodology for developing its budget estimates. Therefore, the conferees have reduced the Military Services' budget request for Military to Civilian Conversions by $282,000,000 due to poor budget justification. These reductions should not be interpreted to limit the number of conversions completed in fiscal year 2006 if sufficient resources are available. The conferees direct the Department to include comprehensive data on the Military to Civilian Conversion Program in future budget justification materials. The budget materials should include: the number of conversions completed in the two fiscal years prior to the budget request year, the mix of positions filled by civilian contractors or government employees, the number of conversions expected to occur in the budget year, the mix of civilian contractors and government employees expected to be hired, and a detailed explanation of the cost estimates used in developing the budget request.

Reprogramming and Reporting Guidance for Facilities Sustainment, Restoration and Modernization

The conferees direct the Department of Defense to provide budget execution data for Facilities Sustainment, Restoration and Modernization funding to the Subcommittee on Military Quality of Life and Veterans Affairs, and Related Agencies and the Subcommittee on Defense of the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the Subcommittee on Defense of the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate. Such budget execution data shall be provided through the DD-COMP(M) 1002 accounting form and delivered no later than forty-five days past the close of each quarter for the fiscal year. The Operation and Maintenance, Defense-Wide account does not provide budget line item data for Facilities Sustainment, Restoration and Modernization; therefore, the Department is directed to provide comparable DD-COMP(M) 1002 detail when submitting quarterly execution data.

The conferees further direct the Department to distinctly identify Facilities Sustainment, Restoration and Modernization funding on all prior approval reprogramming requests (Form 1415) submitted to the Congress. All prior approval reprogramming requests affecting the Facilities Sustainment, Restoration and Modernization funding should be submitted to the Subcommittee on Military Quality of Life and Veterans Affairs, and Related Agencies and the Subcommittee on Defense of the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the Subcommittee on Defense of the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate.

INDUSTRIAL MOBILIZATION CAPACITY

The conferees recognize the critical importance of the Industrial Mobilization Capacity program for offsetting costs to maintain wartime capabilities at Department of Defense depots, arsenals, and ammunition plants. The conferees recommend an additional $7,000,000 for this program at Rock Island Arsenal. The amount provided is in addition to $8,962,000 currently budgeted for Industrial Mobilization Capacity at Rock Island Arsenal. The conferees understand the requirement for Industrial Mobilization Capacity funding may decline during fiscal year 2006 due to increased workloads attributable to ongoing contingency operations. The conferees direct that any Industrial Mobilization Capacity funding designated for Rock Island Arsenal that is not required for its intended purpose be used for other activities or projects which will create efficiencies or improve operations and work conditions at the Arsenal.

F–117 NIGHTHAWK

The conferees provide an additional $9,400,000 to maintain 52 F–117 aircraft in fiscal year 2006. The conferees believe it is premature to retire any F–117 aircraft at this time. The F–117 provides a unique capability to the combatant commanders and remains the only tactical stealth aircraft capable of delivering certain types of precision munitions.

SERVICE-WIDE SAFETY ALCOHOL BREATH DETECTORS

The conferees agree to provide $7,270,000 for service-wide alcohol breath detectors in operation and maintenance accounts. In addition to the guidance provided in House Report 109–19, the conferees direct that these detectors be FDA-cleared, be housed in unbreakable pocketsize containers, and be capable of carrying a Service's safety program imprint.

NATIONAL GUARD YOUTH CHALLENGE PROGRAM

The conferees provide an additional $13,000,000 for the National Guard Youth Challenge Program, which includes $1,700,000 only for preparation of facilities at Joint Forces Training Base Los Alamitos to expand the California National Guard Grizzly Program.

UNIQUE ITEM IDENTIFICATION

The conferees are encouraged by the promise of the Unique Item Identification (UID) program at the Department of Defense to make acquisition, repair, and deployment of items faster and more efficient through unique identification technologies. The conferees direct the Under Secretary for Defense for Acquisition, Technology & Logistics to provide a report to the Appropriations Committees no later than October 1, 2006 on the benefits and progress of UID efforts within DOD. The report should include goals for enhanced operations capabilities, support for the warfighter, and improved financial controls.

DEFENSE PRISONER OF WAR/MISSING PERSONNEL OFFICE

The conferees are aware that the Defense Prisoner of War/Missing Personnel Office

(DPMO) provides information and communication to families, veteran's organizations and the public on issues pertaining to personnel recovery and accounting for Americans from past conflicts. The conferees encourage this office to continue its outreach efforts, annual conferences, and meetings with the POW/Missing Personnel families to ensure those family members have updated information concerning the status of the recovery of their loved ones.

REPROGRAMMING REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

The conferees share the concerns raised in the report accompanying the House version of the fiscal year 2006 Defense Appropriations bill regarding the need to improve the reporting of reprogrammings by the Department of Defense. In the Statement of the Managers accompanying the fiscal year 2005 Defense Appropriations Act, the Department of Defense was directed to evaluate current procedures governing the department's financial practices. In response, the Department issued a report proposing several reporting improvements. The conferees direct the Under Secretary of the Department of Defense, Comptroller, to begin implementing all three of the proposals identified in the report under the heading of "Improved Reporting". The conferees further direct that the quarterly, spreadsheet based DD 1416 reports proposed in the Department's recommendations shall be submitted for service and defense-wide accounts in titles III and IV of this Act and shall also include the reason for which funds are available for reprogramming, the account to which the funds have been reprogrammed, and the requirement for the funds to be reprogrammed.

SPECIAL INTEREST ITEMS

Items for which additional funds have been provided as shown in the project level tables or in paragraphs using the phrase "only for" or "only to" in this report are congressional interest items for the purpose of the Base for Reprogramming (DD 1414). Each of these items must be carried on the DD Form 1414 at the stated amount, or a revised amount if changed during conference or otherwise specifically addressed in the conference report. These items remain special interest items whether or not they are repeated in a subsequent conference report.

REPROGRAMMING GUIDANCE FOR ACQUISITION ACCOUNTS

The conferees direct the Department of Defense to continue to follow the reprogramming guidance specified in the Statement of Managers on the fiscal year 2005 Department of Defense Appropriations Act (House Report 108–622). Specifically, the dollar threshold for reprogramming procurement funds will remain at $20,000,000, and at $10,000,000 for research, development, test and evaluation. The Department shall continue to follow the limitation that prior approval reprogrammings are set at either the specified dollar threshold or 20% of the procurement or research, development, test and evaluation line, whichever is less. These thresholds are cumulative. Therefore, if the combined value of transfers into or out of a procurement (P–1) or research, development, test and evaluation (R–1) line exceeds the identified threshold, the Department of Defense must submit a prior approval reprogramming to the congressional defense committees. In addition, guidelines on the application of prior approval reprogramming procedures for congressional special interest items are established elsewhere in this statement.

C–130J/KC–130J

The conferees agree to provide $690,000,000 for the procurement of eight C-130J aircraft and $384,200,000 for the procurement of five KC-130-J aircraft. The conferees are aware that the current FAR Part 12 multiyear contract for these aircraft is being changed to a more traditional FAR Part 15 contract structure. The conferees expect that all 13 aircraft will be procured under a multiyear contract arrangement that will maximize savings to the taxpayer.

GUIDED MULTIPLE LAUNCH ROCKET SYSTEM (GMLRS) UNITARY

The conferees are aware of the recent successful deployment of the GMLRS Unitary Rocket in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom. In the missions in which it has been deployed, GMLRS Unitary has demonstrated both very high accuracy and low collateral damage. Accordingly, the conferees urge the Army to maximize the procurement of GMLRS Unitary Rockets from the $124,814,000 provided in the conference agreement. The conferees further direct that this amount is a congressional special interest item for the base for reprogramming as described elsewhere in this statement.

OBJECTIVE INDIVIDUAL COMBAT WEAPON (OICW) INCREMENT I

The conferees understand that following a review by the Department of Defense Inspector General (IG) which identified several management issues with the OICW program, the Army has terminated the OICW I request for proposals. However, recognizing the important capabilities that OICW brings to the war fighter, the conferees direct the Army to resolve the management concerns identified in the IG report and obtain joint validation of the OICW Increment I family of weapons requirements through the Joint Requirements Oversight Council. The conferees strongly encourage the Program Manager to subsequently conduct source selection and award a contract in fiscal year 2006.

The conferees direct the Program Manager to provide the congressional defense committees a written report detailing the program's updated requirements, acquisition strategy—to include the Army's strategy for replacing existing weapons—and detailed schedule no later than thirty days after enactment of this Act. Furthermore, the conferees direct the Program Manager to provide quarterly updates on the program's status to the congressional defense committees.

LIFE CYCLE MANAGEMENT COMMANDS (LCMC)

The conferees support the goal of the Army's LCMC pilot program to establish integrated business enterprises to better support the warfighter. Currently, there is a geographically separated but strategically important life cycle management plan for ammunition management. Given that the Secretary of Defense has recommended, and the Base Realignment and Closure Commission has endorsed, that Picatinny Arsenal become the home for a joint integrated weapons and armaments specialty site for guns and ammunition, the conferees believe the Army must evaluate how this organization should be structured.

The conferees understand that the Army will submit a report to the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) detailing its implementation of LCMC programs by December 2005. Accordingly, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations providing its assessment of the value of the LCMC construct by February 1, 2006. In addition, by the same date, the Secretary of the Army shall provide a report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations that provides a summary of the Army's LCMC review, and that rationalizes the relationship between each component of the life cycle management of ammunition.

LIVE FIRE TRAINER SHOOT HOUSE DEVELOPMENT

The conferees believe that America's Army Live Fire Trainer, using "America's Army" software and thermal image ballistic tracking and weapon middleware will improve training of soldiers, sailors, and marines in critical urban combat skills. Of note, current U.S. Army live fire urban combat shoot houses will be upgraded to replace paper targets with fully engagable virtual targets, representing enemy, friendly, and non-combatant personnel. As a result, this platform has a tremendous capability to improve marksmanship, adaptive thinking, and critical combat related tasks in a live-fire environment.

BATTLEFIELD OPERATING SYSTEMS

The conferees direct the Secretary of the Army to provide a report to the congressional defense committees, no later than February 15, 2006, detailing the Army's plan to close the information-sharing gap across Battlefield Operating Systems and provide increased information awareness from multiple domains to the commands and forces engaged in Operation Iraqi Freedom. The conferees also direct that this report provide information regarding the return on investment of expanding or redirecting resources to the operation and expansion of net-centric information-sharing applications such as Federated Search, Alerts, and FusionNet, delivered by the Horizontal Fusion program. Finally, the conferees direct that this report provide information about the architecture and development of net-centric services that will improve battle command in Operation Iraqi Freedom.

MH-60R HELICOPTER PROGRAM

The conference agreement provides $438,821,000 for the MH-60R helicopter program. The conferees note that, as the MH-60R moves into full rate production, the Navy would be able to realize long term cost savings through a multiyear procurement of this aircraft, as is being accomplished with other Navy aircraft, including the MH-60S. The conferees urge the Department of the Navy to examine the business case for a multiyear procurement of the MH-60R helicopter and, if warranted by the analysis, to implement a multiyear procurement as soon as possible to maximize program savings.

JOINT DIRECT ATTACK MUNITION LASER CAPABILITY

The conferees understand that combatant commanders in OEF/OIF have requested the addition of a laser capability to existing Joint Direct Attack Munition (JDAM) weapon kits. This change could provide improved JDAM operational flexibility and time-sensitive target capability. Therefore, the conferees agree with Senate language encouraging the Department to consider laser JDAM testing to provide these increased capabilities to the warfighter.

COST GROWTH RESOLUTION PLAN

The conferees are concerned over the unanticipated cost growth on existing Navy shipbuilding contracts, and agree that the plan directed by the House on this subject is to include details on the cost growth for all existing shipbuilding and conversion efforts. The plan is to be submitted to the congressional defense committees not later than February 1, 2006, and shall make recommendations on mechanisms to resolve the cost growth, including the option of converting the remaining work to fixed-price contracts.

LHA(R) FUNDING

The conferees do not agree with House direction urging the Navy to reconsider split funding for the LHA(R) Program. The conferees agree to consider either split funding or full funding if proposed by the Administration.

LITTORAL COMBAT SHIP REPORT

The conferees agree to the report on Littoral Combat Ship (LCS) mission modules proposed by the House, and specify that such report should include cost estimates for these modules by fiscal year.

SSBN Transit Protection System

The conference agreement provides $70,700,000 in new budget authority for the SSBN Transit Protection System. The following table summarizes conference actions on this program:

Appropriation	Budget line	Conference agreement
Other Procurement, Navy (rescission of fiscal year 2005 funds)	13	−$43,000,000
Other Procurement, Navy	24	45,300,000
Weapons Procurement, Navy	30	5,200,000
Operation and Maintenance, Navy	N/A	19,200,000
Operation and Maintenance, Defense-Wide	N/A	1,000,000
Total, new budget authority		70,700,000

The conference agreement provides $70,700,000 for the Navy's restructured SSBN Transit Protection Program, including $45,300,000 in Other Procurement, Navy for the procurement of two 87-foot escort cutters and 11 medium escort vessels, and $5,200,000 in Weapons Procurement, Navy for weapons for larger screening vessels. In addition, the conferees provide $19,200,000 in Operation and Maintenance, Navy for the lease of not less than two large screening vessels during fiscal year 2006. The conferees would not oppose efforts by the Navy to provide additional resources to the program during fiscal year 2006 from existing Navy funds. However, while the conferees share the Navy's force protection concerns and provide significant funds for these efforts throughout this Act, the conferees are concerned about aspects of this approach created by the Navy's revised concept of operations. Given programmatic changes over the past year, the conferees believe it would be important to have an independent review of the current concept of operations. Therefore, the conferees direct the Office of Program Analysis and Evaluation to oversee a study that analyzes the Navy's concept of operations and explores alternatives to the current design, and include $1,000,000 in Operation and Maintenance, Defense-Wide for that purpose. The Office of Program Analysis and Evaluation is directed to present the results of its analysis to the congressional defense committees within 180 days of enactment of this Act.

Senate direction to withhold the obligation of funds (Senate Report No. 109–141) pending submission of a report on this program was satisfied when such report was submitted on October 12, 2005.

Future Years Procurement Strategy for the F/A–22 Raptor

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to report to the congressional defense committees, by March 30, 2006, on alternatives for the continued acquisition of the F/A–22. The report should consider, but not be limited to, the following: analyses of the advantages of a multiyear procurement program, of extending the F/A–22 procurement profile, and of the effects of F/A–22 procurement on the Joint Strike Fighter production line.

F/A–22 Titanium Requirements

The conferees are aware of the potential impact that industry trends in the titanium market could have on the production timelines for the Lot 8 F/A–22 aircraft. The conferees are sensitive to this issue and encourage the Department of Defense to propose a comprehensive solution to the congressional defense committees not later than 90 days after enactment of this Act.

The conferees direct the Secretary of the Air Force, in conjunction with the Joint Staff, to provide the congressional defense committees a detailed written report on the deployment status of the MQ–9 in Iraq and the weaponization plan for the aircraft by February 3, 2006.

Operational Support Aircraft

The conferees direct that the Department of Defense maintain the current allocation of Operational Support Aircraft (OSA) assets to support Combatant Commanders and that the congressional defense committees be notified at least 30 days prior to any alteration of such assignments.

JOINT AIR-TO-SURFACE STANDOFF MISSILE

The conferees agree to provide $100,000,000 for the Joint Air-to-Surface Standoff Missile (JASSM) as proposed by the Senate. Of the funds provided, the conferees direct the following: that not more than $70,000,000 shall be for the purpose of maintaining missile hardware procurement at a minimum sustainable production rate; that of the remaining funds, not less than $20,000,000 shall be for testing and reliability improvement; that an additional 4 test shots be added to the JASSM weapons system evaluation program to evaluate the reliability of Lot 1 and Lot 2 missiles in storage; and, that the Program Manager submit to the congressional defense committees an updated JASSM test schedule no later than 30 days after the enactment of this Act, to include the requirements established in this paragraph.

EVOLVED EXPANDABLE LAUNCH VEHICLE (EELV)

The conferees support contracting procedures that facilitate competition, assure access to space, and lead to "best value" procurements. The conferees note that the Air Force is transitioning to a new EELV acquisition strategy that contractually splits launch services (including launch vehicles) from launch infrastructure. The conferees direct that launch services contracts provide an annual opportunity for companies to present their qualifications to meet objective criteria for reliability, mission assurance, oversight, and cost credibility, and compete based on their ability to meet these criteria. The conferees further direct the elimination of multi-year "allocations" "pre-awards," and "block buys" from Buy 3 and future EELV launch services contracts.

Concerning space launch infrastructure, the conferees understand the business case to maintain the EELV infrastructure and support the Buy-3 contracting procedure to award launch capabilities (infrastructure) contracts on a bi-annual basis.

ADVANCED SEAL DELIVERY SYSTEM (ASDS)

Since program inception ASDS has experienced design, construction, performance, and reliability challenges. Since November of this year, the conferees have been made aware of additional reliability concerns with the first ASDS. Based on these concerns, Special Operations Command has again decided to delay construction of the second ASDS. The conferees find this decision prudent and thus recommend a realignment of the resources provided in both the House and Senate bills for advance procurement of the second ASDS. The conferees recommend increasing research and development funding by $21,160,000 to conduct critical system reviews, address obsolescence and improve technologies. The conferees recommend increasing procurement funding by $8,650,000 to address modernization, and equipment shortfalls and operation and maintenance funding by $10,100,000 for unforeseen depot and fleet maintenance. The conferees continue to be frustrated by the chronic problems with the ASDS and expect both the Command and the Navy to dramatically increase the level of technical engineering and management oversight dedicated to this program.

NATIONAL GUARD AND RESERVE EQUIPMENT

The conferees agree that National Guard and Reserve forces are integral to our efforts in Iraq and Afghanistan and play a critical role in our Nation's response to national disasters. The conferees are aware that the equipment needs of our Reserve Component forces far exceed the amounts provided in the budget request for those items and agree to provide a total of $4,131,653,000 for guard and reserve equipment. The funding provided in the conference agreement is located in the following accounts: $2,654,353,000 as requested in the budget throughout the procurement accounts; $265,000,000 in addition to the budget request throughout the procurement accounts; $32,300,000 in the operation and maintenance accounts; $180,000,000 in the National Guard and Reserve Equipment account; $100,000,000 for Army Reserve equipment in Title IX for contingency operations; $700,000,000 for the Army National Guard in Title IX; and $200,000,000 for the Air National Guard in Title IX.

The House provided specific funding in many of the procurement accounts as requested in the Budget. The Senate provided funding in the National Guard and Reserve Equipment account. The conferees agree to provide the funding identified above in the Guard and Reserve Equipment account and in Title IX, and expect the Department to provide at a minimum the following amounts to the Guard and Reserve components in the following procurement accounts:

Aircraft Procurement, Army	$317,750,000

Amplifying Fluorescent Polymer-Based IED Detection Devices

The conferees have been advised that a fluorescent polymer-based technology for IED detection has shown great promise in Iraq and has had some very significant independent test results demonstrating that it can be beneficial in the war on terror. Therefore, the conferees direct the Technical Support Working Group to review these tests and the technology to determine its applicability to the mission of defeating IEDs. The Technical Support Working Group is to report back to the congressional defense Committees within 60 days of enactment of this Act regarding the technical feasibility of the technology and its status in the acquisition process.

SPECIAL INTEREST ITEMS

Items for which additional funds have been provided as shown in the project level tables or in paragraphs using the phrase "only for" or "only to" in this report are congressional interest items for the purpose of the Base for Reprogramming (DD 1414). Each of these items must be carried on the DD Form 1414 at the stated amount, or a revised amount if changed during conference or otherwise specifically addressed in the conference report. These items remain special interest items whether or not they are repeated in a subsequent conference report.

REPROGRAMMING GUIDANCE FOR RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, TEST AND EVALUATION ACCOUNTS

The conferees direct the Department of Defense to continue to follow the reprogramming guidance specified in the Statement of the Managers on the fiscal year 2005 Department of Defense Appropriations Act (House Report 108–622). Specifically, the dollar threshold for reprogramming procurement funds will remain at $20,000,000, and at $10,000,000 for research, development, test and evaluation. The Department shall continue to follow the limitation that prior approval reprogrammings are set at either the specified dollar threshold or 20% of the procurement or research, development, test and evaluation line, whichever is less. These thresholds are cumulative. Therefore, if the combined value of transfers into or out of a procurement (P–1) or research, development, test and evaluation (R–1) line exceeds[5] the identified threshold, the Department of Defense must submit a prior approval reprogramming to the congressional defense committees. In addition, guidelines on the application of prior approval reprogramming procedures for congressional special interest items are established elsewhere in this statement.

JOINT TACTICAL RADIO SYSTEM (JTRS)

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees not later than January 30, 2006, on the status of JTRS. The report shall include the following elements: mitigation plans of the Military Services to compensate for the restructuring of the JTRS program including a detailed description of the legacy or other radios required as well as detailed estimates of the cost of these plans; an explanation of Army plans to meet Future Combat System requirements associated with all developmental spirals as a result of the JTRS program revisions, to include a detailed description of the compatibility between legacy radios and the Army's Warfighter Information Network-Tactical (WIN–T) as well as the compatibility between JTRS and WIN–T; and a summary of DoD acquisition decisions including the results of the Defense Acquisition Board (DAB) meetings held in August and November 2005 to rebaseline this program. In addition, the conferees direct the Government Accountability Office (GAO) to continue its ongoing review of the JTRS program to include a review of technical, management, cost and schedule issues associated with the program.

In addition, the conferees urge the Department to formally establish the Joint Program Executive Office (JPEO) organization for JTRS, specify its authorities, and resource it appropriately to accomplish its mission. The conferees also urge the Department to establish associated operation and maintenance funding to establish and provide for the operating expenses of this organization. Finally, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a report on the organization, authorities, and plan to resource the JPEO within 90 days of enactment of this Act.

The table below summarizes reductions to the JTRS program included in the conference agreement:

Joint Common Missile (JCM)

The conferees support continuation of this program noting that this is the first program to have successfully completed the requirements determination process implemented in the Joint Capabilities Integration and Development System (JCIDS). The conferees recommend that the Department of Defense reevaluate the decision to terminate this program and, accordingly, provide $30,000,000 above the budget request to continue development of the JCM. Of this amount, $26,000,000 is provided in Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Army, and $4,000,000 is provided in Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Navy. In addition, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees no later than January 30, 2006, that explains how the Department of Defense will mitigate the capability gaps identified in the JCIDS analysis and provides a cost comparison analysis of continuing the JCM program versus JCM termination and continued procurement of legacy air-to-ground missiles to fulfill mission requirements.

Future Combat System (FCS)

The Statement of the Managers accompanying the Department of Defense Appropriations Act for fiscal year 2005 (House Report 108–622) established a structure for budget preparation and execution for FCS which included broadly defined projects within the Armored Systems Modernization program element. In addition, the statement directed the Army to establish separate program elements for the Non Line of Sight Launch System (NLOS–LS) and the Non Line of Sight Cannon (NLOS–C). The conferees believe that this remains a reasonable structure, and direct the Army to continue to use this as the basis for executing appropriations provided by the Congress, and as the basis for preparing the fiscal year 2007 and subsequent budget submissions. This funding structure includes the following components:

Program Element 0604645A Armored Systems Modernization to include the following projects:
  F52—FCS Reconnaissance Platforms & Sensors
  F53—FCS Unmanned Ground Vehicles
  F54—Unattended Sensors
  F55—Sustainment
  F57—F57 Manned Ground Vehicles
  F61—System of Systems Engineering and Program Management Program Element 0604646A Non Line of Sight Launch System (NLOS–LS)
Program Element 0604647 A Non Line of Sight Cannon (NLOS–C)

The conferees direct the Secretary of the Army to report to the congressional defense committees within 30 days of enactment of this Act on the plan to distribute the $2,785,829,000 provided by the conference agreement for the Armored Systems Modernization program element (PE 0604645A) to each of the projects listed above. The conferees designate these projects as congressional special interest items for the purpose of prior approval reprogrammings as discussed elsewhere in this report. The NLOS–LS and NLOS–C program elements are subject to normal prior approval reprogramming procedures as described elsewhere in this report. In addition, the conferees direct the Army to provide a report to the congressional defense committees not later than January 15, 2006, which provides a detailed list and description of the systems and technologies to be included in each of the FCS developmental spirals.

Non-Line-of-Sight Cannon (NLOS–C)

The conferees note that the Army provided the congressional defense committees with a report on September 28, 2005, pursuant to language included in the report accompanying the House-passed version of the fiscal year 2006 Department of Defense Appropriations Act. The conferees find the report encouraging because it indicates that the Army plans to produce a self-propelled Future Combat System non-line-of-sight cannon indirect fire capability to equip the future force as required by section 216 of the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 2003, and section 8121 of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act for fiscal year 2003. The conferees note that each annual Department of Defense Appropriations Act since 2003 has included similar language. The conferees are further encouraged by the Army's plan to produce a quantity of eight pre-production prototypes, and to begin fielding these guns starting in 2008. Accordingly, the conference agreement provides $148,387,000, an increase of $40,800,000 above the budget request, to enable the Army to continue this effort.

Multi-Sensor Architecture

The conferees agree to recommend additional funding for obtaining, evaluating, and integrating new sensors into the Cerberus architecture. These would include fiber optic perimeter sensors, medium range millimeter wave radars, and low cost thermal imaging surveillance sensors. Evaluation and integration of these sensors are to be managed by the Army Night Vision Electronic Sensor Division.

Flexible Electronics Research Initiative for Army Soldiers (FERIAS)

The conferees recognize the importance of developing new materials for flexible electronics technologies that will have broad impact for multiple military applications. The combination of these new materials and technologies will lead to soldiers receiving information in real time on maps and displays, imrroving both military communications and soldier safety. The resiliency of these devices could also increase the lifetime and reliability of current display applications in harsh environments, including the battlefield.

The conferees direct the Army Research Laboratory (ARL) to continue to aggressively pursue and take all necessary steps to develop new technologies that will enable flexible electronics to become an integral part of the Army's transformation. The conferees also direct ARL to collaborate with the leading developers of flexible display technology to fully develop the Flexible Electronics Research Initiative for Army Soldiers (FERIAS).

Applied and Clinical Prosthetic Research

The conferees support the Army's effort to sustain a collaborative applied and clinical prosthetic research activity at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center Amputee Care Center, and provide $5,500,000 to further develop this program to advance prosthetic technological achievement through applied and clinical research activities. Included in this amount is funding for continuation of the effort to improve and harden microprocessor knee componentry.

Preventive Medicine

The conferees remain concerned about rising personnel costs, especially health care costs, as a percent of the total Department budget. Eliminating or reducing health care services to our military members, retirees, and their families, however, is not a viable alternative to reigning in future increases in health care costs. As such, the conferees applaud the preventive medicine programs being undertaken by the tri-service community, and see these programs as vital to controlling the rising costs of treating diseases, including cardiovascular diseases, cancer, and diabetes. The conferees encourage the continuation and future development of programs that stress early detection and individual lifestyle changes to promote a healthier military community.

Chiropractic Care

The conferees note military personnel receive chiropractic health care benefits. Further, chiropractic medicine is an established and sought after form of treatment in military medical facilities. The conferees, therefore, encourage the Army to evaluate establishing a research facility that supports chiropractic medicine for military applications.

ADVANCED SUBMARINE SYSTEM DEVELOPMENT

The conference agreement includes a program reduction of $20,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. In fiscal year 2006 budget deliberations, the Department of Defense added $600,000,000 over the future years defense plan (FYDP) for development of an advanced undersea superiority system. The conferees reduce this project by $20,000,000, and direct the Office of the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Department of the Navy, to submit a comprehensive plan describing the scope, objectives, schedules, and project costs for this program over the FYDP. In addition, the report should discuss how these additional efforts fit in with ongoing Navy and DARPA programs in both advanced submarine development and antisubmarine warfare. This plan should be submitted to the congressional defense committees not later than March 1, 2006.

JOINT TACTICAL RADIO SYSTEM—NAVY

The conference agreement includes a reduction of $80,800,000 to the Joint Tactical Radio System (JTRS)—Navy program, instead of $50,766,000 as proposed by the House and $30,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees agree that none of this reduction should be applied against the Multifunctional Information Distribution System (MIDS) project.

UNIVERSITY NATIONAL OCEAN LABORATORY SYSTEM FLEET

The conferees agree that, if funds are requested in fiscal year 2007 for recapitalization of the University National Ocean Laboratory System (UNOLS) fleet of research vessels, such funds should be requested in the Shipbuilding and Conversion, Navy (SCN) appropriation.

MILITARY DENTAL RESEARCH

The conferees remain deeply concerned about the provision of quality medical care to our injured troops as they return from conflict in Iraq and Afghanistan. Head and neck trauma account for almost 50 percent of these injuries and are presenting the most difficult long-term morbidity challenges, particularly for our military's oral surgeons. Army and Naval researchers at the U.S. Army Dental Trauma and Research Detachment at the Great Lakes facility are developing innovative protective equipment and rapid-read diagnostic tests to help reduce the severity and number of casualties. The conferees are encouraged by this research and provide $3,400,000 to further the development of these and other protective measures.

Space Radar

The conferees have reviewed the authorization and appropriation language of the various committees of jurisdiction for the Space Radar program and note that there appears to be broad congressional consensus on many key issues. First, in the absence of a major breakthrough, there is significant across the board concern regarding the ultimate cost and affordability of the Space Radar program. Second, there is concern about the space acquisition workforce and the Air Force and industry's ability to manage expensive and complicated satellite programs such as Space Radar. Finally, there is broad agreement that the Air Force should place greater emphasis on maturing technologies, seeking out new technical breakthroughs, experimenting with existing radar assets (such as airborne surrogates), and developing critical ground processing capabilities instead of focusing so heavily on near term satellite system development. The conferees agree that the funds provided are only for the elements of congressional consensus described above. Further, the conferees agree with the House direction requiring submission of a spend plan prior to obligation of fiscal year 2006 funds.

Transformational SATCOM (TSAT)

The conferees support the Defense Department's concept for global high-speed communications and recognize the value that TSAT-like capabilities would provide to world-wide military operations. However, the conferees are concerned about the state of technical maturity for the key subsystems and do not support the program's aggressive schedule for acquisition. The conferees are also concerned that DoD may have prematurely ruled out the possibility of evolving Advanced EHF (AEHF) and the Wideband Gapfiller System (WGS) programs to provide TSAT-like capabilities. Therefore, the conferees agree to reduce the program by $400,000,000 and direct the program to focus on technology maturation for the key subsystems, particularly laser communications and the processor router. Transition to a formal acquisition program should be deferred until the technologies are mature and have been demonstrated in a relevant environment.

Of the remaining $436,769,000, the conferees direct that no more than $316,769,000 may be obligated until DoD submits to the congressional defense committees the results of an independent review that: (1) determines whether additional AEHF or WGS satellites will be required and how many; and (2) whether it is feasible, taking into consideration cost, risk, contract requirements, and other factors, to insert advanced capabilities by evolving the AEHF or WGS programs. In the event the Department determines a fourth AEHF is required, $120,000,000 shall be available for advance procurement and research and development activities in support of the fourth AEHF. In the event the Defense Department determines a fourth AEHF is not required, the $120,000,000 shall be available to support expanded system development and maturation of the key TSAT technologies.

Joint Unmanned Combat Air Systems (J–UCAS)

The conferees are concerned over whether the Navy and Air Force share the same requirements and concept of operations for the J–UCAS. Given that the Department of Defense proposes to make substantial investments in the J–UCAS program, exceeding $5 billion for development alone, it is important to ensure from the outset that there is stability in the program. Given these concerns, the conferees have reduced the budget request by $40,090,000 and direct the Department of Defense to conduct an independent study to objectively review the J–UCAS program for both Navy and Air Force technical, military operations, and test and evaluation requirements, as well as options for cost savings. The conferees direct that the report include a schedule and budget for the J–UCAS program, to include entering system development and demonstration, and an evaluation of the Air Force as the Executive Agent. The conferees further direct that the report provide an analysis and recommendation on whether the Air Force and Navy programs are sufficiently different in their respective requirements and level of development to merit separation into service unique programs. The report should be provided to the congressional defense committees not later than May 3, 2006.

Combat Search and Rescue (CSAR–X)

The conferees are concerned that a major development effort for the CSAR–X program could be cost prohibitive and would not yield a sufficient number of helicopters to replace the Air Force's current aging fleet in a timely manner. Due to these concerns, the conferees expect the Air Force to select an existing aircraft that will require minimum research and development to field and that presents an overall "best value" to the government, giving full consideration to military utility and costs in the contract selection process. The conferees agree to reduce the request by $42,000,000 due to a delay in the request for proposal and contract award date. The conferees further agree to restrict $66,069,000, of the available $71,825,000, pending the submission of a report to the congressional defense committees with detailed cost and schedule estimates for development and production. The report shall be submitted following contract award and also include estimated operation and support costs, necessary military configuration modifications, and a test and evaluation plan.

Joint Surveillance and Target Attack Radar System (JointSTARS) Re-Engining

The conferees have provided $12,500,000 to begin the non-recurring engineering (NRE) activities associated with re-engining the JointSTARS aircraft fleet and expect the Secretary of the Air Force to include funding for NRE activities in the FY 2007 budget request. The conferees note that in January 2005 the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics announced the Department's intent to request updated quotes from industry on the costs to modify JointSTARS aircraft with new engines, and that the Department is currently in the process of evaluating these quotes. Upon completion of this activity, the conferees direct the Secretary of the Air Force to submit to the congressional defense committees an evaluation of potential development and acquisition options for re-engining all or part of the JointSTARS aircraft fleet.

Real-Time Measurement Weight and Balance System

The conferees direct the Under Secretary of Defense, Comptroller, to transfer fiscal year 2005 Air Force Research, Development, Test and Evaluation funding for the "Real-Time Measurement Weight and Balance System" to Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Navy, Line 182, Aviation Improvements.

Initiative Funds

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide quarterly reports beginning the first fiscal quarter after the enactment of this Act to the congressional defense committees detailing the specific programs that are funded from the Quick Reaction Special Projects, the Counter Terrorism Technology Support Program and the Combating Terrorism Technology Task Force funds. The reports should include project descriptions with their respective schedule and funding requirement, transition plans to the services for further development and lessons learned from completed projects. The conferees further direct the Secretary to provide the reports to the Director of National Intelligence and the Secretary of Homeland Security.

Chemical and Biological Defense Program

The conference agreement provides an increase of $21,000,000 for the Chemical and Biological Defense Initiative. The Secretary of Defense is directed to allocate these funds among the programs that yield the greatest gain in our chem-bio defensive posture. The conferees further direct that such funds may not be obligated until 15 days after a report, including a description of projects to be funded, is provided to the congressional defense committees.

Operationally Responsive Space

The conference agreement includes an increase of $39,000,000 for Operationally Responsive Space (ORS) projects. Of this amount, $20,000,000 is only for standardized bus development, and $19,000,000 is only for operationally responsive payload development.

Asymmetric Missile Threat

The conferees are increasingly concerned about the possibility of an asymmetric missile threat against the United States homeland where terrorists would move short-range missiles closer to the United States on sea-based platforms. The conferees recommend $10,000,000 to conduct a comprehensive analysis on the need for and deployment of an asymmetric missile defense capability, including both land and sea-based solutions, against the full range of asymmetric missile threats. Accordingly, the Director of the Defense Intelligence Agency shall provide a report to the congressional defense committees not later than March 1, 2006, which examines this threat and assesses its validity. Based on those findings, the Director of the Missile Defense Agency, in consultation with U.S. Northern Command and U.S. Strategic Command, shall provide a report to the congressional defense committees not later than June 1, 2006, that provides its recommendations for deployment options of an asymmetric missile defense capability that would protect population centers, use mature technologies, and include progressions for spiral technology upgrades that would enhance missile defense capabilities over time.

Kinetic Energy Interceptor

The conference agreement provides $215,952,000 for the Kinetic Energy Interceptor instead of $202,246,000 as proposed by the House and $104,952,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees direct the Missile Defense Agency to execute the program as proposed in the fiscal year 2006 President's Budget.

NFIRE

The conferees encourage the Missile Defense Agency to continue development and mission integration of the deployable NFIRE Kill Vehicle.

High Performance Computing

The Fiscal Year 2002 Defense Appropriations Act directed the Secretary of Defense to submit a development and acquisition plan for a comprehensive, long-range, integrated, high-end computing program to Congress by July 1, 2002. The report, "High Performance Computing for the National Security Community", was submitted to Congress on April 9, 2003. The letter accompanying the report stated that, "Over the next 6 months, the Department will develop an appropriate implementation plan for high-end computing, working in close coordination with other government agencies." The conferees are concerned that the Department has not developed an implementation plan as promised. Therefore, the conferees direct the Office of the Secretary of Defense to submit to Congress no later than 90 days after enactment of this Act a report outlining plans for implementing and funding the Integrated High-End Computing (IHEC) Program and for creating a Joint Program Office to oversee the program. The conferees encourage the Secretary of Defense to include and fully fund a complete IHEC program in the President's Budget for FY 2007.

Identity Authentication

The conferees are aware that the Department of Defense has a pressing need to acquire and deploy systems that authenticate the identities of individuals seeking access to its installations. The conferees believe that acquisition of such systems should be based on sound performance requirements and take advantage of the innovation and capabilities of the commercial marketplace. Such systems should draw on a variety of bona fide data sources (including those maintained by the Department) to permit access only to those who require it.

DEFENSE WORKING CAPITAL FUNDS

The conferees recommend an appropriation of $1,154,940,000 for the Defense Working Capital Funds as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,154,340,000 as proposed by the House.

NATIONAL DEFENSE SEALIFT FUND

The conferees agree to provide a total of $1,089,056,000 for the National Defense Sealift Fund instead of $1,599,459,000 as proposed by the House and $579,954,000 as proposed by the Senate.

T-AKE DRY CARGO AMMUNITION SHIP

The conferees agree to provide $380,143,000 to purchase one T-AKE cargo ship, as requested by the Department of Defense. The House version of the bill included additional funds to purchase one more T-AKE ship, whereas the Senate proposed eliminating funding for this program.

The conferees understand that approving the Department's request will likely cause a break in the contract between the Navy and the shipbuilder. As such, the conferees intend to closely monitor possible contract renegotiations on this program to ensure that any cost increases are justified by legitimate changes in Navy requirements or other legitimate equitable adjustments.

Reprogramming Guidance for the Defense Health Program

Any additional funds provided by the conferees for programs and/or activities above the budget request are to be considered as congressional special interest items for the purpose of the Base for Reprogramming Form (DD 1414). Therefore, each of these items must be submitted to the Subcommittee on Military Quality of Life and Veterans Affairs, and Related Agencies of the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the Subcommittee on Defense of the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate on a DD 1414 at the stated amount.

Reprogramming Guidance for the Direct (In-House) Care Budget Activity

The conferees remain concerned regarding the transfer of funds from Direct (or Inhouse) Care to pay for contractor-provided medical care. To limit such transfers and continue oversight within the Defense Health Program operation and maintenance account, the conferees have included bill language which limits the funds available for Private Sector Care under the TRICARE program subject to prior approval reprogramming procedures. In addition, the conferees also designate the funding for the Direct Care System as a special interest item, as defined elsewhere in this report. Any transfer of funds from the Direct (or In-house) Care budget activity into the Private Sector Care Budget activity will require the Department of Defense to follow prior approval reprogramming procedures. The bill language and accompanying report language included by the conferees should not be interpreted by the Department as limiting the amount of funds that may be transferred to the direct care system from other budget activities within the Defense Health Program.

In addition, the conferees direct the Department of Defense to provide budget execution data for all of the Defense Health Program accounts. Such budget execution data shall be provided quarterly through the DD–COMP(M) 1002 accounting form and delivered to the Subcommittee on Military Quality of Life and Veterans Affairs, and Related Agencies of the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the Subcommittee on Defense of the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate not later than one week after the conclusion of the quarter.

Private Sector Care

During the fiscal year 2006 budget briefs the documentation presented was wrought with errors making it extremely difficult to follow specifics regarding the total program requirement. Therefore, the conferees direct the Department to notify the Subcommittee on Military Quality of Life and Veterans Affairs, and Related Agencies of the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the Subcommittee on Defense of the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate on the movement of dollars within the private sector care budget activity group on a quarterly basis beginning in the first quarter of fiscal year 2006. The quarterly reports are to be delivered not later than one week after the conclusion of the quarter.

GAO Report Request on the Department of Defense Pharmacy Program

The conferees direct that the Government Accountability Office (GAO) conduct a review of the Department of Defense's Pharmacy Program. The review should include, but not be limited to the following: (1) Federal pricing controls implemented for retail pharmacy; (2) pharmacy growth above inflation, increased demand and utilization; (3) comparison of to the National rate and the Department of Defense rate and; (4) assumed savings in fiscal years 2005, 2006 and 2007 from Federal pricing. Further, the review should be made available to the congressional defense committees not later than April 1, 2006.

Peer Reviewed Medical Research Program

The Senate recommended $50,000,000 for a Peer Reviewed Medical Research program. The conferees agree to provide $50,000,000 for this program, and recommend the following projects as candidates for study: advanced proteomics; alcoholism research; autism; blood-related cancer research such as leukemia, lymphoma, and multiple myeloma; childhood asthma; chronic pain and fatigue research; childhood cancer research; diabetes research; Duchenne's disease research; eye and vision research; fibromyalgia; Interstitial Cystitis Syndrome; kidney cancer research; Lupus Research; osteoporosis and bone-related diseases; polycystic kidney disease; pulmonary hypertension; Padget's disease; post traumatic stress disorders; social work research; and autoimmune diseases such as scleroderma and Sjogren's syndrome.

The conferees direct the Department to provide a report by March 1, 2006, on the status of this Peer Reviewed Medical Research Program.

Defense and Veterans Head Injury Program Funding

The conferees are concerned with the management of the funds for the Defense and Veterans Head Injury Program (DVHIP). Therefore the conferees direct that the President's Budget request of $7,000,000 for DVHIP, as well as any other funds directed to this program, be transferred from the Uniformed Services University of the Health Science (USUHS) to the Army Medical Research and Materiel Command (AMRMC) at Fort Detrick beginning in fiscal year 2006.

Blast Injury Prevention, Mitigation, and Treatment Initiative

The Military Health System has seen an increase in the number of traumatic brain and head injuries to servicemembers as a result of ongoing combat operations. Therefore, the conferees have provided $12,600,000 for the Blast Injury Prevention, Mitigation, and Treatment Initiative to increase research, diagnosis and treatment for servicemembers afflicted with these types of injuries. The conferees also expect the Defense and Veterans Head Injury Program (DVHIP) to have a substantial role in the use of these funds as the DVHIP has been an integral part of research, diagnosis, and treatment since 1991.

Smoking and Tobacco Use Cessation

The House and Senate both expressed concern over the costs associated with smoking and tobacco cessation products and that they are not reimbursable under TRICARE Prime. Additionally, the conferees are concerned that the Department has not been aggressively incorporating suggested pilot programs.

The conferees direct the Department to report to the congressional defense committees not later than March 1, 2006 on the Department's plan to address these concerns. The report should include, but not be limited to, the following subjects:

—Pilot projects to be incorporated with the TRICARE Prime benefit;

—Measures that will be taken by the military services to expedite tobacco use prevention and cessation programs available to all military personnel;

—A plan that the Secretary of Defense determines appropriate for improving the out of pocket costs to military personnel for smoking cessation products; and —A plan for continuing the "Healthy Choices for Life" demonstration program.

Directed Mission Upgrades of the Defense Medical Logistics Standard Support System (DMLSS)

The Department of Defense has mandated that its suppliers use Radio Frequency Identification (RFID) on all cases in the supply chain by 2008. For this to happen, RFID technology must be integrated into the DMLSS by January 1, 2007. The conferees are disturbed that the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) mandated this policy initiative while at the same time allowing the TRI—CARE Management Activity to cut the budget for this program in fiscal year 2006. This action reduces the DMLSS development budget for new capabilities and defers development to fiscal year 2010 and deployment to fiscal year 2011.

Therefore, the conferees have provided $4,300,000 to help prevent this program from slipping further and direct the Department to fully fund this initiative in the fiscal year 2007 budget and beyond to ensure the Department's established goal is reached.

Special Mental Health Care—TRICARE South Region

The conferees are aware of the growing need for post traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) and special mental health care treatment and the growing number of Active and Reserve Component soldiers returning to the southeast region requiring such specialized care. The conferees direct the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs, in conjunction with the TRICARE Regional Director for the South to report, not later than March 1, 2006 to the congressional defense committees with a plan to expand existing capabilities to ensure that potential regional PTSD and related mental health challenges in this area are adequately addressed, to include Phoebe Putney Memorial Hospital.

DoD/VA Patient Records

The conferees are aware that the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs do not presently share in real time the medical records of patients that transfer between their two systems, despite existing technology which could allow such sharing. The conferees are concerned that patient care may be compromised as a result and understand that the Navy has proposed a memorandum of understanding (MOU) between Bethesda Naval Hospital and a regional polytrauma VA hospital to allow two physicians at each institution to have unlimited electronic access to the medical records of patients they have shared or are about to share. The conferees direct the Secretaries of Defense and Veterans Affairs to establish a similar system of medical record sharing which will allow physicians at Bethesda, Walter Reed or other DoD medical facilities, and hospitals in the VA system real time access to the records of their patients at each of the other institutions.

The conferees further direct the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to report to the congressional defense committees not later than April 1, 2006 on a plan, including cost, to achieve medical record sharing.

HOME STATION READINESS TRAINING AND LOGISTICS

In this title the conferees recommend $50,000,000,000 as a "bridge fund" in support of ongoing contingency operations related to the Global War on Terror, including $33,217,848,000 in the operation and maintenance accounts. Substantial funding will be required to support continuing combat and security operations in Afghanistan and Iraq. The conferees understand that substantial amounts will be needed as well in support of unit mobilizations, specialized pre-deployment training, transportation to and from the areas of operation, home station recovery and reset, and post-deployment training to ensure recovery to established readiness standards for full spectrum combat operations around the world. Specialized training before deployment, and retraining after deployment, with the associated transportation, base operations, logistical, maintenance and reset costs, though accrued at home station, should be attributed to the continuing combat and peacekeeping operations. To the extent that such training, maintenance and reset activities displace normal peacetime training events, the amounts provided in home station operation and maintenance lines have been reduced. The Department of Defense should allocate title IX operation and maintenance funding accordingly, to ensure full support for pre-deployment and post-deployment operations, as well as for continuing combat and security operations in support of the Global War on Terror.

IRAQ FREEDOM FUND

The conference agreement includes $4,658,686,000 for the Iraq Freedom Fund. Of this amount, $1,360,000,000 is for the IED Defeat Task Force, $3,048,686,000 is for classified activities described further in a classified annex to this report, and $250,000,000 is for emergent needs for the Global War on Terror. Additionally, the conference agreement provides that up to $100,000,000 shall be available for the Department of Homeland Security, "United States Coast Guard, Operating Expenses".

Interoperable Communications in Disaster Response

The conferees recognize the need to ensure rapid and uninterrupted communications between Federal, state, and local first responders and the National Guard. As recently demonstrated in the response to Hurricane Katrina, communications breakdowns limit the Guard's ability to respond effectively and rapidly in either a man-made or natural disaster. The conferees fully support the National Guard Bureau's initiatives to develop interoperable and reliable communications. Of particular interest is the Joint CONUS Communications Support Enterprise team concept. As a part of this initiative, the conferees are aware that the National Guard Bureau has developed a concept called the National Guard Bureau Incident Area Communications Program. This program would deploy a software-based solution that improves interoperability by enabling disparate communications devices and networks to work together. Therefore, the conferees urge the Department of Defense to fully fund this initiative to ensure a robust interoperable solution for the National Guard to meet its first responder communications needs.

Joint Network Nodes

The conferees agree to provide $175,000,000 for procurement of the Joint Network Nodes (JNN) program in title IX, Other Procurement, Army, within the Bridge to Future Networks line. The House and Senate continue to support the procurement of JNN based on the Army requirement to respond to the urgent needs of ground forces for tactical communications. The conferees are concerned, however, that the Army is not evolving its network communications programs at a sufficiently fast rate from JNN to objective WIN-T capability. For example, JNN funding contained in title IX could resource a JNN+ capability that moves network communication capability closer to the WIN-T requirement. Therefore, the conferees direct the Army to submit a report not later than January 15, 2006, detailing its plans to procure evolutionary capability in its network communications programs.

Improvised Explosive Device Countermeasures

The conferees support DoD efforts to provide the strongest possible defense against the Improvised Explosive Device (IED) threat faced in theater, and provide not less than $1,360,000,000 in the Iraq Freedom Fund (IFF) for this purpose. The conferees are aware of several specific Service requirements along these lines and direct the Joint IED Task Force to fully fund validated Army and Marine Corps requirements for Backscatter Radars and related equipment, and H2K ICE Jammers. In addition, the conferees direct the Task Force to provide quarterly updates to the congressional defense committees, to include assessments of the evolving threat posed to war fighters by IEDs, individual Service requirements to counter this threat, and a report on the execution of funds provided to the Joint IED Task Force.

In addition, the conferees recognize and commend the ongoing effort of the Department of Defense to develop the next generation of countermeasures for IEDs. Furthermore, the conferees note that current counter-IED systems deployed in Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom provide an important force protection capability. The conferees, therefore, direct the Department to continue procurement of sufficient quantities of currently deployed counter-IED technologies and, where applicable, to provide those systems with available upgrades.

General Provisions—This Title

The conferees include a general provision (Section 9001) as proposed by the House and the Senate which provides that appropriations made in this title are available for obligation until September 30, 2006, unless otherwise so provided in this title.

The House did not address this matter.

The conferees include a general provision (Section 9012) as proposed by the Senate which designates amounts appropriated or otherwise made available in this title as making appropriations for contingency operations related to the global war on terrorism. The House included such designation in each appropriation account.

CLASSIFIED PROGRAMS

Adjustments to classified programs are addressed in the classified annex accompanying this Joint Explanatory Statement.

REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a report to the congressional defense committees within 30 days of enactment of this legislation on the allocation of the funds within the accounts listed in this chapter. The Secretary shall submit updated reports 30 days after the end of each fiscal quarter until funds listed in this chapter are no longer available for obligation. The conferees direct that these reports shall include: a detailed accounting, by programs and subactivity groups, of obligations and expenditures of appropriations provided in this chapter for the continuation of relief and recovery operations from the storm damage; and a listing of equipment procured using funds provided in this chapter.

The conferees expect that in order to meet unanticipated requirements, the Department of Defense may need to transfer funds within these appropriations accounts for purposes other than those specified in this chapter. The conferees expect the Department to follow normal prior-approval reprogramming procedures should it be necessary to transfer funding between different appropriations accounts in this chapter.

OVERSIGHT OF PROCUREMENT PROGRAMS

The conference agreement provides $1,987,000,000 for extraordinary shipbuilding and ship repair costs and $42,000,000, above the budget request, for production of the Army Armored Security Vehicle (ASV). This funding is intended to cover costs relating to real property damage, including damage to government- and contractor-furnished equipment; cleanup of facilities; business interruption, to include idle payroll; temporary housing and transportation for employees; and additional business expenses, including but not limited to power, security, information technology support, and necessary equipment rentals.

The conferees believe these expenses require special oversight by the Department of Defense and the Congress. Accordingly, the conferees direct that none of the funds provided for "Shipbuilding and Conversion, Navy" or for the Army ASV shall be obligated or expended until 30 days after the Secretary of the Navy or Secretary of the Army, as applicable, submits a report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations certifying that the increased direct and indirect costs relating to contractor-funded programs are: (a) incurred or required to be incurred for hurricane relief; (b) not subject to reimbursement by any third party (e.g., FEMA or private insurer); and (c) directly allocable to the program for which funds are being provided. All such costs shall be subject to review, audit, and validation by appropriate management officials of the military service, including the Government Procurement Contracting Officer and service audit teams. Approved costs will be reimbursed as they are incurred with no application of general and administrative overhead or profit.

The conference agreement includes $7,224,000 for Defense Working Capital Funds for transportation and contingency operations costs for the Defense Logistics Agency, for the replacement of commissary stock and equipment, and for the replacement of equipment for Air Force Working Capital Fund entities.

TRUST FUNDS

SURCHARGE COLLECTIONS, SALES OF COMMISSARY STORES, DEFENSE

The conference agreement includes $44,341,000 for Surcharge Collections, Sales of Commissary Stores, Defense, to rebuild commissaries at Keesler Air Force base and Gulfport Naval Construction Battalion Center.

This funding will provide for healthcare for guard and reserve members activated for duty, replacement of medical supplies and equipment, backfilling deployed medical personnel and increases in private sector care costs.

KEESLER MEDICAL CENTER

Evacuations and damages at military medical facilities along the Gulf Coast demonstrated the need to improve the procedures for inventory management and for medical record management to provide a seamless transition of medical care between facilities.

Within the funds made available for repair and recovery of the Keesler Medical Center, the Air Force is encouraged to continue their initiative of making medical records available electronically for health care providers and for establishing an automated inventory management system using RFID technology.

OFFICE OF THE INSPECTOR GENERAL

The conferees have agreed to provide a total amount of $310,000 for the Office of the Inspector General. Of this amount $30,000 is for the relocation of the Inspector General's office in Slidell, Louisiana, and $280,000 is for replacement and repair of storm damaged equipment in the Inspector General's office, Slidell, Louisiana.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—THIS CHAPTER

Chapter 2 of this title contains five general provisions. A description of the recommended general provisions follows.

The conferees agree to include language which provides for transfer between appropriations of up to $500,000,000 of the funds made available to the Department of Defense in this chapter, and provides for promptnotification to the Congress of each transfer made under this authority. The transfer authority provided in this section is in addition to any other transfer authority available to the Department of Defense.

The conferees agree to include language which provides that military members on active duty in support of hurricanes in the Gulf of Mexico in calendar year 2005 may retain accumulated leave, not to exceed 120 days at the end of fiscal year 2005.

The conferees agree to include language which provides that the Secretary of Defense may prescribe a temporary adjustment in the geographic location rates of the basic allowance for housing within an area declared a major disaster under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Act resulting from hurricanes in the Gulf of Mexico in calendar year 2005. Such temporary adjustment shall be based on the Secretary's redetermination of housing costs and shall not exceed 20 percent of the current rate for an affected area. Members must certify that an increased housing cost has been incurred. No temporary adjustment may be made after September 30, 2006, and assistance may not extend beyond January 1, 2007.

The conferees agree to include language which provides that funds appropriated in this chapter for intelligence activities are deemed to be authorized for purposes of section 504 of the National Security Act of 1947.

The conferees agree to include language that makes general reduction of $737,089,000.

CHAPTER 3

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE—CIVIL

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY

CORPS OF ENGINEERS—CIVIL

The conference agreement provides emergency funding to address water resource projects damaged by Hurricanes Katrina, Rita, Ophelia and Wilma. The funding provided in this chapter is based on Corps of Engineers' estimates of the requirements of all areas of the Nation impacted by these hurricanes. The conferees expect the funds provided herein shall be expended substantially in accordance with those estimates.

INVESTIGATIONS

Funds totaling $37,300,000 are provided to expedite ongoing studies in the areas recently affected by recent hurricanes, as shown below:

Louisiana Coastal Area Ecosystem Restoration, LA	$11,000,000
Hurricane Protection, LA	12,000,000
Hurricane Protection, MS	10,000,000
Plaquemines Parish, Urban Flood Control, LA	1,200,000
St. Bernard Parish Urban Flood Control, LA	1,200,000
St. Charles Parish Urban Flood Control, LA	1,100,000
Southwest Coastal Louisiana, LA	500,000
Bouge Banks, NC	100,000
Hatteras and Ocracoke Islands, NC	100,000
Surf City and North Topsail Beach, NC	100,000

The conference agreement includes $11,000,000 for the Louisiana Coastal Area Ecosystem study. These funds, together with $10,000,000 provided in the Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 2006, provide the amounts necessary to continue the Louisiana Coastal Plan this fiscal year. Within these amounts, funds are provided for hurricane or storm damage assessment, including coastal data collection.

The conference agreement includes a provision that withholds funding provided for the Louisiana Hurricane Protection Study in this Act until the State of Louisiana establishes a single state or quasi-state entity to act as the local sponsor for construction, operation and maintenance for all hurricane, storm damage reduction and flood control projects in the greater New Orleans and southeast Louisiana area. The conferees expect that no funds shall be available for the final report after the completion of the preliminary technical report until a functioning single entity is established by the State to meet local responsibilities for Federal projects.

CONSTRUCTION

Funds totaling $101,417,000 are provided to repair flood and storm damage reduction, commercial navigation and other projects damaged by Hurricanes Katrina, Rita, Ophelia and Wilma.

Citing a lack of authorization, the conferees did not provide the request of $250,000,000 for coastal mitigation; however, a total of $96,000,000 is available in fiscal year 2006 for activities related to improving the Gulf Coast coastal wetlands to reduce the risk of storm damage to the greater New Orleans metropolitan area. In this Act, $11,000,000 is provided to further the Louisiana Coastal study in the Investigations account, together with $10,000,000 provided in the Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 2006. In addition, $75,000,000 is provided in this Act in the Operations and Maintenance account for authorized activities to preserve and maintain existing wetlands, enhance estuarine habitat and provide erosion protection for hurricane protection projects. The conferees encourage the Administration to submit a legislative proposal to the appropriate authorizing committees for full and further consideration.

FLOOD CONTROL, MISSISSIPPI RIVER AND TRIBUTARIES, ARKANSAS, ILLINOIS, KENTUCKY, LOUISIANA, MISSISSIPPI, MISSOURI AND TENNESSEE

Funds totaling $153,750,000 are provided to repair levees; remove hazards to navigation; cover the increased cost of mat laying operations due to storm impacts; repair damaged training works, including dikes; and repair damaged levees to provide protection from riverine flooding resulting from Hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

Funds totaling $327,517,000 are provided to restore navigation channels and harbors to pre-storm conditions and to repair flood damage reduction and other projects in states affected by Hurricanes Katrina, Rita, Ophelia and Wilma. Of this amount, $75,000,000 is provided for authorized operation and maintenance activities to enhance estuarine habitats through monitoring and control of marine and river flow and reef building initiatives and providing foreshore bank protection in the form of revetment and rock placement to protect endangered wetlands and provide erosion protection for hurricane protection projects along the Mississippi River-Gulf Outlet Channel. The expenditure of funds shall be limited to those activities necessary for the protection of existing wetlands, navigation, flood and storm damage reduction projects along the Mississippi River-Gulf Outlet Channel and funds shall not be expended on any project that would otherwise preclude or foreclose any final disposition of the navigation channel; funds are not available to conduct any dredging of the Mississippi River-Gulf Outlet Channel.

FLOOD CONTROL AND COASTAL EMERGENCIES

Funds totaling $2,277,965,000 are provided to continue repairs to flood and storm damage reduction projects in states affected by Hurricanes Katrina, Rita, Ophelia and Wilma. Funds are provided to fund at full Federal expense repairs to non-federal levees and pumps and to construct levees and floodwalls to original design levels rather than pre-storm conditions. Within the funds provided, $75,000,000 shall be available to accelerate completion of authorized projects in the State of Mississippi along the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Further, this amount includes $544,460,000 to accelerate the completion of unconstructed portions of authorized hurricane, storm damage reduction and flood control projects in the greater New Orleans and south Louisiana area, as follows:

New Orleans to Venice, LA	$32,487,000
West Bank and Vicinity, LA	147,614,000
Lake Pontchartrain and Vicinity, LA	120,554,000
Southeast Louisiana, LA	224,755,000
Larose to Golden Meadow, LA	4,026,000
Grand Isle, LA	15,024,000

The conference agreement includes $70,000,000 to prepare for flood, hurricane and other natural disasters and support emergency operations, repairs, and other activities in response to flood and hurricane emergencies, as authorized by law. Funding is provided to cover annual recurring costs of the program as well as costs related to recent natural disasters. The Army Corps of Engineers is directed to include recurring annual funding requirements for this program in its fiscal year 2007 budget request and to address event-related costs in the appropriate emergency supplemental requests.

The conference agreement includes approximately $468,000,000 to reimburse projects from which funds were transferred to meet emergency requirements.

GENERAL EXPENSES

Funds totaling $1,600,000 are provided for additional oversight and management costs associated with Hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

CHAPTER 4

DEPARTMENT OF HOMELAND SECURITY

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY AND EXECUTIVE MANAGEMENT

OFFICE OF POLICY

The conferees agree to clarify Public Law 109–90 does not include an increase of $1,512,000 and 3 full-time equivalent positions for the Embassy Baghdad Initiative requested in the President's Fiscal Year 2006 Budget. Public Law 109–90 does include the transfer of $5,176,000 to the Office of Policy for the Border and Transportation Security Policy Office and Operations staff. Any fiscal year 2005 funding for a Department of Homeland Security (DHS) attaché in Baghdad included in this amount is continued in fiscal year 2006 at the fiscal year 2005 level. The conferees prohibit the use of any funds available to the Department for increasing resources for the Embassy Baghdad Initiative beyond the fiscal year 2005 level without approval of a reprogramming notification submitted pursuant to Section 503 of Public Law 109–90. The conferees provide this clarification to ensure the Department's actions are consistent with the intent of the Committees as indicated in the Statement of Managers accompanying the fiscal year 2006 appropriations conference report. The Department is directed to submit within 15 days of enactment of this Act to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations a fiscal year 2006 program, project, and activity breakdown of the funding and staffing level of the Office of Policy including the $5,176,000 transfer for the Office of Policy.

CUSTOMS AND BORDER PROTECTION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conferees agree to provide $24,100,000 instead of $27,100,000 as proposed by the President to repair and replace critical information technology, equipment, and property damaged by Hurricane Katrina and other natural disasters.

CONSTRUCTION

The conferees agree to provide $10,400,000 for planning, engineering, and other equipment for structures damaged by Hurricane Katrina and other natural disasters instead of $26,700,000 as proposed by the President. The conferees are aware of uncertainty associated with the replacement of various facilities damaged by recent hurricanes and direct Customs and Border Protection to submit to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations a detailed estimate of the total cost of replacing these facilities once relocation sites and total costs are determined. Funds are available until expended.

IMMIGRATION AND CUSTOMS ENFORCEMENT

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conferees agree to provide $13,000,000, instead of $13,848,000 as requested by the President to repair and replace critical information technology, communications equipment, and facilities damaged by Hurricane Katrina and other natural disasters.

UNITED STATES COAST GUARD

OPERATING EXPENSES

The conferees agree to provide $132,000,000 instead of $139,300,000 as requested by the President for clean-up and repair needs at facilities damaged by Hurricane Katrina and other natural disasters; activation of reservists to assist in hurricane recovery efforts; and repair and replacement of equipment, materials, and supplies lost due to these hurricanes. Funds are available until expended.

ACQUISITION, CONSTRUCTION, AND IMPROVEMENTS

The conferees agree to provide $74,500,000 instead of $136,660,000 as proposed by the President for major repair and reconstruction projects at facilities damaged by Hurricane Katrina and other natural disasters, and for damage to vessels currently under construction. The conferees are aware of uncertainty associated with the replacement of the New Orleans Integrated Support Command. The conferees agree to provide funding for the survey, planning, and engineering costs related to this facility and direct the Coast Guard to submit to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations a detailed estimate for the total cost of replacing this facility once a relocation site is determined. Funds are available until expended.

OIL SPILL LIABILITY

The conferees understand over 3,800 oil spills have been caused by Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, with more than 8 million gallons of oil spilled from Hurricane Katrina alone. Currently, oil pollution response costs are being funded from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) Disaster Relief Fund (DRF). However, the DRF will not pay for long-term oil removal costs and natural resource damages, leaving a significant funding gap not addressed in the supplemental request. While oil removal costs and damage claims may be eligible under the Oil Spill Liability Trust Fund (OSLTF), costs related to Hurricane Katrina are expected to easily exceed $1,000,000,000, leaving the existing balance of $750,000,000 in the OSLTF in jeopardy. The Department is directed to provide the House and Senate Appropriations Committees an analysis of the projected impacts to the OSLTF for any Oil Pollution Act removal and damage costs resulting from Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, and a plan to address the expected funding shortfall. This report is due no later than March 15, 2006.

UNITED STATES SECRET SERVICE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conferees agree to provide $3,600,000 for equipment, vehicle replacement, and personnel relocation due to damage caused by Hurricane Katrina and other natural disasters.

OFFICE FOR DOMESTIC PREPAREDNESS

STATE AND LOCAL PROGRAMS

The conferees agree to provide $10,300,000 for replacement equipment for the Prepositioned Equipment Program utilized during Hurricane Katrina.

The conferees agree notification required by Section 508 of Public Law 109-90 shall include any announcements of grant eligibility in which the Department limits the number or type of potential grantees.

Federal Emergency Management Agency

ADMINISTRATIVE AND REGIONAL OPERATIONS

The conferees agree to provide $17,200,000 instead of $87,100,000 as requested by the President to repair and improve warning and crisis communication systems, and to ensure proper controls are in place over the expenditure and management of funds for hurricane response and recovery.

PUBLIC HEALTH PROGRAMS

The conferees are concerned about the National Disaster Medical System (NDMS). The conferees direct the Chief Medical Officer to provide a report to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations by April 30, 2006, outlining the goals of NDMS, the ability of the current program to meet these goals, the resources (people, training, and funding) required to maintain a system design to rapidly meet nationwide disaster medical needs, and the appropriate roles of DHS and the Department of Health and Human Services in the oversight and management of this critical program.

The conferees are aware of FEMA's intention to use the authority provided by Public Law 109–62 to transfer up to $100,000,000 for the NDMS to support medical care as authorized by Public Law 107–188. The conferees direct FEMA to provide to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations by February 28, 2006, a spend plan for the amount transferred, including the amounts obligated and expended as of the date of the report, the methods used for allocating funds, and the rules established regarding the expenses eligible for payment from this appropriation.

DISASTER RELIEF

(TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The conferees agree to transfer $1,500,000 from the Disaster Relief Fund for administrative expenses of the Community Disaster Loan program. This funding is in addition to the $1,000,000 made available for transfer in Public Law 109-88. The conferees agree the Department shall notify the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations no later than 15 days after a community disaster loan has been awarded. Such notification shall include the amount of the loan, a brief assessment of the borrower's financial position, reasons for the necessity of the loan, and a description of the essential services to be provided through the loan.

The conferees believe a comprehensive long-term recovery plan is critical for the rehabilitation of the Gulf Coast and should be implemented as quickly as possible. The conferees direct the Department to provide this plan to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations by February 28, 2006. The plan should be prepared in coordination with state and local officials as well as other Federal agencies involved in recovery efforts.

The conferees are concerned with the lack of guidance on housing assistance. Within two weeks from the date of enactment of this Act, the Director of FEMA shall issue guidance used to determine continued eligibility for housing assistance under the Section 408 program. Consistent with current FEMA regulations, such guidance shall include the extension of assistance if the recipient is unable to afford local housing at the Fair Market Rent level.

GENERAL PROVISION—THIS CHAPTER

Sec. 401. The conferees include a general provision allowing the Secretary of Homeland Security to permit active duty personnel who performed duties in response to the hurricanes to carryover accumulated leave until the end of fiscal year 2007.

CHAPTER 5

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

United States Fish and Wildlife Service

CONSTRUCTION

The conference agreement provides $30,000,000 for construction costs of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service related to Hurricanes Katrina, Rita, Wilma, and Ophelia. These funds will be used for repair and reconstruction and operational costs incurred in responding to and cleaning up from the storms. In addition to repair and reconstruction of Federal facilities, the funds should be used to repay construction projects from which funds were transferred on an emergency basis. They also are available to pay for un-reimbursed overtime and operational costs.

National Park Service

CONSTRUCTION

The conference agreement provides $19,000,000 for construction costs of the National Park Service related to Hurricanes Katrina, Rita, and Wilma. These funds will be used for repair and reconstruction and operational costs incurred in responding to and cleaning up from the storms. In addition to repair and reconstruction of Federal facilities, the funds should be used to repay construction projects from which funds were transferred on an emergency basis. They also are available to pay for un-reimbursed overtime and operational costs.

United States Geological Survey

SURVEYS, INVESTIGATIONS, AND RESEARCH

The conference agreement provides $5,300,000, as requested, for surveys, investigations, and research costs of the United States Geological Survey. The funds are for facility and equipment repair and replacement needs, including stream gage repair and replacement, at Survey sites in the Southeast that were damaged by Hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

Minerals Management Service

ROYALTY AND OFFSHORE MINERALS MANAGEMENT

The conference agreement provides $16,000,000 for royalty and offshore minerals management. The funds are provided for the temporary relocation of the Minerals Management Service's Gulf of Mexico regional office from Louisiana to Houston, TX; including immediate recovery costs to purchase new equipment, locate temporary offices and additional personnel, and operational costs incurred as a result of the hurricanes during the first six months after the events.

Environmental Protection Agency

LEAKING UNDERGROUND STORAGE TANK PROGRAM

The conference agreement provides $8,000,000 for the leaking underground storage tank program. These funds will be used to address the most immediate underground storage tank needs in areas affected by Hurricanes Katrina and Rita: including site assessments of leaking tanks to identify problems and initiate appropriate corrective actions.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Forest Service

STATE AND PRIVATE FORESTRY

The conference agreement provides $30,000,000 for State and private forestry instead of providing the $50,000,000 requested for a new forestry disaster assistance fund. The managers believe that the proposed new fund is unnecessary in that the activities that would be funded, including assistance to timber land owners for debris removal, timber salvage, wildfire mitigation, and wildlife habitat stabilization, are more appropriately funded within authorized activities under the existing State and private forestry account. The funding provided should be used for urgently needed activities associated with Hurricanes Katrina and Rita recovery, clean-up, and restoration. The managers direct the Secretary of Agriculture to notify the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations on the proposed distribution of funds at least ten days before allocating these funds to the field.

NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM

The conference agreement provides $20,000,000 for the national forest system for urgently needed activities associated with Hurricanes Katrina and Rita recovery, clean-up, and restoration. A portion of these funds may be used for hazardous fuels reduction activities on national forest system lands. The managers direct the Secretary of Agriculture to notify the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations on the proposed distribution of funds at least ten days before allocating these funds to the field.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENT AND MAINTENANCE

The conference agreement provides $7,000,000 for capital improvement and maintenance to repair roads and to repair or replace hurricane damaged bridges and other facilities in National Forests affected by Hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

CHAPTER 6

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Employment and Training Administration

TRAINING AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICES

The conference agreement includes a supplemental appropriation of $125,000,000 for the Employment and Training Administration to award national emergency grants related to the consequences of hurricanes in the Gulf of Mexico in calendar year 2005. These funds may be used to replace grant funds previously obligated to the impacted areas.

STATE UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICE OPERATIONS

The conference agreement includes language that extends the availability of funds provided under this heading in Public Law 108–447, which have been allocated to the States of Alabama, Louisiana, and Mississippi. The funding shall remain available for obligation by those States through September 30, 2006 and funds used for automation by those States shall remain available through September 30, 2008.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

ADMINISTRATION FOR CHILDREN AND FAMILIES

SOCIAL SERVICES BLOCK GRANT

The conference agreement includes a supplemental appropriation of $550,000,000 for the Social Services Block Grant (SSBG). The conferees note that the hurricanes in the Gulf of Mexico in calendar year 2005 have imposed extreme demands for social and health care services in affected States. States may use SSBG funds for a wide array of human services.

In addition to other uses, the conferees intend these funds to be available to help meet the health care needs of people affected by the hurricanes in the Gulf of Mexico in calendar year 2005 and lacking health insurance or other adequate access to care, and to help health care "safety net" providers restore and resume their operations. Accordingly, the conferees have included bill language intended to remove any uncertainties as to the eligibility of health care providers and facilities (including mental health providers and facilities) to receive Social Services Block Grant funds from this appropriation. Examples of institutions that could receive these funds include community health centers, rural hospitals and clinics, community mental health centers, public hospitals, and other providers with substantial percentages of uninsured patients. In addition to helping meet health care needs arising from the hurricanes, funds may be made available for repairs or reconstruction needed to allow health centers and similar providers to resume or expand operations, or to help key providers meet salary and other costs associated with resuming or restoring health services.

The conferees are concerned about the mental health impact of the hurricanes in the Gulf of Mexico in calendar year 2005. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) reports that as many as 500,000 Gulf Coast residents might need mental health care. The conferees encourage the Secretary to work with State governments in the region to ensure that adequate funding is available, within the amounts appropriated, for community safety net providers to meet this emerging public mental health crisis.

CHILDREN AND FAMILIES SERVICES PROGRAMS

The conference agreement includes a supplemental appropriation of $90,000,000 for Head Start to serve children displaced by the hurricanes in the Gulf of Mexico in calendar year 2005 and to cover costs associated with renovating Head Start facilities, which were affected by the hurricanes, to the extent that FEMA and insurance companies do not fully cover such costs.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

The conference agreement includes a supplemental appropriation of $750,000,000 for immediate aid to restart school operations and reimburse States for costs already incurred in reopening schools affected by the Gulf hurricanes. This funding is to be distributed to State educational agencies in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Texas for assistance to schools that were impacted by the hurricanes in the Gulf of Mexico in calendar year 2005. The State educational agencies shall provide services and assistance to local educational agencies and nonpublic schools consistent with provisions outlined in section 102 of title IV, division B of this Act.

The conference agreement includes a supplemental appropriation of $5,000,000 for assistance for homeless children and youths displaced by the hurricanes in the Gulf of Mexico in calendar year 2005 consistent with provisions outlined in section 106 of title IV, division B of this Act.

The conference agreement includes a supplemental appropriation of $645,000,000 for temporary emergency impact aid for displaced students during the 2005-2006 school year. This funding is to be distributed to eligible schools that serve students who were displaced by the hurricanes in the Gulf of Mexico in calendar year 2005. Public, private, and charter schools are eligible for assistance consistent with provisions outlined in section 107 of title IV, division B of this Act.

The conference agreement includes a supplemental appropriation of $200,000,000 to assist college students and higher education institutions with unanticipated expenses associated with the hurricanes in the Gulf of Mexico in calendar year 2005. Within the amount provided, $95,000,000 is for the Mississippi Institutes of Higher Learning for additional student financial aid for students and families impacted by the Gulf hurricanes. The conferees intend for these funds to be made available for assistance to any eligible student attending a title IV eligible institution, including independent colleges and universities, private institutions, community colleges, junior colleges, and graduate institutions.

Of the amount provided, $95,000,000 is for the Louisiana Board of Regents, which may be used to provide emergency assistance for student financial assistance, faculty salaries, or any purpose authorized under the Higher Education Act, to institutions of higher education that are located in an area affected by the Gulf hurricanes. The conferees intend for these funds to be used only for authorized purposes at the impacted institutions of higher education; allocated only to affected postsecondary educational institutions that were forced to suspend operations for 30 days or more; and distributed primarily to those institutions demonstrating that they were not able to reopen in existing facilities or fully re-open to pre-Gulf hurricane levels. The conferees intend for these funds to supplement and not supplant any portion of an institution's State support. In allocating these funds, the conferees strongly urge the Board to consult with the presidents or chancellors of the eligible colleges and universities and equitably allocate funding, within 45 days, based only on the need criteria agreed to by these officials.

The Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate request that the Department submit a report not later than March 1, 2006 on the obligation and allocation of these supplemental funds provided under the Higher Education Act.

CHAPTER 7

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION

Military Construction Projects Repaired Using Operation and Maintenance Funds.—The conferees understand that all military construction projects requested by the President which have not been included in the agreement have been, or will be, repaired using operation and maintenance funds, rather than requiring replacement through military construction. Each military Service or Defense agency shall notify the Committees on Appropriations of both Houses of Congress, within seven days after the decision to execute, if a repair project is carried out with operation and maintenance funds in lieu of a project appropriated in this chapter.

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION, NAVY AND MARINE CORPS

The agreement provides $291,219,000, instead of $314,629,000 as proposed in the reallocation request dated October 28, 2005. The funds are provided as follows:

FACILITIES AND EQUIPMENT

(AIRPORT AND AIRWAY TRUST FUND)

The conference agreement provides $40,600,000 for the Federal Aviation Administration's (FAA) facilities and equipment account for emergency hurricane-related response activities. Multiple FAA facilities including control towers, buildings and navigation aids were damaged by the recent hurricanes and need to be repaired or replaced.

Federal Highway Administration

EMERGENCY RELIEF PROGRAM

The conference agreement provides $2,750,000,000 to the Department of Transportation (DOT) for repairing and rebuilding highways, roads, bridges, and trails damaged by Hurricanes Katrina, Rita, Wilma, and prior disasters that are eligible for assistance under the Federal Highway Administration's Emergency Relief (ER) program.

Within the funds provided, up to $629,000,000 is available to repair and reconstruct the I–10 bridge connecting New Orleans and Slidell, Louisiana. These funds may be used to rebuild the bridge to current design standards as allowable under Section 125 of title 23, United States Code.

The funds provided are available until expended. The conference agreement waives the State matching share requirements for all of the ER projects related to these hurricanes and exempts projects for these hurricanes, Hurricane Dennis, and the 2004–2005 winter storms in the State of California from the ER program's $100,000,000 per State per event cap.

The conference agreement allows DOT to spend any excess funds on other ER projects. The conferees permit DOT to promptly allocate up to $550,000,000 of the funds provided to address the existing backlog of ER projects to the extent the funds are needed to contend with damages caused by natural disasters or catastrophic failures from external causes that occurred prior to Hurricane Wilma, provided that such projects are ready to proceed to construction or are otherwise eligible for reimbursement.

Maritime Administration

OPERATIONS AND TRAINING

The conference agreement provides an additional $7,500,000 to the Department of Transportation to repair and reconstruct the Poland Street pier and warehouse in New Orleans, Louisiana, damaged as a result of Hurricane Katrina. TENANT-BASED RENTAL ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement includes $390,299,500 for tenant-based rental assistance. The conferees agree to limit the use of funds to those individuals and families who were receiving federal assistance or were homeless or in emergency shelters in the declared disaster area prior to Hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

Community Planning and Development

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT FUND

The conference agreement includes $11,500,000,000 for necessary expenses related to disaster relief, long term recovery, restoration of infrastructure and mitigation in communities in any declared disaster area in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, and Texas related to Hurricanes Katrina, Rita or Wilma. Not more than five percent of the funds granted may be used for administrative and overhead expenses.

The conference agreement emphasizes the requirement that the States with the most impacted and distressed areas in connection with the Gulf of Mexico hurricanes receive priority consideration in the allocation of funds by HUD.

Of the amounts made available under this heading up to $40,000,000 may be made available for LISC and the Enterprise Foundation for activities authorized under section 4 of the HUD Demonstration Act of 1993 and section 11 of the Housing Opportunity Program Extension Act of 1996.

The conference agreement requires HUD, upon request by the state and a finding by the Secretary that the waiver would not be inconsistent with the overall purpose of the program, to issue certain waivers and to review the waivers after two years. The conference agreement also includes several notification and reporting requirements prior to and during the period in which any waiver is in effect.

The conferees note that the Lower Manhattan Development Corporation (LMDC), which was established as the entity to plan and execute most of the redevelopment of the area impacted by the September 11, 2001 terrorist attack in New York City, has worked well to ensure an effective and efficient use of emergency funds made available for site redevelopment. The conferees encourage States to use the LMDC as a model for implementing the provision in this Act, which mandates that funds allocated under this heading be administered through entities designated by the Governor of each state.

Administrative Provisions

Section 901 permits the Secretary during calendar year 2006 to authorize a public housing agency in the areas most heavily impacted by Hurricanes Katrina and Rita to combine their Capital Fund, Operating Fund and Section 8 tenant-based monies to more effectively assist families receiving assistance prior to Hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

Section 8116 of the Senate bill included $3,913,000,000 for this purpose to remain available until expended. In addition, the Senate included $8,158,589,000 for pandemic influenza in H.R. 3010, the appropriations bill for the Department of Health and Human Services, of which $8,095,000,000 was to remain available until expended.

The conference agreement includes bill language designating $350,000,000 for upgrading State and local response capacity, particularly the planning and exercising of pandemic response plans by State and local officials. Section 8116 of the Senate bill proposed $600,000,000 for this activity. The conferees are aware that any successful response to a pandemic influenza must include an effective response at the State and local levels. This will require pre-established partnerships and collaborative planning by public health officials, law enforcement officials, hospital administrators, and community leaders, who have considered a broad range of scenarios and participated in realistic response exercises. These planning and response exercises should enable public health and law enforcement officials to establish procedures and locations for quarantine, surge capacity, diagnostics, and communication. The conferees intend that most of these funds be put toward planning and exercises. The conferees intend that these funds be provided accompanied by established benchmarks and that a portion of the funding be made available based on meeting performance objectives at both the State and local levels.

The conference agreement includes bill language designating $50,000,000 for laboratory capacity and research at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). Section 8116 of the Senate bill included $125,000,000 for this purpose. The conferees intend that a portion of these funds go to address a critical lack of influenza laboratory capacity, which has resulted in delays in processing influenza virus samples and the sharing of DNA sequence information with outside laboratories in a timely manner. The conferees also recognize that the proper laboratory and research assets are vital to definitively characterize virus strains and determine best practices among protective public health measures. Finally, the conferees encourage the development of an evidence base for the effectiveness of policies and technologies to reduce respiratory disease transmission, modeling means of social distancing, and accelerating the development of rapid field diagnostic tests suitable for both domestic and international use, particularly use in developing nations.

The conference agreement includes bill language designating $246,000,000 for international activities, disease surveillance, vaccine registries, research, and clinical trials. $150,000,000 of this amount is designated in bill language to CDC and is available until expended to carry out global and domestic disease surveillance, laboratory diagnostics, rapid response and quarantine. The conferees recognize that increased international surveillance to track influenza strains, implementation of surveillance and quarantine measures at U.S. points-of-entry, and enhanced domestic surveillance are key elements to the pandemic response plan. An integrated global and domestic surveillance and control system will serve to slow introduction of a pandemic influenza strain into the general population, thereby increasing the amount of time available for preparing and deploying appropriate countermeasures.

The balance of the funds provided, $2,750,000,000 are available to support, at the Secretary's discretion, other core preparedness activities, such as expanding the domestic production capacity of influenza vaccine, developing and stockpiling pandemic vaccine, and stockpiling antivirals and other medical supplies necessary to protect and preserve lives in the event of an outbreak of pandemic influenza.

The conference agreement does not contain specific earmarks of $3,080,000,000 for the stockpiling of antivirals and medical supplies, $33,000,000 for global surveillance, and $75,000,000 for risk communication as was included in section 8116 of the Senate bill.

The conferees encourage CDC to partner with industry to ensure it has the proper diagnostic "surge capacity" in place for both surveillance and pandemic response. The conferees also request that the Secretary be prepared to report on a plan for using diagnostics in early-stage clinical response to an emerging pandemic during the hearings on the fiscal year 2007 budget.

The conferees believe that HHS should give priority to research and development activities that could realistically be translated into vaccine production or pandemic detection, diagnosis, or treatment regimes in the near to medium term. The conferees encourage HHS to allocate funding to such areas as vaccine development, testing, and production, including cell culture technologies and cell line development; antivirals, including dosing, timing, and efficacy screening; alternative vaccine technologies, including synthetic vaccines and vaccines composed of virus-like particles; antiviral delivery mechanisms; improved diagnostics and surveillance tools for influenza; enhanced tools and methods for the molecular analysis of viruses, virus subtypes, and host immunological response; antigen-sparing, heterosubtypic immunity protective measures; and research into modes of influenza transmission. The Secretary is strongly encouraged to use the simplified acquisition authorities provided under sections 319F-1 and 319F-2 of the Public Health Service Act in awarding contracts, grants, and cooperative agreements.

The conferees support the elaboration of novel adjuvant, antigen-sparing and multivalent technologies that can bolster the effectiveness and scope of vaccines based on adaptive or innate immunological response.

The conferees are aware of the key role migratory bird tracking has played in predicting the spread of avian influenza. The conferees encourage CDC to ensure that this important activity is part of its surveillance activities.

The conferees understand that smoking substantially increases both the incidence and severity of influenza because it compromises the upper respiratory system. One study found that smoking more than doubles the risk of developing clinical influenza. The conferees encourage CDC to provide information about the link between smoking and an increased risk for influenza infection and severity of illness through existing quitlines and to collaborate with other countries to assess the role of smoking in flu epidemics.

The conferees encourage HHS to procure for the Strategic National Stockpile essential supplies that may be needed in the event of a pandemic including syringes, ventilators, respirators, diagnostic equipment, surgical masks, and gloves.

To prevent co-infection, the conferees urge the Secretary to promote the widespread vaccination against seasonal influenza.

The conferees encourage the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services to establish standards for the measurement of use by beneficiaries under the Medicare and Medicaid programs of adult immunizations for influenza and to conduct a study to determine the feasibility and advisability of including adult immunization for influenza as a performance measure under quality initiatives conducted by the Secretary under the Medicare and Medicaid programs. The study should also consider as a requirement of accreditation of a provider of services compliance with recommended adult immunizations.

The conferees direct the Secretary to provide on a semi-annual basis to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees a report identifying the disbursements of funds received under this heading and a listing of the governments, companies and organizations that received funding. The report should include the amount and purpose of each grant or other form of assistance. Finally, the report should include the cumulative obligations by activity of the funds made available under this heading for pandemic preparedness, as well as any remaining unobligated balances.

(h) BUFFER ZONES.—Congress does not intend for the designation of the Cedar Mountain Wilderness Area to lead to the creation of protective perimeters or buffer zones around the wilderness area. The fact that nonwilderness activities or uses can be seen or heard within the wilderness area shall not, of itself, preclude such activities or uses up to the boundary of the wilderness area.

(i) RELEASE FROM WILDERNESS STUDY AREA STATUS.—The lands identified as the Browns Spring Cherrystem on the map entitled "Proposed Browns Spring Cherrystem" and dated May 11, 2004, are released from their status as a wilderness study area, and shall no longer be subject to the requirements of section 603(c) of

"(A) contact between the penis and the vulva, and for purposes of this subparagraph contact involving the penis occurs upon penetration, however slight; or

"(B) the penetration, however slight, of the genital opening of another by a hand or finger or by any object, with an intent to abuse, humiliate, harass, or degrade any person or to arouse or gratify the sexual desire of any person.

"(2) SEXUAL CONTACT.—The term 'sexual contact' means the intentional touching, either directly or through the clothing, of the genitalia, anus, groin, breast, inner thigh, or buttocks of another person, or intentionally causing another person to touch, either directly or through the clothing, the genitalia, anus, groin, breast, inner thigh, or buttocks of any person, with an intent to abuse, humiliate, or degrade any person or to arouse or gratify the sexual desire of any person.

"(3) GRIEVOUS BODILY HARM.—The term 'grievous bodily harm' means serious bodily injury. It includes fractured or dislocated bones, deep cuts, torn members of the body, serious damage to internal organs, and other severe bodily injuries. It does not include minor injuries such as a black eye or a bloody nose. It is the same level of injury as in section 928 (article 128) of this chapter, and a lesser degree of injury than in section 2246(4) of title 18.

"(4) DANGEROUS WEAPON OR OBJECT.—The term 'dangerous weapon or object' means—

"(A) any firearm, loaded or not, and whether operable or not;

"(B) any other weapon, device, instrument, material, or substance, whether animate or inanimate, that in the manner it is used, or is intended to be used, is known to be capable of producing death or grievous bodily harm; or

"(C) any object fashioned or utilized in such a manner as to lead the victim under the circumstances to reasonably believe it to be capable of producing death or grievous bodily harm.

"(5) FORCE.—The term 'force' means action to compel submission of another or to overcome or prevent another's resistance by—

"(A) the use or display of a dangerous weapon or object;

"(B) the suggestion of possession of a dangerous weapon or object that is used in a manner to cause another to believe it is a dangerous weapon or object; or

"(C) physical violence, strength, power, or restraint applied to another person, sufficient that the other person could not avoid or escape the sexual conduct.

"(6) THREATENING OR PLACING THAT OTHER PERSON IN FEAR.—The term 'threatening or placing that other person in fear' under paragraph (3) of subsection (a) (rape), or under subsection (e) (aggravated sexual contact), means a communication or action that is of sufficient consequence to cause a reasonable fear that non-compliance will result in the victim or another person being subjected to death, grievous bodily harm, or kidnapping.

"(7) THREATENING OR PLACING THAT OTHER PERSON IN FEAR.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—The term 'threatening or placing that other person in fear' under paragraph (1)(A) of subsection (c) (aggravated sexual assault), or under subsection (h) (abusive sexual contact), means a communication or action that is of sufficient consequence to cause a reasonable fear that non-compliance will result in the victim or another being subjected to a lesser degree of harm than death, grievous bodily harm, or kidnapping.

"(B) INCLUSIONS.—Such lesser degree of harm includes—

"(i) physical injury to another person or to another person's property; or

"(ii) a threat—

"(I) to accuse any person of a crime;

"(II) to expose a secret or publicize an asserted fact, whether true or false, tending to subject some person to hatred, contempt or ridicule; or

"(III) through the use or abuse of military position, rank, or authority, to affect or threaten to affect, either positively or negatively, the military career of some person.

"(8) BODILY HARM.—The term 'bodily harm' means any offensive touching of another, however slight.

"(9) CHILD.—The term 'child' means any person who has not attained the age of 16 years.

"(10) LEWD ACT.—The term 'lewd act' means—

"(A) the intentional touching, not through the clothing, of the genitalia of another person, with an intent to abuse, humiliate, or degrade any person, or to arouse or gratify the sexual desire of any person; or

"(B) intentionally causing another person to touch, not through the clothing, the genitalia of any person with an intent to abuse, humiliate or degrade any person, or to arouse or gratify the sexual desire of any person.

"(11) INDECENT LIBERTY.—The term 'indecent liberty' means indecent conduct, but physical contact is not required. It includes one who with the requisite intent exposes one's genitalia, anus, buttocks, or female areola or nipple to a child. An indecent liberty may consist of communication of indecent language as long as the communication is made in the physical presence of the child. If words designed to excite sexual desire are spoken to a child, or a child is exposed to or involved in sexual conduct, it is an indecent liberty; the child's consent is not relevant.

"(12) INDECENT CONDUCT.—The term 'indecent conduct' means that form of immorality relating to sexual impurity which is grossly vulgar, obscene, and repugnant to common propriety, and tends to excite sexual desire or deprave morals with respect to sexual relations. Indecent conduct includes observing, or making a videotape, photograph, motion picture, print, negative, slide, or other mechanically, electronically, or chemically reproduced visual material, without another person's consent, and contrary to that other person's reasonable expectation of privacy, of—

"(A) that other person's genitalia, anus, or buttocks, or (if that other person is female) that person's areola or nipple; or

"(B) that other person while that other person is engaged in a sexual act, sodomy (under section 925 (article 125)), or sexual contact.

"(13) ACT OF PROSTITUTION.—The term 'act of prostitution' means a sexual act, sexual contact, or lewd act for the purpose of receiving money or other compensation.

"(14) CONSENT.—The term 'consent' means words or overt acts indicating a freely given agreement to the sexual conduct at issue by a competent person. An expression of lack of consent through words or conduct means there is no consent. Lack of verbal or physical resistance or submission resulting from the accused's use of force, threat of force, or placing another person in fear does not constitute consent. A current or previous dating relationship by itself or the manner of dress of the person involved with the accused in the sexual conduct at issue shall not constitute consent. A person cannot consent to sexual activity if—

"(A) under 16 years of age; or

"(B) substantially incapable of—

"(i) appraising the nature of the sexual conduct at issue due to—

"(I) mental impairment or unconsciousness resulting from consumption of alcohol, drugs, a similar substance, or otherwise; or

"(II) mental disease or defect which renders the person unable to understand the nature of the sexual conduct at issue;

"(ii) physically declining participation in the sexual conduct at issue; or

"(iii) physically communicating unwillingness to engage in the sexual conduct at issue.

"(15) MISTAKE OF FACT AS TO CONSENT.—The term 'mistake of fact as to consent' means the accused held, as a result of ignorance or mistake, an incorrect belief that the other person engaging in the sexual conduct consented. The ignorance or mistake must have existed in the mind of the accused and must have been reasonable under all the circumstances. To be reasonable the ignorance or mistake must have been based on information, or lack of it, which would indicate to a reasonable person that the other person consented. Additionally, the ignorance or mistake cannot be based on the negligent failure to discover the true facts. Negligence is the absence of due care. Due care is what a reasonably careful person would do under the same or similar circumstances. The accused's state of intoxication, if any, at the time of the offense is not relevant to mistake of fact. A mistaken belief that the other person consented must be that which a reasonably careful, ordinary, prudent, sober adult would have had under the circumstances at the time of the offense.

"(16) AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE.—The term 'affirmative defense' means any special defense which, although not denying that the accused committed the objective acts constituting the offense charged, denies, wholly, or partially, criminal responsibility for those acts. The accused has the burden of proving the affirmative defense by a preponderance of evidence. After the defense meets this burden, the prosecution shall have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the affirmative defense did not exist.".
